Our Library Table

A FEW MINUTES WITH THE LATEST BOOKS & MAGAZINES

My library was duked out large enough.—"The Tempest, Shakespeare. Little Verses and Big Names. A veritable melting-pot of personal anecdotes, fearful attempts at rhymes and jingles, business axioms, moral aphorisms, etc., written in the spirit of charity by men who are all notabilities in some walk of life, be it as statesman, actor, soldier, musician, scientist, or what-not. Herein lies the value of the book; it has been compiled and is being sold with the sole purpose of providing milk for sick babies and for the maintenance of a visiting nurse, and all the proceeds from its sale will go for these two purposes. (George H. Doran Co., $2.00 net.)

The spirit of tender compassion which represents democratic America is clearly evidenced in the willing eagerness which was shown by the contributors, among whom are numbered President Wilson, James Whitcomb Riley, Arnold Bennett, Charles Dana Gibson and Mrs. Vernon Castle, who with others make up a most astonishing list of contributors, probably the most unique gathering into one book that has ever been consummated. Incidentally it is a very interesting book for reference, for a great deal can be judged as to a man's character by the attitude which is shown in his writings, humorous as well as serious.

War Letters from the Living Dead Man, by Elsa Barker. (Mitchell Kennedy, $1.25 net.)

Being further communications from "X," written down by the author. The last message from "X" was received by Mrs. Barker in July of the past summer. "X" is, according to her statement, a former Judge who lived in California, now inhabiting the spirit world, but able to communicate with this world through some medium of which the ordinary man knows nothing. As an exponent of occult philosophy Mrs. Barker is unsurpassed, and no one, strangely enough, has doubted her complete sincerity in her belief in the personal identity of her source of inspiration. The success of the book has been demonstrated by the publication of large editions in this country and England, to say nothing of the translations into Dutch, Swedish, Italian, German and French. Whether you are a firm unbeliever or merely an unconvinced agnostic with reference to the spirit world, that reference about which there is so much conjecture and so little real knowledge, at least you will not be so complacent in your belief, whatever it may be, after you have read Mrs. Barker's book.

The two major ideas that seem to dominate the "Letters from a Living Dead Man" are the mystery of good and evil (love and hate) and the brotherhood of man. Read several of the extracts which appear therein and if you are interested in spirit communication, you will not be satisfied with these few statements of "X":

"Would you avoid a loved one, then never dare to hate him. The soul has pity when the brain is pitiless; the faith of the soul may be strongest when the mind is weak with doubt."

"The soul of the brain that hates you keeps watch when the brain is still; it wipes with its vapory hand the tear-drops from your eyes."

"Be kind to him who loves you, for love is a helpless waif; if you drive it from the heart, it can only wander alone."

"Be kind to him who hates you, for his waif is wandering alone."

Jacob, a Lad of Nazareth, by Mabel Gifford Shine. In most attractive form is given here the life of Christ, and the beauty of his character is clearly revealed. The story will appeal to old and young, being told from the standpoint of the playmates of Jesus, during his boyhood, and later his manhood. The author's simple and pleasing style carries you away in a strangely stirring way by mental association with a Jesus who lacks that intangible, ethereal vagueness that is generally associated with his name in the lay mind. The author has refrained from picturing the agonies of the Crucifixion and the tragic events which preceded it. (Rand, McNally & Co., $1.00.)

POT-POURRI

Inimitable pen portraits of the real Longfellow, the real Walt Whitman, and other celebrated American men of letters, by Gamaliel Bradford; Prof. William Lyon Phelps' discussion of the novel in English from Richardson and Fielding to Kipling, Hardy, Tarkington and Winston Churchill; and other popular and valuable articles will in the near future feature "The Bookman," published monthly by Dodd, Mead & Company, New York.

E. Sutton's poem, "In Praise of Ye Pipe," in the Christmas Scribner, is a regular smokers' classic. The first stanza will make many think of some old friendly brier:

"Ye wise Man doubts ye Cigarette, and all we Wiles of these, Nor fills his Belowes up with Reeke, Ice make his Pant and Wheeze, But Cleaveth toe ye Homely Pipe—his Lips will not enfolde Ye fat Vulgarian Cigar bedizened Red and Golde."

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER

Flower Fairies, by Clara Ingram Judson. A collection of dainty stories dealing with fairies and flowers in days of long ago. Here the little reader learns how the pretty forget-me-nots came by their name and much other delightful lore about the flowers. Illustrated by M. W. Enright. (Rand, McNally & Co., $1.00.)

When I Was Little, by Ethel M. Kelley. A collection of poems permeated with the spirit of youth, by an author who is in sympathy with children and writes in a way that rings true to them. The book is also of interest to the adult who recalls the days when he played "hooky" and went swimming. (Rand, McNally & Co., $1.75.)

Mamma's Angel Child in Toyland, by Marie C. D. Sadler. You all know "The Angel child—of piquant face—for whom."

"When after some outlandish thing You think a shaking would be good She turns on you those injured eyes— And then you wouldn't if you could," as Helen Bingham puts it. In this book she takes a wonderful journey to Toyland with her pet elephant, and with bated breath you will follow her. (Rand, McNally & Co.)

THAT "HYMN OF HATRED"

"Ernst Lissauer's 'Hymn of Hate,' which has been taught in the public schools of Germany, coupled with the 'Gott strafe England' madness," says Cartoons Magazine, "may well lead one to ask: 'Whence this orgy of hatred? Is it of the heart or of the head?' Punch's famous cartoon of a German family indulging in their morning hatred brings the subject into the ridicule that it deserves. Nobody can be expected to burst with hatred like a venomous toad. To cherish a persistent hatred is unnatural. Even the author of the much-quoted 'Hymn' is said to be sorry that he ever wrote it; like the author of 'The Purple Cow,' he has repudiated his masterpiece. Meanwhile, Germany claims that not only England but all the world hates her. She has made this world hate almost a boast."

CHET MOLEHILL

The townspeople call Chet Molehill a character. By profession he is a handy man. Men who are urged to do something around "the place" always say, "Oh, get Chet Molehill to do it." If

Chet can be lured away from his seat on an empty box he will mow a lawn, hang a screen door, turn an ice-cream freezer, get up on a ladder and whitewash a kitchen ceiling, beat rugs, put down straw matting, wash windows, clean a well, work in the garden, or shovel snow.

He prefers to work around the livery stable where there is more going on and no woman "to boss" him. Chet can always find the coolest spot in summer and the warmest corner in winter. All the children like Chet. He makes baskets out of peach stones for the little girls and whittles out quite beautiful boats and things for boys.—Helena Smith Dayton in Cartoons Magazine.

"WHEN MY BABY WAS SICK"

One Minute Interviews with Mothers Whose Children are Now Well and Strong

"My baby had a bad cold, but Father John's Medicine cured her." (Signed) Mrs. Ida M. Butler, 37 King St., Waterville, Me.

"Leona Rose, my baby girl, has been greatly benefited by Father John's Medicine. She takes it whenever she has a cold or cough." (Signed) Mrs. Chas. M. Chadima, 837 So. 4th St., Cedar Rapids, Ohio.

"My little girl, four years old, had bronchitis and got no relief until I gave her Father John's Medicine." (Signed) Mrs. W. N. Robertson, Elrama, Pa.

"My two children had whooping cough and were pale and run down and Father John's Medicine made them well and strong." (Signed) Mrs. Delvidia Fortin, 26 Oak St., Brunswick, Me.

Father John's Medicine is a safe medicine for children, when they have a cold or cough or are run down, because it does not contain alcohol or dangerous drugs.

"Be kind to him who hates you, for his waif is wandering alone."

KNOW IT WELL

Familiar Feature Well Known to Hundreds of Harrisburg Citizens. A familiar burden in many homes. The burden of a "bad back." A lame or weak or an aching back. Often tells you of kidney pills. Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Here is Harrisburg testimony. Mrs. A. H. Fogle, 2145 N. Fifth St., Harrisburg, Says: "During the ten years I have been troubled more or less by my kidneys. I used to have so much misery across my kidneys that I could hardly endure it. My kidneys were weak and at night caused me much annoyance. Doan's Kidney Pills soon made a great improvement in my condition. As soon as my kidneys are out of order now, I take a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills and the results are always most satisfactory."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Fogle had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.
