Improvement Helped Plans
Five years ago a similar parade was held here on Thanksgiving Day and it was a grand success. Two years ago an Old Home Week celebration was held and the firemen again took a prominent part. Several weeks ago some of the members of the various companies got together and talked of the success of the other events and the outcome was that another great display was planned for Thanksgiving Day. Renewed vigor was thrown into the plans as the result of a one-night celebration here held a month ago.

Merchants whose places of business are along the main thoroughfare, Locust street, decided they wanted more light. Almost all of these men are members of the Merchants' Association, one of the town's live wire organizations, and with the association's ald more light had to come. Light standards, as a result, were placed on both sides of the street from one end of the business section to the other and when the lights were turned on a big celeration was held. Thousands of perbaration was held.

ards, as a result, were placed on both sides of the street from one end of the business section to the other and when the lights were turned on a big celebration was held. Thousands of persons were drawn to the center of the borough both from Columbia and the surrounding towns and the occasion was a gala event. The interest taken in the improvement led the various Thanksgiving Day committees to work harder and the success of their efforts will be seen Thursday.

Advertising Columbia

Columbians, for the past several years, have had but one aim, and that is town betterment. The celebration Thursday is in line with this aim, inasmuch as it is a great advertisement for the town and shows in a large measure the spirit of the town's people. Capitalists never fail to visit a well-advertised town in seeking sites for the establishment of new industries and the value of public spirit in Columbia is shown by the number of industries which have been founded there in recent years. The Merchants' Association at the present time is planning a big publicity campaign, and this, itis expected, will be inaugurated a short time after Thursday's big parade has passed.

Clepper is Chairman

When the firemen interested in the big Thanksgiving Day parade first met it was unanimously decided that Henry B. Clepper, for ten years president of the Keystone Truck and Chemical Company and the secretary of the general committee which carried the Old Home Week celebration to success in 1913, should be made chairman of the general committee. Mr. Clepper accepted the place and has been one of the busiest men in the town since. Charles Shierly, of the Columbia company, and William Cashore, of the Shawnee, were elected vice-chairmen. Samuel McCracken, of the Visilant, was made secretary, and George Mann, of the Susquehanna, was chosen treas urer. Mr. Clepper then named a number of subcommittees to look after the details.

Parade Moves at 2.30

The big parade on Thursday afternoon will start promptly at 2.30 o'clock and will be made up of five divisions, each division containing visiting fire companies and one local company. At the head will be a quartet of buglers and these will be followed by twenty-five fire police, five from each local company. Fire police are on duty here during fires and in the line Thursday they will carry maces which they use in preserving order and ropes with which the crowds are kept back at fires. Following the fire patrol will be Colonel E. C. Shannon. chief marshal: Lieutenant Harry W. Zeamer, chief of staff, and the following aids: Charles L. Gohn, of the Columbia company; Blaine E.
