Compete with the system perfected at Harvard by Percy Haughton, the Yale athletic committee last night placed in charge of the football situation in all departments Vance C. McCormick, ex-mayor of Harrisburg, Brink Thorne, of New York, and John R. Kilpatrick, of New York, three of the greatest players who ever wore the Blue on the gridiron and men who since their graduation from Yale have distinguished themselves in other lines of activity.

An Ideal Selection "The selection of McCormick, Thorne and Kilpatrick to take up the matter of football at Yale is generally considered here to be an ideal one. WELLY'S CORNER

Central's claim to the scholastic football championship for this year has not been disputed. Greensburg High won the honors in the west and would not consider the challenge from the local eleven. Weber, who is a member of the Tiger team in the Elks bowling league, is running ahead for individual honors this season. Last night he was again prominent, pulling down two big scores. Here is some news that few people are familiar with: Did you know that a former small college in Pennsylvania, called the Pennsylvania Military College, originated the use of signals in a football game, and with that system defeated Princeton by a large score just twenty-seven years ago? The announcement that the Carlisle Indians may not have a football team to represent them next season comes as a surprise. The Indians have always played a clever, heady game, and were noted for their trick plays.

Fix Major League Dates For Year's Annual Pow-wow

New York, Dec. 2.—Within two weeks' time the National League baseball magnates will go into their annual session in this city. Such was the information handed out by President John K. Tener here to-day. On the same day that the league goes into session, December 14, the board of directors will gather for their pow-wow.

The National League session will probably be dragged out until Friday. Probably what may command most of the National club owners' time and consideration will be the oft-repeated stories of peace between their league and the Feds. This subject has been discussed pro and con for months now and if there is anything in it the coming meeting should bring it out. Peace in baseball may not be seriously discussed at the meeting of the American League officials, who will hold their annual pow-wow on December 15 in Chicago, but several important rules regulating the game may be adopted. Legislation against barnstorming with the approval of the National Commission is expected at this conference. President Johnson thinks these trips injure the game and also the players.
