ONE MAY IMAGINE SUMMER IS HERE

First of Winter Assemblies Held With Palm Beach Effects This Evening

From the cold blasts of winter winds, snow and icicles of last night's dance at the Masonic Temple, the merry dancers at this evening's first assembly will be swirled into the balmy breezes of Palm Beach, along avenues of palms, ferns and summer flowers.

Gorgeous clowns will hold baskets of fragrant blossoms, narcissi and roses, while the greens of southern smilax and fern soften the riot of color. The lights are shaded and the entire effect is most beautiful.

The patrons are Mrs. George Kunkel, Mrs. William Henderson and Miss Jennie Dull. For the first time in several years, there is no mistress of the Executive Mansion to head the list, and many of the old, familiar faces will be absent.

Miss Alice Daniels of Penbrook, has returned home after visiting her aunt Mrs. Amos Deane of Christiansburg.

Miss Helen Rockwell of the State Library Commission, accompanied by her brother, Frederick Gore Rockwell of Virginia, are spending the Christmas holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rockwell of Towanda, Pa.

Mrs. Sara Winemiller and daughter, Rachael Winemiller, of New Cumberland spent Christmas with Mrs. Winemiller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. W. Winemiller, of 125 South Fourteenth street.

Miss Blanche Howe of 707 South Front street, left today to visit her mother, Mrs. John Bryan of Middletown.

Miss Ruth Brownell, a student at the Deaconess Home in Philadelphia is spending the Christmas holidays at her home, 457 Broad street.

Frederick Gore Rockwell, a mining engineer of Virginia, visited his sister, Miss Helen Rockwell, of 205 State street on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Simone of North Seventeenth street, went to Philadelphia today to attend the funeral of a relative.

Miss Mary Zoll of Oberlin, spent Friday with friends in Harrisburg.

Mrs. J. W. Knisely of Fourteenth and Hachlen streets, has returned after a visit with her brother, Harry Diller and sister, Mrs. J. H. Galtner, of Carlisle.

Miss Esther Ruth, supervisor nurse at the Harrisburg Hospital spent Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ruth of Highspire.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dorwart of 1823 Berryhill street, have returned after visiting relatives in Coatesville.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Musser of Washington Heights, have come to Nebraska to visit friends and relatives for several weeks. Mr. Musser having practiced law in that State for a number of years previous to engaging in business in this city.

ENGAGEMENT DINNER At a dinner given at their home at Carlisle, Friday night, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Strook announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Florence Elizabeth Strook, to John H. Bickley, of Harrisburg. The wedding will take place some time next summer.

Miss Strook is a teacher in the Paulsboro, N. J., high school and Mr. Bickley is an instructor at Lehigh University. He is a son of William H. H. Bickley, city assessor and one of Harrisburg's prominent Republicans.

LUNCHEON TODAY FOR BRIDE-ELECT

Announce Engagement of Miss Helen Fair to Wm. Henry Horner, of Tennessee

One of the prettiest of holiday events was the luncheon given today at the Fair home, Old Orchard, when Dr. and Mrs. R. Willis Fair, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen McClelland Fair to William Henry Horner, of Cleveland, Tenn. Mr. Horner is in business at Owensboro, Ky., and the marriage will be celebrated on the 28th of January.

The table appointments were of pink and white with mistletoe and bouvardia in the flowers. Corsage bouquets in Victorian style were the favors.

Sing "The Light Eternal" at Immanuel Church

Immanuel Presbyterian choir sang the beautiful Christmas cantata, "The Light Eternal," by Fernie. Never in the history of the church has such fine music been given as that of Sunday, December 26.

The choir under Prof. Hammond sang as one voice and received its inspiration from one of Harrisburg's best directors.

Miss Georgias Snyder, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Snyder of "New Orchard," sang Gounod's "Ave Maria" with violin accompaniment by J. Fitzpatrick. Miss Snyder's work will long be remembered. Her lyric voice took the high notes clear and bird-like.

Her wide range enabled her not only to do fine solo work but also to lead the soprano chorus. Miss Snyder is a teacher of vocal music in Harrisburg, and well known to music lovers.

Miss Graff of Columbia, contralto soloist, did excellent work both as soloist and contralto leader.

Mr. Sterringer and Mr. Gage were tenor soloists and received much praise for their excellent work.

J. Fitzpatrick, violinist and baritone soloist, rendered his part with much ease and professional skill.

Albert Zaeffel of Lancaster has returned home after visiting his daughter, Louise Zaeffel, who is spending the winter at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Bucher of 1414 Derry street.
