CHARITIES BODY TO AID CHURCHES THIS CHRISTMAS

Will Co-operate in Locating and Investigating Cases; Funds Coming in Slowly

WANT TO BE A SANTA?

Associated Aids Will Give Tip on Place Where You Can Bring Cheer

In anticipation of meeting the Christmas needs of the destitute families of the city the Associated Aid Societies will co-operate with the churches this year in locating and investigating cases that come before their attention. John Yates, the secretary, announced this morning that the society will be glad to furnish lists of needy families to any individual, Sunday school classes or organizations that wish to give assistance and desire merely names and addresses.

Last week letters were sent out requesting contributions to take care of homeless and helpless children and destitute families. So far little more than $200 has been turned in, just one-fifth of the entire amount needed to carry the work of the societies through till next February. The budget for the year calls for $5,800, and this sum will be reached with $800 more. Never before has the society failed to receive needed money.

The Associated Aid Societies will act as a "foot" to a movement to bring into effect laws of the State which provide for the care of abandoned and surviving families whose father and husband no longer provide for them, and also for the families that are left to their own resources by reason of the father being in jail. The mothers' pension fund law in Pennsylvania provides for cases of the above sort, which the Associated Aid Societies now handle through special individual contributions. It is necessary that the county commissioners take action before this law can become operative. In the matter of the 65 cents a day law, which allows this amount to the widow and family of a man who is in jail and who has a family in want, it will be necessary for the county commissioners to take action before it will go into effect. The Associated Aids will endeavor to create sentiment in favor of bringing about the application of these laws.

Episcopal Clergy Plan For Preaching Mission

Plans for a preaching mission to be conducted here in January were discussed this morning and this afternoon by pastors of the Harrisburg diocese of the Episcopal Church at meetings held in the parish house of St. Stephen's Church, North Front street.

COURT UPHOLDS HORSE TRADER'S FINE OF $35

The fine of $35 which Squire William Rodfong, Middletown, imposed upon D. E. Kieber for alleged cruelty to animals in selling a horse that wasn't fit for service must stand as a summary conviction, according to an opinion handed down to-day by the Dauphin County Court. Further cruelty, Kieber need not be tried by jury. In his opinion the court discharged the rule upon the district attorney to show cause why Kieber should not be given a trial by jury. The question is an old one and grew out of the sale of a horse in Middletown which didn't prove up to specifications. The allegation was that Kieber had sold the horse to a man named A. T. Shaffer, who was in the justice of the peace in the case was prejudiced.

FEMININE FRIEND COSTLY AT SHORE

So Dauphin Court Observes in Maintenance Argument Today

The question of whether or not it is expensive to go in for feminine friendship at Atlantic City was raised in the Dauphin County court this morning. President Judge Kunkel and Attorney John R. Geyer, believe it would be a more or less costly proposition; Attorney Maurice E. Metzger thinks "it would depend."

The problem was presented when the question of raising the maintenance order which W. A. W. Seltzer, clerk in the Federal court for the eastern district should pay for the support of his wife and 12-year-old daughter, was raised. When he had a $40 job Seltzer had been required to pay $16 a month since he got a $1,600 a year position. Mr. Metzger counsel for Mrs. Seltzer wants him to pay $50 a month. The court directed him to pay $45.

Seltzer's attorney, Mr. Metzger, pointed out that his client's expenses were heavy; Mr. Geyer remarked that Seltzer spent his vacation at Atlantic City. Mr. Metzger maintained that Seltzer was merely friendly with her; nothing more. He paid none of her expenses, he said.

"That is a very expensive place in which to be friendly with a lady," gravely observed Judge Kunkel.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once if bilious or constipated.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing. Once clean, when peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, nasals, stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of your little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Advertisement.

INFORMAL CASES TO GET ATTENTION

Chairman Ainey Says That Special Bureau May Be Created For Their Care

Chairman Ainey, of the Public Service Commission, to-day announced that the commission would give special attention to informal complaints and as these complaints increase will establish a bureau to look after them. Where necessary, special examiners will be appointed to investigate such cases.

In a statement issued this morning the chairman said: "There is no more important work which the Public Service Commission can perform than in affording the individual an opportunity informally to present his grievance with assurance that it will be heard and promptly considered."

"To invite such a one, who believes that he is not receiving the kind of service for which he pays, or to which he may be entitled at the hands of a water, electric light, gas, telephone or railroad company to go into the expense of a formal hearing and trial, is in many instances to deprive him of relief."

"The Public Service Commission can not perform its whole duty unless it gives serious consideration to the letter or informal complaints made by individuals. Hereafter these complaints will be emphasized as their importance deserves, and the department organized so that they may be properly handled."

"While such complaints can not support formal orders, they may, through conference and correspondence, in many instances be quickly and satisfactorily adjusted. Thus complainants and public service companies will, to a certain extent, be relieved of the burden, and annoyance and necessary delay of more formal procedure."

Calls Ambulance to Move Carpets and Rugs

Jessie Zimmerman, aged 20 years, who said her home is at Liverpool, Perry county, called the police department yesterday morning. She asked that an ambulance be sent to East and Briggs streets. When Patrolman Busch arrived the girl said she wanted aid in getting some rugs and carpets from a nearby house. It is believed she is demented and Miss Zimmerman was brought to the police station and her parents were notified.

New Restrictions on Sale of Booze Are Effective

London, Nov. 29.—The new restrictions on the sale of liquor became effective to-day. With the exception of certain minor concessions obtained at the eleventh hour, opposition to the measure proved futile.

Subject to the usual exemption for residents of the premises and to special provisions for certain districts it is made an offense punishable by a fine of $500 or imprisonment for a term of months to sell or supply intoxicating liquors for consumption on the premises except between the following hours:

Week days—Noon to 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 to 9:30 o'clock in the evening.

Sundays 1 to 3 p. m. and 6 to 9 p. m.

FATHER JOHNSON TO TALK AT SOCIAL WORKERS' MEETING

Some inside facts about the organization and development of social center work as produced by the Hasset Club and the other St. Patrick's Cathedral organizations will be the subject of an interesting paper to be delivered this evening by the Rev. Father T. B. Johnson at the meeting of the Social Workers' Club of Dauphin County.

The session will be held at the county almshouse and Steward and Mrs. S. F. Barber will be hosts. It is probable that other papers on subjects pertaining to the social work of the county will be read. The members of the club will then be shown over the county home.

Freight Congestion Is Before Commission

By Associated Press
Washington, Nov. 29.—C. C. McCain, representing the railroads east of Buffalo and Pittsburgh in what is officially known as trunk line territory, conferred to-day with Interstate Commerce Commission officials over the congestion of freight at New York. Further efforts to relieve the situation were expected as a result. Whether more roads than the Lackawanna will put an embargo on shipments to New York probably will depend on what the commission will be able to do.

Argonne Front Shows Terribly Devastating Effects of Yard Conflict

By Associated Press
On the Argonne front, via Berlin, and London, Nov. 29, 4:22 A. M.—After artillery battles in the Argonne forest which have cost thousands of lives the Germans have advanced to a point within 24 miles of the outer edge of the woods. They stand on a mountain crest of the wooded character which has made infantry attacks most difficult. The conflict, therefore, has developed into a bitter mine throwing and artillery interchange.

During a comparative lull in the fighting the Associated Press correspondent was permitted to visit the extreme front and have a view not only of the present German positions but of the terribly devastating effects of the conflict which has been waged yard by yard through the forest. The journey was made during an intermittent heavy artillery fire such as has cut down hundreds of the thousands of trees and plowed up acres and acres of ground across territory dotted with the graves of German and French soldiers who have fallen since October 1914.

Shells Gouge Holes
Indescribably bad roads made it necessary to leave the automobile at the edge of the woods and proceed on foot through mud often reaching half a mile to the front. The first objective was a shallow valley called "cimetiere" the scene of the first stand of the French where hundreds of their dead were buried before they retreated to a more mountainous region. The constant artillery fire made it necessary to take to the muddy and winding connecting trenches from this point on, through a country gouged out by great shells and mines, littered with unexploded shells, parts of French uniforms and soldiers' paraphernalia.

Shallow graves scarcely less than two feet deep marked the last resting places of the French. The tortuous way led upward to the heights of the so-called Bagatelle hill, the lower slopes of which the French still hold and from which the Germans have forced the French back. Bagatelle was stormed in September together with adjoining ridges from which the Germans claim to control the present French positions through their artillery. After incessant rains the most advanced trenches were indescribable sloughs in which one all but wallowed. Portions of them here and there were merely mud heaps as the result of the French artillery fire. Smiling, cheerful Wuerttemberg infantrymen, mud-covered from head to foot, apologized to the visitor for the condition of their "home" and assured him everything would soon be rehabilitated.

Trenches Twist Around
Through "shooting holes" in steel protectors could be seen the winding French positions on the slopes below. The trenches twist snake-like along the entire Bagatelle crest to a point from which German and French soldiers are able to throw hand grenades from one position to another by driving back the French, the Germans not only obtained control of the Bagatelle Heights but also were able to block the entrance to the valley between Bagatelle and the stork's nest.

The French seemingly had been able to note unusual activity in the German trenches when the correspondent reached the valley and began an artillery bombardment. The shells for the most part fell behind the German advanced lines and contributed only to the devastation of the forest although some of them came uncomfortably near. The dinner hour on both sides was just past the counter bombardment began, increasing until it approximated the celebrated "drum fire." The French fire came in descending salvos—perhaps twenty shots at once. The Germans claim the French fire more or less at random relying on the general effect of their rain of shells whereas the Germans attempt to place each shot and archery of their ammunition.

FORD WILL SEND TWO PEACE SHIPS

Rush of Volunteers, Not Originally Invited, Causes Overflow From Oscar

Special to The Telegraph
New York, Nov. 29.—So many persons want to go on Henry Ford's peace ship that cabin accommodation is already being booked on the Scandinavian-American liner Frederick VIII for the overflow from the good ship Oscar II.

It isn't the actual numbers that make a second peace transport inevitable; it's the trouble making arrangements. Nothing could be more astonishing than the number of invited persons who can't go themselves, but who know people Mr. Ford ought really, in justice to himself and his enterprise to take along.

There appears also to be a considerable number of inhabitants of the United States who were not invited to sail, and of whom Mr. Ford and his associates never heard, whose names are in no "Who's Who" and whose fame is yet young, but who think Mr. Ford will regret it later if he omits to have them aboard.

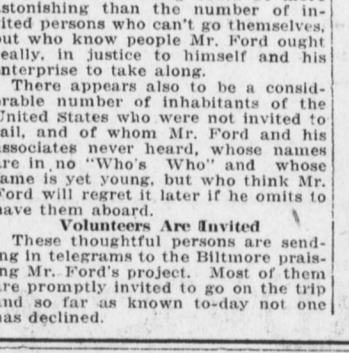

Volunteers Are Invited
These thoughtful persons are sending in telegrams to the Baltimore, Md. office of Mr. Ford's project. Most of them are promptly invited to go on the trip and so far as known to-day not one has declined.

The building for many years was used by the borough council, fire department and as a place for public meetings and entertainment is located at Second and Market streets. It is understood that Mr. Booz will use the lumber from his portion for a new garage. Mr. Hummel will erect a new tinshop.
