PHILLIES SCOUT HOME FROM WEST

Silent on New Material For Quakers; Tells of Results of Recent Rulings

Special to The Telegraph
Philadelphia, Dec. 3.—Local baseball folks chipped up a bit around the Phillies' headquarters yesterday when Captain William Neal, official scout for the Quakers, blew into the club office, bringing with him the aroma of California. Neal made the trip across the continent for a peep at some of the Coast stars, but if he discovered any who looked like Davey Hancock he kept the matter strictly to himself. He attended the meeting of the National Association of Minor Leagues at San Francisco and he stated that they are not a bit friendly toward making peace with the Reds. Neal said:

"The minor leaguers who were at San Francisco are not in a mood to compromise with the Federal League. They are eager to keep up the fight, and they declared that they did not care whether or not more players jumped their clubs. They are also opposed to any of the players who jumped organized baseball to play in leagues with Rawlins and the San Diego club was forced to let Rawlins out. There is now a movement on foot to stop players from playing in winter leagues on the Coast."

"I did not see the All-Nationals and the All-Americans, as I left San Francisco the day before their arrival. I understand that each player in the tour cleared up $800 over expenses."

Business Manager Shetline, of the Phillies, received a letter from Manager Pat Moran. Pat has been hunting this Fall near his home at Fitchburg, Mass. Moran wrote that he didn't bag any bear or deer and that he didn't ever get a sight of any such animals. Pat is now waiting for the ice to form on the streams so that he can go out and enjoy the fun of winter fishing through holes in the ice.

Charles Albert Bender Again in Limelight

CHARLES ALBERT BENDER

Big Chief Bender, the former Athletic pitcher, released by the Federals last season, has instituted suit to collect salary to the amount of $8,666.64 on his unexpired contract with the Baltimore Club.

Bender denies he was not in condition as alleged by the owners of the Federal Club and intimates that there were other reasons why he was let go.

Federal Chances Poor Is John K. Tener's Belief

Special to The Telegraph
New York, Dec. 3.—John K. Tener yesterday issued his first statement since the Federal League announced that it would invade this city. When he was asked what he thought of the proposed plans of the Federals, he said:

"I don't know whether they have a park in this city. The Federal League has been in existence two years, and it has accomplished nothing so far as making baseball a paying proposition. The second season was even worse than the first, and two or three cities that had Federal League clubs have been abandoned. The Brooklyn club has been the greatest failure in the Federal League, in fact, the greatest failure in baseball. If they fill the park in Brooklyn for the next five years, the owners will not be reimbursed for the money that has been spent."

"It will cost not less than $1,500,000 to place a club on Manhattan Island, and it is just sending so much good money after bad. Apparently the continued life of the Federal League is due to the fact that a settlement of the baseball conditions has not been effected, and the league must continue or give up all."

Henderson to Meet Ozar; Match Next Friday Night

Jack Ozar, the champion middleweight wrestler of America, who claims never to have been thrown, will wrestle Mort Henderson, the champion of the United States (eastern) next Friday evening at the Orpheum Theater for the best out of three falls. Preceding this match will be the usual preliminaries.

So sure is Henderson he will throw Ozar that he is promising to secure two falls inside of one hour. Ozar, though outweighed, believes his quickness and rapid reaction will overcome this disadvantage and that he will bring a surprise on Henderson.

Ozar is well known in the city. He is now at Lebanon Valley College and has arranged to take on wrestlers from Cornell, Dickinson and Penn State. Henderson recently made his debut in this city when he threw the Italian champion, Joe Roncone, after 1 hour and 15 minutes' struggle.

TORONTO STAR GOES TO WAR

Special to The Telegraph
Toronto, Ont., Dec. 3.—W. A. (Bill) O'Hara, a former member of the New York and St. Louis National League baseball teams and later of the Toronto Internationals, has been granted a commission in the British Royal Naval Air Service.

He will leave shortly for England to complete a course in aviation.

KISHPAUGH STAR ON M. A. C. TEAM

"Big Bill" Kishpaugh Wins Laurels as Guard on Agricultural Eleven

Another local boy who has been winning fame on the gridiron this Fall is William Kishpaugh, who played in the guard position on the Maryland Agricultural College team. The M. A. C. eleven for four years won the State championship of Maryland and this Fall lost their first game in that time to Johns Hopkins on Thanksgiving by a 3 to 0 score.

This is "Big Bill's" third year in the game, playing in the back field the last two years, and being shifted to guard this Fall on account of an injury which handicapped his speed.

His work all season and especially in the game against Hopkins resulted in his being selected on the All-Maryland team, made up from all the colleges of the state.

The Baltimore Sun says: "Kishpaugh was easily the class of the guards, weighing nearly 200 pounds, and playing a heady and aggressive game, his work was far above that of any other player in this position."

Deer Hunters Keep Busy; Kill Six Near Lewistown

Special to The Telegraph
Lewistown, Pa., Dec. 3.—The deer hunting season in Mifflin county gives promise of much game. James Reed and son Clarence, were the first to bag a four-pronged buck deer the first day of the season, yesterday five more were killed in the county.

A hunting party headed by E. E. Dippery, a well-known hunter of Reedsville, shot three deer near Barrel Springs. The Rice brothers of Reedsville, camped in Treaster valley also shot a deer.

James Gilbert of Milroy, while hunting in Havice valley, shot a four-pronged buck.

Roy Boyer, belonging to that party of hunters camped in the Treaster valley region, got a big buck bear weighing about 275 pounds.

Doings in Sport World

Jess Willard will meet Fred Fulton at New Orleans March 4. The champion will get $32,500 for a 20-round bout.

Freddy Welsh and Charley White yesterday signed up to meet in a 20-round bout within six weeks.

Hughie Jennings denies that the New York Federal League team made him an offer.

The Jolly Five last night lost to the Orpheus in the Casino League series, scores 2,734 to 2,655.

Charles Hoffman has been elected captain of the Reading High basketball team to succeed Pat Troup, who has quit school.

The Harrisburg Bakers last night won from New Cumberland Stars, scores 1,477 to 1,438. The match was played at New Cumberland.

DICKINSON KEEPS FOOTBALL
Special to The Telegraph
Carlisle, Dec. 3.—Although announcement has not been officially made at Dickinson College, there is good reason to believe that the institution will not abolish football, either because of a discouraging season or the death of Fred McGough, a law junior, at Williamsport. The college faculty would not take any action on abolishing the game. The relatives of young McGough do not lay any blame whatsoever on Dickinson or her officials, and have frankly recognized the possibility of grave injury in connection with all forms of athletics and have so expressed themselves.

OPPOSE AMERICAN HENLEY
Special to The Telegraph
New York, Dec. 3.—Leaders of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, which has had charge of the Poughkeepsie Regatta for 22 years, are hot over the report of a plan to have an American regatta on the lines of the English Henley, by which the annual Poughkeepsie regatta would be done away with.

Morton G. Bogue, graduate director of rowing at Columbia and chairman of the board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, and N. Otis Rockwood, graduate treasurer of rowing at Columbia, were very strong in their opposition to the report.

NEW SPORTS AT TECH SCHOOL

Probable Purchaser For Cleveland Club

Tech High school has added wrestling and boxing to its list of sports. The decision was reached at a recent meeting of the advisory board of the athletic association.

The contests will be in the form of interclass matches, and for the individual championship of the school, and will be held this winter in conjunction with the basketball games. Should the sports prove successful and popular, the school will get a step farther and schedule interscholastic matches with other schools of the State next year.

Fitzwick, a member of the football team and a track star, is one of the most promising wrestlers in the school. A number of other lads are also interested in this line of sports, and a big turnout is looked for when the first call is made. Frank ("Cyclone") Kelley, has had much experience along this line, and will assist in the work. The basketball schedule for the winter is being arranged by Moltz has also been approved by the advisory board.

Penn Wants Bob Folwell; Will Work Without Pay

Special to The Telegraph
Philadelphia, Dec. 3.—A new football system at the University of Pennsylvania with the coaching of Robert C. Folwell, star halfback and captain of the 1907 team, but more recently winning fame as coach of the Washington and Jefferson eleven, or William M. ("Big Bill") Hollenback, All-American star in 1908, predominating maybe both in charge—is winning new supporters each year. Four years of a lack of results on the gridiron has aroused undergraduates and alumni of the university across the Schuylkill. On the campus, in classrooms and, in fact, everywhere, the possibility of a change or "housecleaning" is being discussed at the staid old university.

"We want Folwell or Hollenback," is being heard among the undergraduates. Other names, such as "Buck" Wharton, By Dickson, Vincent Stevenson, "Dutch" Sommer, Gus Ziegler, Mike Bennett and Andy Smith, have been mentioned. However, students gathered to discuss the coming election of the board of directors of the athletic association. Folwell says he will work without pay.

$3,000 Needed to Keep Up Work of Rescue Mission

Conduct of the City Rescue Mission during its first year which has just closed, cost $2,100; at least $3,000 will be needed to keep the good work throughout the ensuing year. These facts were explained by James W. Barker in presenting the financial report at the anniversary celebration yesterday.

More than 100 businessmen and city officials attended the meetings yesterday which were held in the Technical High school and Grace Methodist Church. A dinner was served at the mission house by the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Baptist Church.

The feature of the celebration was the talk delivered by "Mel" Trotter, the famous student orator of Grand Rapids, Mich. His younger brother, George W. Trotter, of the Third and Market street mission, Pittsburgh, also spoke.

"Corps" Tires of Joke and Moves; Mourners Do, Too

Special to The Telegraph
Chicago, Ill., Dec. 3.—Otis Stewart, wealthy land owner of West Chicago, had been ill since the day he ran down a street car on Wednesday night. It was an affecting death. Myrtle Stead, his daughter, called in the neighbors, and the community wept in unison.

There were novel features about the wake—the body, for instance, lay on a narrow plank laid across the backs of two chairs in a position uncomfortable even for a corpse. And the shroud was a sheet several thicknesses too thick for the temperature.

In the midst of it the corpse became weary and shifted his position. So did the women.

Two physicians passed half an hour administering to hysterical mourners a dose of sedatives in the corner of a residence, and departed just as Ernest Morris, the undertaker, reached the house.

Stewart is no longer the popular neighbor he was before he died. Neighbors had joined in a move to have his sanity tested.

The corpse explained his conduct with the idea that he wished to learn what the community thought of him. If he didn't know before, he knows now.

POET DIES IN FRANCE

By Associated Press
Versailles, France, Dec. 3.—The Franco-American poet, Stuart Merrill, died suddenly at home here, it is announced.

PLANT PEONIES IN THE FALL
Peonies are coming into popularity again, not only the old, double sorts, which we can well remember our grandmothers' gardens, but hundreds of new varieties. Some of these are valued more for their oddity than for their beauty, but many of them are exquisite. I have seen some so delicate in coloring and so perfect in form, that I could hardly imagine any flower more perfect. Some are early and others late, so the season has been much extended, and one can have flowers for nearly a month from the time the earliest begin to bloom.

Peonies can be planted at any time from early Fall to early Spring. September is considered the earliest month, and by some it is thought the best, but October is just as good. The roots are dormant and they will settle well established before it freezes up. If planted any time before the middle of November, the roots should be set deep enough so the crowns are just beneath the surface, and the roots should be deep as they would naturally be without crowding them or spreading them more than natural. Pack the soil.

For general planting I would recommend the mixtures in colors classed separately, as mixed reds, mixed whites, mixed pinks and mixed purples. The whites will range from clear white to cream and light blue, and white with some petals marked with pink or red. The pinks, reds and purples are varied shades of these colors. Get the doubles, of course, and you will not be disappointed with the flowers. They are much cheaper than the named sorts, and for the farm garden they are practically as good. The flowers are very large, very double, and the colors are good. The plants are even more hardy than the general run of fancy sorts.

Peonies should be planted where they can remain for several years, for they do not like to be disturbed. As a general thing they will not bloom for one, and sometimes two or three years after they are transplanted. I have usually had some flowers from good roots that I bought the first season after I planted them.

JAMES MCALEER

Special to The Telegraph
Cleveland, Dec. 3.—The presence of James McAleer, former manager and president of the Boston American Baseball League team, in this city and the fact that he and Charles W. Somers, owner of the Cleveland team in that league, are here, has led to rumors that the Indians are on the market and that McAleer is dickering for them. Both Somers and McAleer denied reports that McAleer was considering purchasing the club, but gave no explanation of their long conference.

American Steamer Battered by Storms and Chased by Patrols Arrives in Port

By Associated Press
London, Dec. 3, 7:45 A. M.—A Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, filed yesterday, says: The American steamship, Andrew Welch, has become a center of attention in Scandinavia. Her history to date follows in brief:

"After being chased by British patrol boats in the Atlantic, by British submarines in the North Sea and crippled by a series of storms, she put into Bergen in distress. Norway granted the stranger permission to return to England, but she started for Haelsing, Sweden. Again experiencing bad weather she took refuge outside the Skaw, finally arriving at Haelsing, where it was found there was no receiver for her cargo of beans valued at $150,000.

"The vessel remained quiet for some days, but last night a steamer arrived from Liverpool to convey her to Germany. A start was made in the night, but a Swedish torpedo boat arrived on the scene and forced the Andrew Welch to turn back to Haelsingstad.

"Available maritime records do not list a steamer called the Andrew Welch. The American bark of that name, a vessel of 865 tons, sailed from San Francisco August 19, with a cargo of beans for Haelsingstad, on November 17 said the bark had been towed into Christiansand. She was boarded by a British patrol boat off the Shetland Islands, it was said and into Lerwick, but a storm carried the vessel toward the Norwegian coast, where she was taken into tow by the steamer Russeland.

WELLY'S CORNER

Two famous billiardists were in Harrisburg to-day. Willie Hoppe, world's champion, and Koji, the Japanese champion, play part of their series in this city. They will also give exhibitions, and will remain here until tomorrow. Many cities much larger than Harrisburg have been unable to get this pair of cueists.

The International League will meet in New York on December 13. Local creditors are hoping the cash will hold out long enough to pay bills of long standing. There is some talk of a delegation of Harrisburgers attending the meeting for the purpose of telling the directors real conditions in Harrisburg and to deny some of the stories told by Edward G. Barrow, the president.

Philadelphia wants a stadium that will have a capacity double that of the present Franklin Field. They ought to have it, too. A change of location for the Army-Navy game would be a good thing. There is also a demand for tickets to the Penn-Cornell game on Thanksgiving that can never be filled until there is more seating space.

Cornell's decision not to accept the challenge of the Pittsburgh team for the football championship shows good head work on the part of the Ithacans and a proper appreciation of the relative position of the game as one of the intra- or extra-curriculum activities.

And it is pretty safe to say that few will be persuaded that this refusal has any weight in deciding who is champion. It will always remain in the air and both teams and their supporters will be satisfied. And then, too, one must have something to argue over.

WHARTON FRESHMEN WIN

YANKEES AFTER BAKER

Special to The Telegraph
Wilmington, Del., Dec. 3.—Captain Huston, of the New York Americans, and Manager Bill Donovan, held a conference at the Hotel du Pont last night with Frank Baker, and the trio took dinner following, after which they left the city.

They declined to discuss the nature of their conference, but some friends of Baker said they were of the opinion that the former Mack star would eventually go with the Yankees.
