

BAKERS WARNED
BY DR. JACKSON

Commissioner of Labor Gives
Some Sound Advice to Men
Who Bake the Bread

Notice that all persons employed in bakeries are subject to medical inspection and that unsanitary practices will be cause for prosecution has been issued by Dr. John Price Jackson, State Commissioner of Labor and Industry, together with some warnings to employes about keeping shops and themselves clean.

This notice follows inspection of bakeries in most of the cities, particularly Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and the notices are issued in the form of those recently put out for printers and men engaged in other occupations who are liable to certain afflictions. One of the warnings is that bakers, who often have pains in their feet, should go at once to see a doctor, because it is probably "flatfoot" and not rheumatism, while another is that any baker with a sore on a hand should stop work for his own sake and the sake of the public until he is well. Bakers are told not to use tobacco while working, not to scrape hands or arms with knives to remove dough, not to wet fingers in the trough and other things and warned not to go out into the open air from the bakery unless properly protected because of danger of pneumonia.

Shaking of empty flour bags in the room is declared to be dangerous and flour should be handled with care because of the irritation caused by flour dust, while employes are told to keep shops clean and to scrub them every day if possible.

Thieves Who Rob House
Tear Up Bank Check

Special to the Telegraph
Mechanicsburg, Pa., Jan. 31.—Thieves entered the home of Michael S. Spahr in West Simpson street on Saturday evening before 10 o'clock, while he and his family were attending the Singer Band festival. Entrance was gained through a cellar window and the entire house ransacked. The contents of closets and bureau drawers were thrown on the floor, and beds torn up in the search for valuables. All that they procured, however, was a gold watch and a drawing outfit of the son, Ralph, who is taking a course in a correspondence school. Lights were ablaze in every room with blinds drawn, and it is thought they escaped through the kitchen door, which was wide open when the family came in from a bank check for one hundred dollars, already endorsed, was torn in half by the robbers and left in its place.
