Suits & Overcoats

COPYRIGHT 1915 THE HOUSE OF KUPPENHEIMER

Many stores have been persuaded to withhold their best merchandise from a reduced price this season on account of the scarcity of wool fabrics—but not so here—twice a year as regularly as clock work, this "Live Store" places on sale every Suit and Overcoat in stock.

It is one of our fundamental principles in this store to keep our clothes selection up to full selling strength, filling up the racks as fast as the racks are emptied. The result is we enter this sale with an unusually complete line of fresh winter styles in suits and overcoats. But now, the time for drastic action has come. Every garment on hand must go—and we are ready to make the necessary sacrifice for a rapid, decisive clearaway.

Remember we reserve none—all Blues and Blacks included, and all

Colonel Ott is in possession of the land, but it is claimed by the railroad company, too, and the colonel wishes to have his title to the property cleared.

First Improvement Bids for New Year.—The first bids for city improvements scheduled for 1916 will be opened at noon Friday, January 7, when City Commissioner W. H. ### FOLLOWING UP COLD STORAGE

State Officials Want to Know Where the Butter and Eggs Now Held Will Go

Officials of the State Department of Agriculture are awaiting with considerable interest the report of the cold storage warehouses of Pennsylvania which operate under State license on the amount of butter and eggs which they hold at the end of the year. By the act of 1915 the cold storage plants make reports to the dairy and food commissioner every quarter showing amount of food held in storage and when the time limits on the deposits will expire.

This month the time on millions of dozens of eggs, stored last Spring when eggs were abundant, will expire and there will also be movements out of storage of those on which the limit will not expire immediately because the southern eggs will soon commence to enter the market. It is expected that the reports will show large amounts of butter held in storage as well as considerable meat.

Rushing Out Tags.—Attaches of the State Highway Department are working over time to get into the parcel post the last rush of applications for 1916 automobile license tags and it is expected that by Friday night every application on hand will be shipped. No tags will be sent out on New Year's day and an car operated on January 1 or thereafter without the yellow and white tags will be cause for arrest. The number of licenses already issued for 1916 is greater than for a whole year half a decade ago. The Department is turning between $20,000 and $30,000 into the State Treasury every day from automobile licenses.

New Batteries Next Year.—Organization of the additional batteries of field artillery for the National Guard will not be taken up for some time according to information at the Capitol. The new batteries will undergo their first inspection in the next ninety days.

Await Approval.—Papers have been sent to the Governor for approval of the nine electric companies to be part of the Eastern Pennsylvania system in Schuylkill county. They were approved by the Public Service Commission last week.

Industrial Board Meets.—The State Industrial Board is in session to-day and it is probable that a secretary may be selected.

Year Will Close.—The State will close its books for December on Friday shortly after noon. The fiscal year ended on November 30. It is not expected that December will show very large receipts.

State Will Reply.—The State Highway Department will make a reply through the attorney general's department to the Northampton county mandamus proceedings. Deputy Attorney General W. H. Keller will be in charge of the case.

More Arrests Made.—State agents have caused the arrest of a number of merchants in Washington and other counties for the sale of eggs which had come from cold storage and which had not been properly marked.

Attending Meeting.—Wilson I. Fleming, assistant chief of the Bureau of Statistics and Information, of the State Department of Labor and Industry, is in Washington to-day attending a session of a national committee to determine on the classification of injuries sustained in industrial plants. The purpose of the meeting is to standardize accidents and subsequent injuries.

Commission Meets.—The Public Service Commission was to-day in executive session on cases which were argued recently. The commission may have several decisions soon.

Returned From Vacation.—William Bingham Kay, chief clerk to the auditor general, returned to-day from his vacation. John Lucas, of the executive department, also returned to-day from his vacation.

Mr. Brown Here.—Attorney General Brown was at the Capitol to-day after a short absence. He held a conference with his deputies and met a number of State officials.

Granted Exemption.—The State Workmen's Compensation Board to-day announced that the city of Wilkes-Barre had been exempted from necessity of carrying insurance against employers or public liability. Exemptions were also granted to the Philadelphia and Reading railway and fourteen of its subsidiaries, the Philadelphia, Bethlehem and New England railroad, the Bethlehem Steel company and the Jurague Iron company, of Bethlehem.

Stamps Issued.—Stamps for the new State stock transfer tax were sent to-day by the auditor general's department to the State stamp agencies. The tax will become effective on January 1 and requests for the stamps run high in the thousands.

The Hunting Toll.—Reports received by Dr. Joseph Kalbfus, secretary of the State game commission, from wardens show that during the recent hunting season twenty-seven persons were killed and 109 injured in Pennsylvania. These numbers may be slightly increased by later reports. Last year 31 persons were killed and 999 injured during the hunting season.

Object to Crossing.—The Public Service Commission received complaint to-day from supervisors of Allegheny township, Cambria county, regarding the alleged unprotected condition of the grade crossing on the Cambria and Clearfield division of the Pennsylvania railroad at Driscoll station, Cambria county. It is alleged that there is no watchman and that in addition to trains the railroad company operates a motorcar at high speed without warning.

After Patient.—State Health authorities were to-day seeking a small-pox patient who had broken from quarantine near Coaldale, and who was reported to have visited other towns in Schuylkill county. Officials were making an effort to round him up.

Want Building to House Government Records.—Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—Resolutions calling upon Congress for an appropriation with which to construct a national archives building in this city were adopted at a joint meeting here to-day of the American Historical Association, the American Economic Association, the American Political Science Association and other national societies.

Senator Miles Poindexter, of Washington, presided and he and other speakers dwelt upon the need of a building in which to house the government records.
