WORMLEY'S HEIR FILES PROTEST

Miss Eichelberger Objects to Plan to Give Wormleysburg Another Name

Plans of some citizens of Wormleysburg to change the name of the town for various reasons, one of which is that the name often provokes laughter, will not be accomplished without opposition.

CAPT. SWARTZ, CITY'S TRUANT OFFICER, DIES

CAPTAIN H. A. SWARTZ

Shortly after the opening of hostilities, entering Company E, First Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, April 18, 1861, he was later advanced, and when he re-enlisted in Company G, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, served as second corporal.

One of the battles in which Captain Swartz was engaged was at Fredericksburg, in 1862. When a memorial history of the One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Regiment was compiled Captain Swartz was called upon to write an account of the battle at Fredericksburg, which he did.

When a bit of the past history of Harrisburg was wanted, probably the first one to be asked was Captain Swartz, his memory of past events proving valuable in many instances.

He was captain of the Zouaves until they disbanded. As a member of Seneca G. Simmons Post No. 116, Grand Army of the Republic, Captain Swartz was actively engaged in the post work and never let a Memorial Day service go by without attending and participating in the ceremonies.

One of the events he wished to participate in was the fiftieth anniversary of the grand review in Washington '65, which was celebrated by the veterans in Washington during September, this year.

To-night at the regular meeting of the School Board resolutions of regret will be introduced on his death, which is felt keenly by the many directors and teachers of the city schools.

Handled the Toughest Customers The most incorrigible boy who played truant was no harder a problem for the Captain to solve.

His method of getting the boys back to school was unique, in a way, but brought results. Kindness, a genial smile and a good nature conquered in most cases, and to the surprise of the teachers and parents the youngsters trudged off to school daily after the Captain had seen them.

Visited "Old Crony" Daily Captain Swartz in his daily rounds over the city for truant returns never forgot to visit his friend, T. Ensminger, at Second and Chestnut streets.

Following the usual custom, in what the members term an "off year," the officers of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of Pennsylvania, at a meeting at the Masonic Temple, yesterday were unanimously re-elected to their posts to serve for the ensuing Masonic year, which begins on St. John's Day, December 27, as follows:

CENTRAL JUNIORS COMPETE FOR KUNKEL PRIZE

The annual Samuel Kunkel oratorical contest for junior boys of the Central High School, was held this afternoon in the school auditorium.

Plans for a hospital and two new cottages at the Masonic Home, at Elizabethtown, which will give room for 80 more guests, the limit of 250 having been reached in the existing buildings, were presented by the Committee on Masonic Homes.

England Does Not Give Ready Ear to Peace Talk

London, Nov. 23 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—Speculation about the possibility of peace, talk that seems to come from Switzerland, Rome, Madrid or America, strikes vague and usually negative, always no audibly responsive chord in London.

frank and admit that we worship the almighty dollar? I believe in candor as well as in liberal Sunday.

"Now that I am not going," he continued, "I'm going to give you the truth. I believe in peace, but I have realized all along that Henry's proposition is a kiddish scheme—nothing but a flimsy joy ride. The only reason why I endorsed the scheme and accepted the invitation was because I wanted the benefit of a sea voyage. I weigh 180 pounds now, but I would like to add about 15 more."
