CHARITY BALL TO PLEASE HUNDREDS

Invitations For Big Social Event January 20 Are Being Issued

WHY SO MANY WILL DANCE

Needs of Associated Aids Societies Real Reasons For Gorgeous Event

While the charity ball, January 20, is to be a very gorgeous affair—colorful and frolicsome—the purpose for which the big event is being planned is worth well thinking about, too.

Hundreds and hundreds of folks who are, arranging to attend the ball only give a passing thought, perhaps, to the great motive which is actuating an earnest committee of well-known society women and prominent business men to give Harrisburg the most gorgeous affair of its kind in the city's social history.

The needs of the Associated Aids Societies of Harrisburg are the real reasons for the ball. Both branches of the big charitable organization—the Social Service Bureau and the Children's Aid Society—are accomplishing work of which the average citizen rarely dreams.

While the mailing committee is busy with this detail the decorations committee is finishing the preparation of hundreds and hundreds of bunches of tissue paper wisteria and Japanese iris for the Japanese garden.

The music will be furnished by two orchestras. Stauffer's orchestra, of Carlisle, will alternate with Miss Sara Lerner's crack body of musicians.

The Literary Circle of the Y. M. H. A. and the Ladies' Auxiliary will meet every Wednesday evening at the clubhouse on North Sixth street, beginning January 12, it was decided at a meeting last Tuesday.

St. Mary's Church, Fifth and Macay streets, will give a five hundred and eucher party at Wintertale on Monday evening, January 24, at which Miss Sara Lerner's orchestra will play.

When a Young Man Goes a-Courting

When a young man goes a-courting, his mind turns to beautiful gifts for his loved one. An engagement ring, then a wedding ring. C. Ross Boas has all these among the thousands of other beautiful things to gladden the heart.

Now, after the wedding comes the home. The House that Jack Built might have been good enough in its time, but Joseph W. Pomraining can build a much better and up-to-date one.

When the house is done, you can go and see Sam Fackler about the furniture and carpets—no better place in the world.

Say, now, it is time for the Player Piano. Charles E. Bard and Company can arrange this. If you already own a piano that has no player in it, don't trade it off, but send it out to Charles E. Bard and Company and they will put a player in it for you.

AFTER A PLAYER-PIANO

After a player piano, comes an automobile. Here is where Harvey W. Ehling shines. He also sells tires and he never tires telling about their good qualities

Now, Hubby, think some about your office. Go over and talk to David W. Cottrell and he will tell you about all the latest office supplies and filing cabinets.

We don't know yet where you are to buy coal, but Thomas A. Thorley can sell you all kinds of drugs and toilet articles. Arnica is good for bruises which occur from accidents.

When accidents happen to your car and you want it made new, be fair and take it across the Mulberry Street Bridge to Chas. A. Fair.

Now to keep up the expense of the foregoing, one must invest the money they have in paying securities. These are handled by the Industrial Securities Co.

Sorry about that coal but maybe when we tell you where you buy milk, groceries, clothing and a few other things, our coal man will have been found.

FIRST ANNUAL BALL ON JAN. 26

Y. M. H. A. and Ladies' Auxiliary Promise Unusually Attractive Dance

The Young Men's Hebrew Association and the Ladies' Auxiliary are making great preparations for their big annual ball which will be given in Wintertale Hall on Wednesday evening, January 26.

Invitations have been sent to several hundred people in the city and vicinity and a large number of out-of-town guests are expected to attend, including many prominent business and professional men.

Many novel features will be introduced in the course of the evening, not the least of which will be fancy dancing by several pretty young misses. There will be elaborate decorations and an orchestra from this city will furnish the music.

James Fooss, former councilman of the Ninth ward, this city, and for many years a well-known blacksmith, is slowly recovering from a very serious operation, at his home in Shermansdale, Perry county.
