GIRL STABBED BY UNKNOWN MAN

Called to Door at Her Home in Mechanicsburg and Slashed With Knife

Mechanicsburg, Nov. 26. — Miss Elsie Kemper of East Allen street, made a narrow escape from serious injury or death last evening, when upon answering a ring at the door bell, she was stabbed by a man on her left side, near the heart. Miss Kemper says she does not know the man, who wore dark glasses and asked her if she had been to a party the night before. Upon replying "yes," he asked her to go with him to Harrisburg. When she replied "no" to that, he said: "Well, then, you'll go with no one else," and he lunged at her with the knife, slashing her clothing, but making only a flesh wound. Her screams brought her parents to the scene, who picked her up in a daze and frightened condition. The man disappeared and the police have no clue to his identity.

Several weeks back, we mentioned to a few of our business friends, who we feel free to say, believe in us, that we would hold a sale of dresses—but the unusually large business that came our way in the coat and also in the suit department prevented us from attempting such a sale.

Firstly—Because it would interfere with regular business, which would be a great loss to us.

Secondly—It would have been impossible to give the dress customers the attention they deserve.

A "FULL" DAY IT WAS INDEED

That's Why Harrisburg Rose a Bit Reluctantly From Its Bed Today

If Harrisburg rose a bit reluctantly from its bed this morning it was because it disliked to get down to business after a mighty full—literally and figuratively—speaking—Thanksgiving Day.

Folks put in the day largely as per schedule. The weather man kept his promise in such a way as to add to the pleasure of thousands who attended the big High School game on the island, or preferred to promenade about to "settle" the big dinner of the day. The church services were largely attended. The trend of the times was touched upon in more than one sermon, but the real keynote, perhaps, was sounded by the Rev. Dr. George Edward Hawes, pastor of Market Square Presbyterian Church, who spoke on the nation's need to prepare for its future responsibilities in connection with the great war.

Thousands flocked to the island

Ten Years to Build Up Defenses, Says Hammond

New York, Nov. 26. — John Hays Hammond, Jr., member of the aeronautical division of the naval advisory board who has just returned from a journey in Europe to learn how the unpreparedness of the Entente Allies had affected them, declares that the United States should have at least 2,000 aeroplanes ready to be sent into the air at a moment's notice. He said:

"It will take 10 years to build up our defense. When the war began France had 25,000 officers. Now she has 100,000, and that is not enough. At least that number would be necessary to put the United States in condition to meet a first-class power."
