Newly-Created Archbishop

RIGHT REV. GEORGE W. MUNDELEIN.

New York, Dec. 1.—Bishop George W. Mundelein, auxiliary bishop of Brooklyn, who according to new appointments from the Vatican, received through the Papal Legation at Washington, has been promoted to be archbishop of the archdiocese of Chicago, is probably the youngest archbishop in the world. At the time of his consecration to the office of bishop in New York city on July 2, 1872, Bishop Mundelein was the youngest Roman Catholic bishop in the United States, and probably the youngest in the world. He was born in New York city on July 2, 1872. Bishop Mundelein attracted wide notice by his brilliant defense of Pope Pius when the pontiff's attack on modernism in the church evoked criticism. The pope was charged with reactionary tendencies. Bishop Mundelein in public and private speech combated this conclusion. He denominated Pius the "Twentieth Century Pope" and represented him as being full of the spirit of his times. The favor in which he was held at Rome was shown by his election, the first American to win the honor, to the ancient Academy of the Arcadi in 1907, two years before obtaining his bishopric.

Christian Leaders of Many Names Meet Together in Columbus

President of the United States the Star Speaker and Country Church the Dominant Theme; Thirty-one Denominations Represented

Controversial matters in religion attract more attention in print than the constructive work that is steadily under way; but, by the help of President Wilson, something like national interest has been aroused in the sessions of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, which have been held during the past few days—December 8-10, at Columbus, Ohio. This notable meeting visualizes council's commission on the church and country life, of which Gifford Pinchot is chairman and the Rev. Charles O. Gill is secretary. Five public sessions were held, the closing address being made by the President of the United States.

Represents the Big Crowd

From all parts of the land Christian leaders, both clerical and lay, flocked to this meeting. Since the Federal Council officially represents thirty-one denominations, and seventeen million communicant members of the Protestant Churches, its deliberations are of widest interest. The unusually representative company which met at Columbus was significant most of all of the mood of alertness which at present animates Christian leaders. Everybody is aware that a new crisis is upon the world, in religion as well as in international relations. The church is on the qui vive for a possible message or method that will point a path through present problems. Conditions were never riper in America for a quick response to new leadership. Abroad and at home, religious thinking is more chaotic than many persons care to admit.

Stunning Figures on Rural Church

Ever since President Roosevelt called his famous conference on the Church and Rural Life, the theme has been to the fore in religious conventions and activities. A vast amount of investigation has been done, revealing conditions unsuspected by the general public. It has been found, by the Ohio rural survey, comments the Christian Observer, that "One out of every nine country churches has been abandoned in recent years. Only one-third are increasing in membership and two-thirds have either ceased growing or are dying. Eighty-three per cent have less than 100 members; 21 per cent have less than 25; 27 per cent have between 25 and 50; and 34 per cent have between 50 and 100. Only 6 per cent have individual preachers, while 26 per cent share ministers with another church; 23 per cent have one-third the time of a minister; 27 per cent have one-fourth time; 14 per cent have one-fifth time; 5 per cent have one-sixth time. A large proportion of preachers receive about the same pay as a day laborer. Less than 40 per cent of the rural population are church members."

as once engaged the attention of great religious gatherings, boxed the compass of the day's social questions. All the problems that are part of country life came in for treatment at the hands of experts. The new idea is that the country church should be a social and civic center, and the minister a leader in advanced agricultural methods as well as in all forms of community welfare and uplift work.

The conservative South has gone further than the rest of the nation in certain aspects of church work. The Southern Sociological Congress, with headquarters at Nashville, has announced as the topic for its fifth convention, to be held in New Orleans next March, "The Church and Health." As a leader in this movement says, "I should hope that the one outstanding achievement of the New Orleans Congress would be to turn the rudder of the church so as to change her course to a more direct and practical human service in the conservation of health."

A World Call to Prayer

One of the national functions which the Federal Council has assumed is the "Universal Week of Prayer," which is observed by most congregations throughout the first week in January. This institution was organized by the World's Evangelical Alliance in 1846. Several weeks ago the Alliance's call to prayer was sent from London to a great many papers and individuals in America; the Federal Council's call came out ten days ago. A conflict in topics was feared by some, but the Federal Council only slightly modified the Alliance's program.

This appeal from London is unusually tender and searching. "We greet you in days of mourning. Never in the history of the Evangelical Alliance have we sent forth our usual invitation for united prayer in circumstances so sad and so solemn as those which have involved many nations in mortal strife, and grieved and shocked others not directly implicated. Silence on such a matter would be affectation, and worse would be any word that might wound. Whatever may be deemed to be the causes of the conflict, every servant of Him who maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth" will be drawn to united and earnest intercession for the healing of breaches, for restored brotherliness of the peoples, and for the blessing of a just and lasting peace.

The list of topics suggested by the Alliance for January 2-8 are as follows: For Sunday, various texts are indicated for sermons, such as "The Sun of Righteousness will arise with healing in his wings"; Monday, "Thanksgiving and Humiliation"; Tuesday, "The Church Universal—The One Body of which Christ is the Head"; Wednesday, "Nations and their Rulers"; Thursday, "Missions"; Friday, "Families, Colleges, Schools and the Young"; Saturday, "Home Missions and the Jews."

For all Missionary Societies; Wednesday, Unity in the Church Throughout the World; Thursday, "Peace by Education in Schools, Colleges and Universities"; Friday, "The Family and Youth; Spiritual Training"; Saturday, "Peace Through Brotherhood; Reform and Social Service. To Promote Health, Labor Conditions, Purity and Temperance"; Sunday, January 9, "Sermons: The Prince of Peace in Victory and Glory."

The spectacle of the entire Christian world on its knees for peace is one which is heartening in these dire days of war.

To Keep Skin Healthy, Youthful, Wrinkleless

Now that the social season is here, be especially careful to keep your skin in fine condition. You know how conspicuous complexion defects appear under the bright light of the drawing or ballroom. Also how very evident are some makeup when similarly illuminated. I have myself discarded cosmetics entirely, using a process which gives far better results, and which leaves no trace on the skin. At night I smear on a thin coat of ordinary meringue wax, washing it off next morning. This gradually absorbs the de-vitalized particles of surface skin; just as gradually the more youthful skin beneath comes forth, providing a complexion as clear, smooth and delicately tinted as a young girl's. Get an ounce of meringue wax at your druggist's and try this remarkable treatment. Remember, too, that wrinkles, even the finer lines, are not easily concealed in a brilliantly lighted room. You can quickly obliterate these hateful marks by bathing your face in a solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz. dissolved in witch hazel, 1/2 pt. And your face won't look sticky, if after using paste— Aunt Sally in Woman's Realm.—Advertisement.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

A Mixture of Sage and Sulphur Darkens the Hair Beautifully and Evenly

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyleth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents. Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.—Advertisement.
