"I am 77 years old, and for 35 years have worked on the P. C. & St. L. R. R. Also a Civil War Veteran. I suffered from a general nervous breakdown and would have such weak, dizzy spells I would have to go to bed for a day at a time. When visiting friends in Bradford, Ohio, an old doctor recommended that I try Vinol. That very day I bought a bottle and continued to take it regularly. It has done me a world of good, built me up so I feel stronger in every way, and have gone back to work again, and I want to recommend Vinol to anyold comrade or aged person who needs strength for it is a grand medicine." W. H. Bowers, Steubenville, Ohio.

The reason Vinol is so beneficial to old people is because it contains the very elements needed to replace decilining strength with renewed vigor, viz.: the medicinal elements of fresh cod livers, without oil, peptonate of from. beef peptone and a mild tonic wine.

Wickersham, who is head of the large Bible class of St. John's Lutheran Sunday School and made the principal address on "Luther Day." He not only discussed the great reformer and his works, but shook hands with several hundred people who expressed their pleasure at having him with them. An interesting incident of the meeting was Governor Brumbaugh's exhibit of a volume printed in 1527, bound in hog leather, with handmade brass clasps and containing among other things some of the original manuscripts of Luther himself. In addition to the Luther tracts bound in the volume was the life of John Huss with an introduction by Luther. The interesting volume was inspected with great interest by all present at the close of the service. Governor Brumbaugh explained that Luther was the first advocate of compulsory education and told how the reformer was led to translate the Bible into the language which would be understandable by the people. The "home work credit" idea will be worked out more generally during the coming year, too, according to Prof. Shambaugh. By this plan the boy or girl is given credit for farm or domestic work at home as well as for the theoretical work in the school. Superintendent Shambaugh said he has been more or less disappointed at the lack of interest in the corn contest. "Many of the teachers told me'said he, "that the boys' fathers laughed at them when they asked for a small piece of ground to till. To my mind the teacher personally should have gone to the pareht and explained the situation. Knew Little of Antecedents

Dauphin county's first annual school corn contest will be finally decided at the meeting of the county school directors' convention in February.

Prof. F. E. Shambaugh, county superintendent, announced this plan to-day in explaining the system of judging by elimination in order to determine which of the scores of young student farmers of the county have produced the best specimen of corn. The same system will be followed out every year.

Friday, December 3, will be "Pats"

then that he took the name of Washington, when forced to enroll under some title.

Later he was engaged as a house reach Hampton Institute, 500 miles away.

Arriving at Richmond, penniless and 85 miles from his destination, he got work along the James River docks. He again saved some money and reached Hampton with '50 cents in his pocket. There he swept and dusted rooms and soon 'the teachers were attracted by his earnestness.

No man knew the troubles of the reconstruction period better than Booker T. Washington, and he was always frank to discuss them. It was his very frankness as to the shortcomings of his race that earned for Washington said that the sight of ignorant negroes in the pulpits and in the public offices at that time, finally spurred him, on to educate himself so that he could teach others. He saw that his race must be taught to work.

Becomes a Teacher

Becomes a Teacher

Becomes a Teacher

The first success of Washington's life came in the late 70's, when he was made a teacher at Hampton. Then came a greater one. The white people of the "Black Belt" in Alabama had decided that the negro needed educating and sent to Hampton for a man to take charge. The heads of the pioneer Virginia institution picked out the only man who could assume the responsibilities of that task. He was Booker T. W. hington.

Washington began in Tuskegee in 1881 with a small county appropriation, a shanty and an abandoned church. His first aids were an exslaveholder and an ex-slave. The first recitation room was made from an old henhouse on the place, and Washington told often with a chuckle how an old darky he had enlisted to help him clear out the place, remarked that he never before had "cleared out a henhouse in broad daylight."

At the end of the first year Washington had thirty pupils at the school. He had to "hunt up" his people. His greatest opposition came from his own race. They looked upon education as a means of gaining a living without working. He then hit upon his great plan of vocational education and decided to teach his race how to work as well as read. He needed a farm, and finally bought an abandoned plantation for $500, paying down $250, more money than he had ever seen before.

This came from his old teacher.

Any soap will clean your skin—a bar of laundry soap will do if you do not care what becomes of your complexion. But you know that laundry soap contains harsh, drying alkali that would ruin your skin and hair, so you never think of using it for your toilet.

Many toilet soaps contain this same injurious alkali. Resinol Soap contains absolutely no free alkali, and to it are added the Resinol medication. This gives it soothing, healing properties which clear the complexion, comfort tender skins and keep the hair rich and lustrous.

To those who may fear for the future of the institution, now that its maker is done, the words of Washington a few years ago may be of more than passing interest. He said:

"Somehow Tuskegee has kept going and pald its debts. Somehow it will keep on doing so."

It has been said that Washington did more than any other man to break down the prejidices between whites and blacks. He made friends among the former as easily, if not more easily, than with the latter. He was the friend and guest of such men as Andrew Carnegie, Charles W. Ellot, Robert C. Why is man and woman, half the time, feeling nervous, despondent, worried; some days headachy, dull and unstrung; some days really incapacitated by illness.

If we all would practice the drinking of phosphated hot water before breakfast, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of thousands of half-sick, anaemic-looking souls with pasty, muddy complexions we should see, crowds of happy, healthy, rosey-cheeked people everywhere. The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste which it accumulates under our present mode of living. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the system nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out, else it ferments and forms ptomaine-like poisons in the bowels which are absorbed into the blood.

Just as necessary as it is to clean the ashes from the furnace each day, before the fire will burn bright and hot, so we must each morning clear the inside organs of the previous day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and the inside organs of the previous day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and women, whether sick or well, are advised to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of washing out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the indigestible material, waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Millions of people who had their turn at constipation, billous attacks, acid stomach, nervous days and sleepless nights have become real cranks about the morning inside-bath. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not cost much at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate to anyone, its cleansing, sweetening and freshening effect upon the system.—Advertisement.
