> Al Lawson, Atlantic League promoter, is coming to Harrisburg next week. That is the report received today. He is anxious to include this city in his new organization. Lawson is of the opinion that the Atlantic League is the logical successor to the old Tristate League. A dispatch from Allentown says:

> "Al Lawson, one of the pioneers of Tal Lawson, one of the pioneers of the old Atlantic League, and who helped give Allentown good baseball in 1907, proposes launching a new eight-team league next Spring. Since the demise of the Tristate League there has been a clamor for representative baseball. Lawson has fourteen cities lined up as prospective baseball towns. They are: Allentown, Bethlehem, Easton, Reading, Potts-ville, Paterson, Elizabeth, Perth Amboy, Trenton, Chester, Wilmington York, Lancaster and Harrisburg. Law son points out that Sunday ball could be played to paying crowds at Pater son, Elizabeth, Perth Amboy and Pottsville. His pick of these towns would be Allentown, Bethlehem, Easton, Reading, Pottsville, Paterson Elizabeth and Perth Amboy.

> "He says the declaration of peace in the baseball war is going to put a number of high class players on the market at less than the fancy salaries they have been demanding. He says he does not know whether the league will be under protection of organized ball and that this matter did not worry him.

WELLY'S CORNER

Al Lawson, promoter of outlaw baseball leagues, is coming to Harrisburg next week, according to reports, He wants to place a club in this city, and believes he has money-making plans to offer. Of course, it would have to be outlaw baseball. The Tri-State League has not given up its territory. No Fancy Salaries This Season

Baseball fans are not likely to take kindly to Lawson's proposition. After a two months' season of high class sport, it is a question whether paying crowds could be mustered for Atlantic League games. As it is a foregone conclusion that there will be no International League baseball in Harrisburg, the only proposition to be considered is a New York State League franchise. next season at reduced salary. Trailing in the wake of the announcement that the angular right-hander had unwittingly "boxed" his finacial status by spurning a Fed contract while flirting with the Reds came in the tip to-day that one of Comiskey's veteran pitchers, "Reb" Russell, was unsigned for 1916. ers. Willard, the champion. Papers are now enroute to New York and will be signed early next week. Moran asks the same price that was offered Eulton, with picture bonuses on the side. The fight is to take place in New Orleans early in March.

Pat Moran will receive $25,000 for three years' work with the Philadelphia National League club. Considering that Philadelphia had a pennant winning team last season, and that Moran was the man who was responsible, the Quaker manager will get an ordinary salary. With the end of the baseball war, notice was given that high salaries were a thing of the past. It looks like it.

"Whether or not Russell was striving to land a fat job with the Federals for 1916 or was holding out on the White Sox in an effort to gain a salary increase is a question I cannot answer," said the man making this disclosure. "The fact remains, however, that the club owners are determined to do away with fancy contracts and those players who failed to get in line at the close of the 1915 season are certain to be offered terms considerably below those given when they last signed."
