WIDER SUBWAY IS BIGGEST PROBLEM

Really Men Watching Development of Plans For Market Street Change

PLANS, READY TUESDAY

Council Will Likely Consider Tentative Figures; No Consequential Damages

While rumors of a possible new hotel or two stirred realty circles to some extent this week, interest centered generally in the announcement by City Engineer M. B. Cowden that the plans and estimates for widening the Market street subway will be ready Tuesday for City Council approval. The preparation of the drawings followed the conference of the city planning commission and the officials of the Pennsylvania Electric Company is questionable although it is certain that they, too, will have to bear a certain portion of the expense. Tentative estimates fix the total cost to the city and the Pennsylvania at $160,500. Of course this doesn't include consequential damages. Of the total sum about $75,000 will represent the actual cost changes in the subway, lowering of grades and so on. This will likely be borne pretty largely by the city. The Pennsylvania company's share will run to something like $85,000. Of course the big item, realty men figure, will be the consequential damages. They have been variously estimated at from $150,000 to $200,000 although it is just possible that it will run away beyond that sum. The problem may be brought to a definite head at next Tuesday's session of Council as the drawings probably will be submitted to the commissioners at that time.

Changes in the Subway The present width of the subway is about forty feet and this it is proposed to widen to eighty feet. Incidentally the "kink" in the street wall will be eliminated. The grade on the approaches will be reduced from five to five and a half per cent. Fifth street will slope into the Market street approach to the subway from both north and south. The southern approach to Fifth street will extend clear back to the station sheds of the Pennsylvania; the northern approach will extend all the way to Strawberry street. The present method of reaching the subway level will be changed for pedestrians so as to permit them to use a flight of steps off Cowden street.

In addition to the Pennsylvania Railroad properties, at least fifteen properties on Market and perhaps ten on North Fifth street will be affected to some extent.

Among these are several hotels, including the Metropolitan annex—the old United States Hotel, the Plaza, the Aldine, the Martin and the Lenox. In addition to the old United States hotel the Market street properties which will be affected will be the Hummel, the Kessler, the Keister, the Fisher, the Smith and Keffer, Taubert, Fishman, Keller and Simonetti properties on the north side and the Plaza property, owned by Mrs. Mary Graupner, the property of the Keister property on the south side.

These properties of course extend all the way back to the Pennsylvania right of way. On North Fifth street, however, there are the Keister property on the east side which has a depth from Market ninety-five feet on Fifth to a front lot; next in order are the Thomas, Katz, Keister and Elsheid properties. On the west side of the street the Hoffman property has a depth of 107 feet to an 8-foot lot. Two other properties are next and then in order are the houses and lots owned by Nagle, Yinger and Snelman.

December's Figures Boost Year's Permits to Million and Half

December's unprecedented building activity has already boosted the value of the year's operations to nearly a million and a half dollars.

Ordinarily figures do not mean a great deal until the data of previous months or years is considered in comparison. It is the December issue of building permits that counts. Christmas month to date as against the December month for 1914 that shows the wide difference in the activities in building operations. During 1914 the total amount represented in permits issued was $1,269,300. To date for this year the building operations have amounted to the wonderful sum of $2,424,400. In December of last year the value of permits totaled $17,100; to date in December this far the permits have aggregated $1,424,400. The big boost of course was the post-war boom. The addition of the second and third stories meant an additional cost of approximately $100,000.

MONDAY All the standing committee of the new Harrisburg Real Estate Board will be announced by President Herman F. Miller, it is believed, at the meeting of the board on Monday evening in the grand jury room of the courthouse. The grand jury room was selected because of the greater accommodations offered to win constitution and by-laws will be finally approved at the same time.

Academy Alumni to Hold Banquet Dec. 21

The reunion smoker for the getting together of alumni and undergraduates of the Harrisburg Academy will be held at the Hotel Hamilton on Monday, December 21, in the Academy gymnasium.

Two years ago the sons of the Academy ushered this event into existence, and it has already become one that is looked forward to with anticipation and interest. Delicious "east" smokes and special features will be provided for all the evening. Headmaster Arthur E. Brown announces that if any one knows the name and address of an old Academy man who has inadvertently been left off the list of those invited, that he would appreciate their calling his attention to the omission. It is planned to make the event this year of far larger proportions than ever before, and fully 500 are expected to attend. S. S. Rutherford will cater. Keep this date open, it is the urgent wish of the committee.

RUNAWAY GETS JOB HERE Walter Rogers, one of the runaway boys from Altoona, who was picked up last Saturday night by the police, is still in Harrisburg. He is employed as messenger boy for the Postal Telegraph Company. To-day he received a letter from an aunt in Hagerstown, telling him to come to her home.

Woman Had Many Rights Two Thousand Years Ago

Women of two thousand years ago has as many rights as the married women of the present according to Dr. Ward Pierson, of the University of Pennsylvania, in an address last night to the freshmen of the Wharton Extension school on the "Capacity of Parties." Dr. Pierson based his statements on old law tablets discovered in excavations at Nippur which disclose these facts. Second year members were given examinations in advertising and industrial management during the last week while first year students were given examinations in money and credit, corporation and finance, and commercial law.

Taft Asks Support of Commerce Chamber

an effort to mould public opinion both in this country and abroad, in favor of a league of the great powers, who shall agree not to go to war in any case until the question has been passed upon judicially, the nations agreeing also to use their joint military and economic forces against any nation refusing to keep the pact.

Mr. Taft's request is made at this time, it was explained yesterday, in view of the fact that the referendum in question outlines a plan for world peace which is almost identical with that contained in the proposals of the League to Enforce Peace, which was organized by Mr. Taft, President A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard University, in the latter part of 1914. Mr. Taft is president of the league, writes as follows:

The friendly reference made to the platform of the League to Enforce Peace on page four of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America seems to the officers of the league to create a natural occasion for calling it to your personal attention, and to that of your members.

At the same time I want to extend a very cordial invitation to you, and through you to the members of your organization, to join in an effort to co-operate with it as actively as you are able in the organization that is about to be undertaken in your State.

The irremediable injury that would result to the whole world in case a war should not be found at the close of the European conflict, to make war less frequent, and to render it less frequent, has induced a considerable number of leaders in the realms both of statesmanship and of business to combine in an effort to create sentiment in our own and other countries, in favor of the proposals that were put forward at the Philadelphia conference.

The obvious and urgent need that led the committee of the chamber to draw up its admirable report, and the Board of Directors to authorize its submission, is an eloquent argument in favor of a combined effort to do all which human ingenuity and devotion can, to prevent the recurrence of such a catastrophe as the world is now experiencing.

Proposals to Enforce Peace The proposals of the League to Enforce Peace, referred to in Mr. Taft's communication, which were adopted at the Independence Hall meeting of international law through a series of international conferences contain no provision for enforcing the verdict of the arbitrators. Under the proposed plan any nation that is dissatisfied with the decree may go to war without fear of adverse action on the part of the league.

Both of these men are charter members of the League to Enforce Peace.

Mr. Houston is vice-president of Doubleday Page & Company, publishers of "The World's Work," and is the president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. Mr. Filene is the chairman of the committee whose recommendations form the basis of the referendum in question. These recommendations are:

That the United States Take the Initiative

1. In bringing about a conference among neutral nations to define and enunciate rules to give protection at all times, to life and property upon the high seas. 2. In joining with other nations in the establishment of an international court, to pass upon international disputes, where the questions can be settled according to legal or equitable principles. 3. In joining with the other nations in a council of conciliation for the settlement of questions that cannot be settled by an international court. 4. In joining with other nations, in an agreement to bring concerted economic pressure to bear upon any nation resorting to military measures without first submitting its differences to a court or council of conciliation.
