Sunday Says He Will Be "Some Valentine"

Special to the Telegraph

Trenton, Jan. 6.—"Billy" Sunday will go to Philadelphia on Monday, February 14, and the evangelist will probably speak from the platform of Convention Hall. "Billy" says he will be "some valentine."

News from Atlantic City to-day that Evangelist Stough will invite "Billy" to spend a day helping him chase the devil into the Atlantic was met by Sunday with the assurance that he would gladly consider such a "bid." "I'm only too glad to help any one," he said.

"Billy" preached his famous sermon on "The Home." He interspersed violent ultimatums to the devil and the "whisky gang" with a plea for the sanctity of the home, and that children be "given a chance." One moment he was drawing gales of laughter from his impersonation of a woman "who just hated children"; the next he was telling the story of some poor youngster, handicapped at the start from lack of a mother's care, that made the tears flow from sympathy.

Riddle Ready to Take Platform For Dr. Stough

Atlantic City, Jan. 7.—Mayor Riddle is ready to take the platform at the tabernacle to help Evangelist Stough in his difficult task of breaking through the shells of hardened shore sinners.

The Mayor, who has let slip few opportunities to deride the resident clergy, to-day admitted he has written a letter conveying certain suggestions and propositions to Evangelist Stough. The open-Sunday executive and evangelist became fast friends at their first meeting in Riddle's office. Riddle refused to give out a copy of the letter. "But I'll tell you this much," he said. "Stough is here after hypocrites, and I'm out for that kind of game just as strong as he is. I'll be up there on the platform with him before this thing is over, telling him who the hypocrite are in Atlantic City and how to get them."

MAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 7.—John T. Gossard, a farmer living near Williamsport, was found in flames along a road near that place by two men, who extinguished the fire and saved him from being fatally burned. Gossard was smoking a cigar and thinks that sparks fell into his clothing. He did not discover the fire until the flames began to burn his flesh and was unable to help himself. Gossard's trousers and the lower part of his coat were nearly burned off.

Mechanicsburg, Pa., Jan. 7.—Mrs. Christiana Harlacker, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Seymour Sherman, West Marble street, will be buried on Monday morning. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock and burial will be made in the Mechanicsburg Cemetery.

In the Amusement World

Tuesday and Wednesday and Wednesday matinee, January 11 and 12—Al. G. Field and His Greater Minstrels. Thursday, matinee and night, January 13—"The Auto Girls." (Burlesque). Monday, night only, January 17—Andrew Dippel presents the international musical success, "The Lilac Domino."

STATE DIRECTORS TO MEET HERE

Governor to Speak on "Continuation Schools"—To Change Constitution

School directors from all over the State will meet at the Technical and Central high schools Thursday and Friday, February 3 and 4, respectively, at the annual session of the directors' department of the Pennsylvania Educational Association. The program, which includes an address by Governor Brumbaugh on "Continuation Schools," follows:

Thursday—Opening with devotional exercises at 9.30 o'clock conducted by the Rev. Dr. Lewis S. Mudge, pastor of Pine Street Presbyterian Church; address of welcome, the Rev. Dr. William N. Yates, director of the city board; response, Charles M. Magee, Easton; music; address, Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent Pittsburgh schools; "The Old Order Changeth," address, Superintendent R. O. Wellington, Potter county; "Problems in the Rural Schools," appointment of committees; presentation of resolutions. Afternoon, 1.30 o'clock—address of welcome, president, J. Newton Rhoads, Reading; address, "Continuation Schools," Governor Brumbaugh; address, Dr. J. George Becht, secretary State Board of Education; "Pension System for Teachers," report of legislative committee. Evening, 7.30 to 8.15—Music by Technical high school orchestra; address, Congressman Samuel D. Fess, Ohio.

Friday Morning, 8.30 o'clock—Chapel exercises at Central high school, with music by pupils and orchestra; annual address to students, Dr. Samuel Hamilton, superintendent Allegheny county schools; address, the Rev. J. Charles Rausch, Allentown school board; reports of committees; resolutions and nomination of officers.

To Change Constitution

Several changes in the constitution will be voted upon, too. The article relative to membership will be amended to include present and past officers of the association from all cities and boroughs, state, county, city, borough and township superintendents and principals of normal schools as advisory members. Each county association will be entitled to five representatives and each city and borough its entire membership if it so desires. The clause relative to officers is to be amended to provide that the officers shall include a president, three vice-presidents, a secretary and an executive committee of five members.

Then-- and Now

In the Days of Old there was little music in the home. Few could afford the piano of these days and still fewer could become skillful on it.

The Thompson Player Piano

$375--EASY TERMS IF YOU PREFER

has brought about a striking contrast. Anyone can play the Thompson Player Piano and whatever music your fancy dictates, even though you've never practiced an hour in your life, for there are thousands and thousands of selections at your command.

In the pioneer days of the Player Piano, anything that would reproduce in their proper order, the notes of a composition was considered wonderful. Now-a-days however, the demands of the Player Piano are far more exacting. In the first place the piano must have "tone." Then comes "control"—that embodiment of the Player Piano which eliminates the "mechanical" effect. Argument here would avail nothing, so, to sum up; let us suggest a demonstration of the Thompson Player Piano. Come in and hear the tone, the expression, and note the ease of control— or better still, come in and play it yourself even though you've never sat before a player piano.

Do Your Shoes Recommend You?

In the office, on the street, in the car, do your shoes stamp you as a man who is capable and efficient? They cannot unless they are shoes of real quality in style and workmanship and have the ability to "stand up" under the steady daily grind.

Steckley's shoes are just the kind that DO stand up. They'll recommend you anywhere—any time. Prices most moderate.

The Service You Can't See Until After You Buy

It is doubtful if any word has been batted around so relentlessly as "Service."

Now, we believe, is the fitting time to let our friends know exactly what we mean.

We know that the value of your machine is not simply its power, its speed, its load capacity, but its dependability. Its dependability depends largely on the professional ability of the men back of your local service.

This, then, is what our better service means to you:

- (1) Adequate stock of Repair Parts, Goodyear Tires and Accessories.
- (2) Skilled mechanics.
- (3) Immediate Help in Case of Trouble.
- (4) Reasonable charges for time and material.
- (5) Frequent Inspection of Machine.

All these things mean better results, less upkeep for you. You may not actually see our service when you buy, but will appreciate the merit of this unseen value later.

Excuse Me! From the Play at the Regent

"Excuse Me!" a Pathe Gold Rooster play at the Regent, featuring George F. Marion.

The fun starts when Henry Mallory, U. S. Army, receives orders to join his regiment, which is to embark for the Philippines. The Overland Limited is the only train that will enable him to reach the coast in time to meet his courtmartial. Having a little time to spare, he persuades Marjorie to elope with him and reserves the train. They reach the train in time, but haven't time to get married. The happenings throug are acrimoniously funny, and end well.

To-morrow only—Jesse L. Lasky presents Broadway's most popular comedienne, Fannie Ward, in "The Marriage of Kitty," on the Paramount Program.

MANSFIELD'S WIDOW ENTERS VAUDEVILLE IN A PORTIA PLAYLET

Mrs. Richard Mansfield, widow of the late famous actor, will shortly present in vaudeville a one-act play entitled "The Quality of Mercy." This playlet by Grace Livingston Furness, and is founded upon Mrs. Mansfield's speech as Portia in "The Merchant of Venice."

THE FIELD MINSTRELS COMING

Just to make sure that nothing is overlooked, Al. G. Field is said to see to it that every few weeks there are introduced new Ford stories the audiences can repeat to their friends as the latest thing from the "Ford" front. Among the premiere blackface comedians with this minstrel company are: Bert Swor, Harry Shunk, Joe Coffman, John Healy, Al. Sexton, Joe McCarty—all men of prominence in the minstreling circles. The Al. G. Field Greater Minstrels are coming to the Orpheum Tuesday and Wednesday and Wednesday matinee.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN IN LONDON'S LEGACY AT THE VICTORIA TO-DAY

To-day's offering at this theater is "London's Legacy," taken from the work of Meredith Nicholson, the American author, and features J. Warren Kerrigan, said to present the acts of entertainment of the good, wholesome variety—the kind one never can get enough of. For Saturday we will present for the first time in this city, Henry R. Walthall and Edna Mayo in "The Misdemeanor Lady."

It is a five-act photoplay full of tense moments and dramatic thrills. It deals with primitive passions and cave-man methods introduced into society. Thwarted in love, a young American adventurer, just returned from South America, adopts the methods of wooing the Patagonian savage. He kidnaps the girl, carries her off in his auto to the floor, and by his brute force and mastery wins her love.

Ask Public to Give Opinions to Railroads

"What causes lack of confidence in railroads?" This question is asked the public in a bulletin which has been issued by the Pennsylvania Railroad in the form of a poster. Copies will be prominently displayed in waiting-rooms, ticket and freight offices, and in other public places on the Pennsylvania System.

"The management of this railroad wants to get at the causes, wherever they exist, and remove them," says the poster. "The starting point is to get the people who do lack confidence in this railroad to say so and tell why."

The poster invites serious suggestions from all railroad patrons as to ways in which the service may be improved and a better understanding brought about between those who use the railroads and those who manage them.

Brotherhoods Are Unit on Shorter Hour Scale

Special to the Telegraph

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Their consideration of demands of all the railroads in the country for shorter hours having been completed the representatives of the four great railroad brotherhoods left for their homes. The demands which are to be presented to the railroad heads before the expiration of the present contracts with the employees next April mark the first time in the history of the several organizations in which they have acted as a unit in their effort for fewer hours or higher wages.
