VILLA THREATENS TO KILL GRINGOES

Rebel Leader Terrorizes Mining Camp; Many Americans Still in Mexico

By Associated Press. El Paso, Feb. 7. — Francisco Villa, Mexican insurgent leader terrorized the mining camp of Liguna, Chihuahua, on Monday last and threatened to "kill all gringos he caught," according to Mexican passengers who arrived here to-day on the first train from the south in eight days. On Monday last, they said, Villa appeared at the Pielagos mine at Laguna and ransacked the town, leaving only a small supply of corn. Upon leaving they said Villa made the threat against the Americans. On Wednesday, it was said, Villa reappeared with 200 followers and told the laborers to leave, asserting that he did not want any mines owned by Americans to be operated. The Pielagos mine is owned by an Englishman and an American now in Chihuahua City. The passengers declared that on February 1, Pablo Lopez, who is said to have directed the recent massacre of 18 foreigners at Santa Ysabel with twenty followers rode into Fresno, a suburb of Chihuahua City, killed four soldiers, stole a number of horses and escaped. Chihuahua City, it is said, has a garrison of only 500 Carranza troops and frequent killings in the streets are reported. Sixty Americans remain in Chihuahua City.

GEO. REINHART SUFFERS STROKE

Member of Capitol Police Force Is Overcome While in Elevator

George Reinhart, a member of the Capitol police, suffered a stroke of paralysis early this morning at the Capitol. Reinhart for many years has been stationed in front of the south entrance to the Capitol. About 10 o'clock this morning he left his post to go to the police headquarters in the basement of the building to put on warmer clothes. As he entered the elevator on his way to the basement he toppled over and only was saved from probable serious injury by the passengers in the elevator, who supported him. Reinhart's home is in Waynesboro. He has been attached to the Capitol police for the last five years. At the Hartman Hospital, where he was taken, it is said that his condition is not serious. Governor Returning.—Governor and Mrs. Brumbaugh are expected home from their honeymoon trip this week, but just when is not known. Nobody could verify a report circulated to-day that they would arrive in Harrisburg this evening. Governor Brumbaugh, who has avoided all formal dinners and similar functions during his stay at Pinehurst, N. C., devoting himself entirely to Mrs. Brumbaugh and golf, took advantage of an invitation to meet several old friends and acquaintances at a dinner held Saturday night at the Pinehurst Country Club and attended by a number of the leading men of the district. Although the Governor was the guest of honor, the dinner was a fixture before the Governor came to Pinehurst and was given primarily to facilitate the discussion of plans for an important project. This is the laying out of an elaborate parkway system throughout Moore county, which already is famous for its fine roads and driveways. Governor Brumbaugh showed active interest in the subject, especially when he found that the work was to be carried out under the guidance of Warren H. Manning, Harrisburg's landscape and park expert.

Doutrichs MARK-DOWN SALE

The Greatest Sale in the History of This "Live Store"

Truly the overwhelming crowds who thronged here Saturday was most complimentary---our business Saturday far exceeded our highest expectations. With the addition of twenty salesmen to our already large selling force we felt fully prepared to meet the demands---but we underestimated the loyalty demonstrated at this Clearance Sale and the liberal patronage this store enjoyed.

Thanks for the patience to those who were compelled to wait---and to those who could not be waited on we express our regrets and ask you to come in again during this Mark-Down Sale, where our entire stock is honestly reduced.

Coming Struggle In the Coal Regions

Through the coal trade the belief is growing rapidly that the Anthracite field is to be the center of a great labor struggle. The miners have made 20 demands upon the coal mining companies. All these demands are not likely to be granted. For this reason there is going to be a rather serious struggle. Whether it is long drawn out, as in the case of 1902, depends upon a matter of money. And the matter of money depends upon first the number of mining districts drawn out on a strike; and second, on the demand for coal next Spring. If the demand for coal is keen and the operators cannot afford to lie idle for any length of time the miners' demands may be more speedily settled. Anyway, you are bound to pay more for coal than ever before. If there is a strike it will be difficult to get a supply at any price. Better put in a quantity and be on the safe side.

VIEWERS FAVOR CLOSING CROSSING

Substitute Road at Wormleysburg, However, Is Not Satisfactory; Action Delayed

Special to the Telegraph. Carlisle, Pa., Feb. 7. — The Board of Viewers appointed by the Cumberland county court to decide whether or not the grade crossing at Front street, Wormleysburg, should be closed, made their report late Saturday afternoon. The viewers decided the grade crossing which leads to several farms west of Wormleysburg, should be closed, but they opposed the opening of Park avenue across Fort Washington, as a substitute, as this road would not give the farmers an outlet into Wormleysburg, their closest post office. It is understood that the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Northern Central Railroad companies were willing to open that road to the farms. The court then reappointed the viewers to find a location for a road which would be a satisfactory substitute for the grade crossing stretch. The viewers will meet on the ground March 17 and it is understood they will recommend the construction of a road through the subway at Walnut street, Wormleysburg. The report of the viewers will be made in the Cumberland county court in May. The viewers in this case are W. B. Oyer, Newville; Hugh B. Craig, Shippenburg; S. J. Tritt, Centerville.

DEATH AND ILLNESS TAKES TOLL OF JUROR'S PANEL

Death and illness took its toll from the special criminal court jury panel at the opening of court this morning. Abraham Herb, a Halifax township farmer, died since he was here in January; Elias Wolf, a Lykens township farmer, is ill in bed. Even though well his attendance would have been prohibited by the death of his small granddaughter. Others excused from duty included David F. Fisher, Middletown; John Seibert, South Hanover; Joseph Lutz and Ross Shull, this city; and Harry B. Orth, Steelton, were excused until Wednesday when the murder trials begin.

FINAL INSTITUTE IN LINGLESTOWN

Meetings Arranged For Dauphin County End With Instructive Talks

Special to the Telegraph. Linglestown, Pa., Feb. 7.—Following addresses on poultry, water supply, drainage and rural homes, the Farmers' Institute was brought to a close in Union Chapel Saturday evening. Notwithstanding the bad condition of the roads in this section, many persons from nearby farms were in attendance. A feature of the closing session was the singing of the school children. The institute here was the third and last one scheduled for Dauphin county this year and today the institute speakers traveled into York county for six meetings, which will take up a period of two weeks. S. G. McLain, of Jefferson county, was the first speaker on Saturday and he talked on water supply systems in use in the country. Farmers, he said, do all they can to save themselves work in the field and he urged them to lessen the burden of the wife's work in the home. He told how good water supplies can be gotten cheaply and then explained the advantages the woman will derive by not having to go to the old pump or spring any longer. Mr. McLain is an employe of the State and his services, when desired by farmers, are free. He will go to a farm, make the necessary surveys and lay out a water supply or drainage system and there will be no charge for his work. Following the meeting, the Jefferson county man received a number of requests to return to this section and visit some farms. He will likely be here in the early Spring he said. E. L. Phillips, of Clarion County, a poultry expert, who has between 8,000 and 10,000 white leghorns on his farm, gave an illustrated talk on poultry farming. Mr. Phillips showed and talked about brooder houses, the care of young chicks, feeding and living conditions in general. Many farmers in this vicinity are greatly interested in poultry so that the illustrated lecture proved very instructive and entertaining. S. C. George, of Indiana county, the evening's third speaker discussed home life in the country and he urged the country folk to make their homes as pleasant as possible for the growing generation. He said if conditions are made pleasant there would be less likelihood of so many boys leaving the farm.
