Stine and Wells Talk

on New Courthouse

Both Henry M. Stine and Harry C. Wells, the city representatives on the Board of County Commissioners, discussed briefly to-day the problem of erecting a new courthouse. Sald Commissioner Wells:

"Before the County Commissioners could take any action relative to the construction of a new courthouse the step would have to be recommended three times consecutively by Dauphin county grand juries. I believe, however, that the erection of a new courthouse would meet with general approval and I think the sentiment for a new structure is growing."
