OWN ADMISSION MAY COST $850

"Hardscrabble" Property Owner's House in Question at Tomorrow's Meeting

The admission of a "Hardscrabble" property owner's house to the city, which he believed his house had been moved to its present location since 1871 has led the board of viewers to issue subpoenas for a supplemental hearing on the schedule at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning in the City Council chamber.

The program of benefits and damages was exhibited Monday but since that hearing at least one of the interested house owners mentioned that he understood his residence was not erected prior to 1871 but had been moved from a site a few blocks away, to the west side of Front street. If this be true the property owner in question will come within the time limit prescribed by law which restricts the board of viewers from allowing damages on any improvements, including dwellings, boat-houses, etc., placed on the ground on the west side of the street between Herr and Calder streets after 1871. The viewers had allowed the property owner in question $850 damages but if it is proven that his house was placed on the affected district since the act became operative, this sum will be deducted and he will be awarded only the ground value of the property. It is believed will lead to other developments of a similar character. The city yesterday filed its bill for experts and other witnesses. This totals $711.

DAVID HARUM STORY

But It's in Stores Instead of in Horseflesh

An action that has some of the earmarks of an old-fashioned horse trade except that the transaction in question was in stores instead of horseflesh, was begun in the Dauphin county courts when Charles W. Hoffman, Kohn brought suit against Joseph Hoffman, a Lykens haberdasher, to recover damages for failure to complete the store deal.

Kohn contends that he offered Hoffman $5,000 for his store and paid $500 down to bind the bargain. Before the sale was closed, however, Hoffman made an inventory of the store stock he believed worth but $5,000 was really worth $7,500. Consequently, Kohn claims Hoffman refused to sell the store at all and frankly declined to return the $500. Kohn began the action to recover the $500 and whatever additional sum a jury may think he is entitled to.
