

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE TURNS DOWN HARRISBURG---MURPHY BESTS WELSH

BETTER HOME FOR ORPHANS IS EDWARD G. BARROW PLAN

Directors Learn That Harrisburg Did Not Come Up to Expectations; Hartford to Take Care of Zimmerman's Bunch

The International League held a three-hour session in New York City yesterday. The meeting was presided over by Edward G. Barrow. Information given out after the session created an impression that no one talked but Barrow. According to reports, considerable time was taken up in explaining to the magnates that Harrisburg would not take care of the Newark orphans next season.

No figures were given out showing alleged losses during the season. If a statement was made about Harrisburg's good work, the reporters failed to hear about it. It is certain, no vote of thanks was tendered Harrisburg fans for taking care of the International castoffs, and saving the league additional expense.

It is the belief that some action was taken regarding unpaid bills in Harrisburg. The directors are scheduled for another session to-day, according to one dispatch. Another report is that the league adjourned until January 17, when the circuit for next year will be fixed. One dispatch sent out from New York follows:

Expect Decision To-day

The International League held its annual meeting at the McAlpin yesterday, and when the meeting was over President Barrow said that the future home of the Harrisburg Club would not be decided until to-day. Mr. Barrow stated that Jack Dunn's Richmond Club would operate in the Virginia city another year. Harrisburg has not come up to the expectations of the International League and a new home must be found for this club.

When the National Association met in San Francisco last month an investigating committee, including President Tim Murnane, of the New England League; President Barrow, of the International League and Secretary Farrell of the association, was appointed to investigate the conditions of the minor leagues in the East.

The International League has options on the New England territory and has paid over $400 for class A protection in Hartford and Springfield. President Barrow said he was willing to give up his claim for Hartford and Springfield if the New England League will give him the right to take over the Worcester franchise of the New England League.

Jesse Burkett, the former major league player, is in financial straits in Worcester and when the committee meets here to-morrow, the general impression among baseball men is that Worcester will be willing to surrender its territory to the International League.

Will Wait Results

The International League has decided to wait until they are sure which way the baseball wind blows. They adjourned to-day until January 17, when the fundamental business of their league will be discussed. In other words, the International League does not want to show its hand at this time. Those present at the meeting were James T. McAlpin, Montreal; G. A. Simons and P. J. Donovan, Buffalo; C. T. Chapin, Rochester; J. J. Lavin, Providence; M. W. Smith, Jack Dunn and E. W. Wilson, Richmond; E. W. Wicks, Jersey City, and the Harrisburg Club was represented by President Barrow.

There is a controversy on in the New England baseball territory, and Hartford and Springfield oppose the intrusion of the International League. The whole situation hangs on the action of the committee to-morrow, and if this committee decides that it is the best thing for the International League to take over the Worcester territory, instead of the Hartford and Springfield franchises this action will be taken.

AMUSEMENTS

ORPHEUM

To-morrow night — Ruth St. Denis, assisted by Ted Shaw and a company of American and Hindu Assistants. Thursday, matinee and night, December 16—"Beauty, Youth and Folly." Friday, night only, December 17—Winthrop Ames, presents the Little Theater success, "A Pair of Silk Stockings."

HIGH IDEALS OF RUTH ST. DENIS

There is no art which is enjoying so marked a renaissance as the drama. What one may not regard as beautiful all the manifestations of this evolution as seen in the dramatic art, or in the work of certain of the erotic and sensational esthetic dancers, so called, it cannot be denied that the exhibition of such constructive attention than ever before. There are few of the artists engaged in the work of interpreting this new or revived spirit who maintain such high ideals as those of Ruth St. Denis, the Oriental Dancer, who will appear here at the Orpheum to-morrow evening. There is no point in her wonderful exhibition of dancing in which one feels inclined to say that this or that is done for sensational appeal. The high lights are dimmed, the impression is always manifest that the performance is constructed for beauty alone.—Advertisement.

CONCERNING "A PAIR OF SILK STOCKINGS"

Miss Allison Stimpson, who so pleasingly handles the role of Lady Gover in the Oriental "Silk Stockings," will present at the Orpheum on Friday evening, December 17, a comedy in two acts, "A Pair of Silk Stockings," which she has written with the members of "A Pair of Silk Stockings" company. Miss Allison Stimpson is the proud possessor of a twelve-acre farm on Long Island. On the same island, Gretna, who is another important member of the cast, owns fifty acres, while in their native rural life she has several apartments among the members of "A Pair of Silk Stockings" company.—Advertisement.

AT THE MAJESTIC

Easily the hit of the new Keith show went on view for the first time yesterday, as with "The Majestic" the hits of the Majestic's new season, is the splendid Hebrew comedy called "The Sons of Abraham," starring the clever star, Hugh Herbert, who is a fast favorite among Harrisburg audiences. The following is a synopsis of the play: Mr. Herbert lands his best dramatic efforts. Pretty girls, clever comedians and unusual musicians all contribute to the excellence of the remainder of the bill. The acts include: Martin's "Roses, Gretna misses a bright dancing number; Leona Guerny, the little girl with the big voice; Kisses as Borne, musicians of a high order, and the Rose Troupe of screamingly funny novelty acrobats.—Advertisement.

LAST DAY OF "BLACKBIRDS," WITH LAURA HOPE CREWS AT THE REGENT

Laura Hope Crews, the clever dramatic star, in an elaborate pictorialization of "Blackbirds," repeats to-day at the Regent.

When "Blackbirds" was presented in play form, with Laura Hope Crews as the star, it was conceded to be the cleverest crook play ever written, and Miss Crews, as the Queen of the Smugglers, made the hit of her phenomenal career.

To-morrow and Thursday — Jesse L. Lasky presents all-star cast in a pictorialization of "The Chorus Lady," by James Forbes. The play tells the story of the struggles of a keen-witted, clean-living young girl of the chorus, to keep her younger sister from falling into the clutches of a scheming man of the world. She saves her sister, only to lose the love of her young detective sweetheart.

The cast includes such stars as Cleo Ridgely, Wallace Reid, Margery Daw and Richard Grey.—Advertisement.

"THE DISCIPLE," AT THE COLONIAL

The newest Triang film, "The Disciple," now appearing at the Colonial, is proving to be the most unusual and most intensely interesting drama that has been exhibited at the Colonial since the new film policy was introduced there.

FREDDIE WELSH IS GIVEN SHAKEDOWN

"Jimmy" Murphy, Philadelphia Boy, Hands Surprise to Lightweight Champion

Special to The Telegraph.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 14.—Freddie Welsh made his first appearance in this city since he won the lightweight championship of the world, and was beaten in six slashing rounds last night at the Olympia A. A. by Jimmie Murphy, of this city. Murphy fought like a wildcat from the first round until the finish and had the champion on the defense most of the time.

Murphy simply tore into Welsh at every moment, whipping stinging short hooks and long sharp left jabs that stopped the Britisher several times as he attempted to rush in close.

Welsh carried the first round when he was the aggressor throughout, but in each of the succeeding rounds, excepting the fourth, which was even, Murphy had entirely the better of the milling. In the second round he cut the titleholder's lower lip with a stinging left hook, while Welsh drew a trickle of blood from the West Philadelphia's nose in the fourth round when he put all his weight behind a right hook.

Welsh, realizing he was fighting a losing battle, staged a hurricane rally in the last round in the hope of evening up the battle, but Murphy was right there with him swapping wallops. Jimmy wrought the last round to his feet when he landed several short rights and left on the head that shook the world's champion up and made him clinch.

Johnny Evers Knows Something About Golf

Johnny Evers, the peppery little captain of the former world's champion Boston Braves, is authority for the statement that there are only two real sports in this wide green world. They are baseball and golf. Of course, it would have been sensational if Johnny had said football and golf, or tennis and golf or in fact, anything other than baseball and golf.

Johnny says he is not alone in this belief, as fully 25 per cent. of the major league ball players turn to golf for diversion. Baseball, says Johnny, is sport for the fans, and work for the players, but golf is real sport for the players.
