THEATRICAL DIRECTORY ORPHEUM—To-night Andreas Dippel presents "The Lilac Domino."

Mr. Henderson, of the New York Sun, said, among other things, "The Old Homestead" (Moving Pictures).

It is now about three years since the jingling musical comedy, "On the School Playgrounds," was presented at the Orpheum Theater.

Especially interesting, in view of Mrs. Bernhardt's ill health, is the fact that her acting is preserved forever in the screen production of "Jeanne Dore."

The Majestic's bill for the first half of the week will also include Beeman and Anderson, eccentric roller skaters; Helen Gannon, a singing comedienne; and Hal and Francis, man and woman, who present a song, dance and patter specialty.

Dramatic spectacles and beautiful and wild scenery add much to the effectiveness of the power of the "Penitents" Griffith production.

What This Anniversary Means to the People of Harrisburg

Ask yourself—what kind of pictures could I see before the Regent Theater was opened? In what kind of theaters could I see them?

Your answer to these simple questions will supply the keynote to the real and broader meaning of this Anniversary Week to the people of Harrisburg.

The Pioneer and Only Theater of Metropolitan Standards

Now, since the Regent has been opened, you can see the finest pictures the world affords, acted by the most famous stars of stage and screen, and presented by the master producers of the country.

You can see these pictures in a beautiful, well-arranged, well-ventilated theater, with the accompaniment of the highest class music. Our costly four-manual organ is not excelled in many of the large cities of the country.

Mary Pickford

has signed a new contract for the year 1916, with the Famous Players Film Co.

The pictures featuring Mary Pickford during the year will cost

$500,000.00

Half a million dollars! Real money! Just one star! For one year!

The first photoplay under the new arrangement will be "Poor Little Pepina," her most elaborate production.

Millions of dollars more will be paid for other Paramount Pictures featuring celebrated stars.

Sounds impossible but it is possible only because so many millions of people, each week, go to Paramount theatres to see the highest class photoplays.

If no theatre in your neighborhood is showing Paramount Pictures ask the manager to get them. If he's a hustler he will be glad to please his patrons.
