

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Evenly That It Cannot Be Discovered

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and straggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold. Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and luster of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. — Advertisement.

The Paramount Press prints an article by the son of the late Denman Thompson, in which he discusses in a reminiscent way the past history of the famous "Old Homestead," which every theatergoer for the last thirty or forty years must know by heart. It has a wonderfully human interest appeal to it, and lovers of the famous old play will be glad to learn that it is going to be presented on the moving picture screen. "The interest will be doubled," says Frank Thompson, "because the old home itself at Swansey, and Grace Church, in New York, will be used as settings, requiring no reproduction. The scene before Grace Church once seen will never be forgotten, for it is there that the old father is reunited with his wayward son, and hardened is the man or woman who can sit unmoved through that scene as it was first enacted by Denman Thompson.

"Virtue," the film play recently presented at Daly's Theater, New York, has been suppressed. The Court announced that it would be contrary to public morals to permit the film to be exhibited after Assistant Corporation Counsel Nicholson had read these phrases from advertising matter for the film: "See the Abduction Scene," "Rich Man's Harem," and "The Fire Scene in the Boarding School."

"AT THE OLD CROSS ROADS" A pleasing holiday attraction, "At the Old Cross Roads," which is at the Orpheum to-morrow afternoon and night. This is a play of the South and one that is a credit to the Orpheum. It seasons to its credit. It has been presented here before and always left a very good impression. The boys and girls have selected a cast of capable actors headed by Estha Williams and Edwin Walter.

Mrs. Piske, who is among our most distinguished American actresses, in a new modern light comedy, entitled "Erastus Susan," dramatized from Mrs. Helen R. Martin's novel, "Barnabas," comes to the Orpheum on the evening of Wednesday, January 5. The play introduces to the stage an environment that is new to the theater, that of the quaint characteristics and modern life among the Pennsylvania Germans in their settlements through Pennsylvania.

The Majestic will run three complete shows to-morrow night to take care of the holiday crowds. The doors will open at 8 o'clock and the show will run continuously until 11.

NELLA WALKER, POPULAR VAUDEVILLE Actress Who Will Be on the Christmas Bill at the Majestic scenery, a beautiful girl, costly clothes and music and comedy to find work during which she nearly starved to death and finally an accident—a fortunate one in this instance—which resulted in her securing her first step on the ladder that later brought her international fame. Throughout the five reels is woven a love story which finally results in her marriage to the young genius of the studios who first "discovered" her.

The Selig Company bought a full-blooded Missouri mule the other day, says Past-Pot and Shears, for $50, and there was no kick.

Henry Kellner, in "The Warning," will shortly appear at the Victoria Theater. He plays the part of a man who, through being a "good fellow" and his worst enemy goes through a literal hell before he learns his lesson. The story is told in allegorical form. Dore's illustration of Dante's "Inferno" have aroused much interest, which is naturally enhanced for those who have read Dante's works.

There are many comic surprises in store for theatergoers who see Ford Sterling in "His Father's Footsteps," now appearing under the Triangle banner at the Colonial Theater. He makes some quick frontiers from the role of a stern parent to that of a victim of the charms of his son's sweetheart. Many exciting incidents occur, many really funny incidents follow each other in rapid succession, and Mr. Sterling makes the most of a difficult but laughable role. "His Father's Footsteps" is the comedy side of the bill. "Matrimony" with beautiful Julia Dean, is the drama. Miss Dean is equally forceful in her interpretation of the role of a devoted wife who wins back her husband's attention turns butterfly, as she is in this latter role. She is surrounded by a small but excellent cast and the settings are exquisite.

Douglas Fairbanks, star of "The Lamb" will appear in "Double Trouble," a comedy drama, during the first half of next week at the Colonial. "Janitor's Wife's Temptations," a Keystone Sennett production, will provide the smiles of the bill.

ORPHEUM To-morrow (Christmas), matinee and night, "At the Old Cross Roads"; Wednesday, matinee and night, December 23, "Lavender and Old Lace"; Thursday, matinee and night, December 30, "The French Models" (burlesque).

1786 GERMAN NOBLES DIE ON BATTLEFIELD Berlin, Dec. 24.—According to the new "Almanach de Gotha," just published, the members of the German nobility killed on the battlefield, number 1786, as against some 800 English noblemen. Of the Germans, 592 belonged to the most ancient aristocracy, the rest to the minor noble grades.

AT THE VICTORIA "A Price For Folly," an exceptional Blue Ribbon photodrama produced by the Vitagraph Company, does not aim at commonplace realism, but strives to strike deeper with an idealism that delves into the mysteries of character, and it is all done in a spiritual way, possibly the very best way it could be done.

AT THE REGENT George Fawcett, the American actor who took London by storm, is starring in a dramatic romance, "The Majesty of the Law," at the Regent to-day on the Paramount program.

AT THE COLONIAL Douglas Fairbanks, star of "The Lamb" will appear in "Double Trouble," a comedy drama, during the first half of next week at the Colonial. "Janitor's Wife's Temptations," a Keystone Sennett production, will provide the smiles of the bill.

Girl is Driven to Suicide by Collapse of Pittsburgh Bank

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 24.—No bank failure in the history of Pittsburgh has caused such distress among the wage-earning classes as that of the Pittsburgh Bank for Savings, which closed its doors Wednesday morning. Depositors of the bank came from all walks of life, and thousands can ill afford to lose their savings now tied up in the institution. Already the indirect cause of one death, the bank's crash yesterday added another to its list. Worrying over the savings of her 9-year-old brother, Jennie Burnstein, 2031 Wylie avenue, swallowed carbolic acid this morning and died two hours later.

Root Writes Friend That He Will Not Enter Race

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 24.—Elihu Root will not be a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, according to a letter received here by Charles B. Elliott. Root wrote Elliott declining to have his name appear on the Republican Presidential primary ballot in Minnesota. Elliott once served as a member of the Philippine Commission. A. A. D. Rahn, personal friend of Colonel Roosevelt, yesterday said the name of the former President probably would appear on the Minnesota primary ballot. He said a strong movement to that end had been started.

Good Time to Buy Furs

Custom has made Christmas week a great fur buying occasion. The merchants provide liberal stocks and frequently offer unusually attractive prices. But furs are something that must be bought with caution. There is plenty of room for deception—for the foisting off of cheap skins under high sounding names. The buyer should patronize the store of sound repute where a guarantee is certain. And the guide to such stores will be found in the advertising in the Telegraph.
