LINCOLN'S ASSASSINATION DEPICTED TRUTHFULLY IN SCENES IN "THE BIRTH OF A NATION"

Terrible Incident in Ford's Theater When President Was Slain. Graphically Reproduced in Play That Comes to the Orpheum.

A kind of artistic achievement easy for the film, but impossible for the "indoor drama" is illustrated by the Ford's Theater scene in "The Birth of a Nation," booked for the week of February 14 at the Orpheum. The old-fashioned drama has long attempted to represent a stage within a stage, and some of such representations have been rather realistic.

Lou-Tellegen, in "The Unknown," is the offering at the Regent for the first two days of this week, and that it is pleasing the patron's attraction is attested by the remarks of approval overheard at last night's showing of this Paramount masterpiece.

"The Unknown" is the film adaptation of the well-known novel, "The Red Mirage," by L. A. R. Wylie, and in the title role, Mr. Tellegen "goes strong"; his work before the camera could scarcely be improved upon.

The underside of New York life, with love, jealousy and sacrifice as the motifs of the plot, is set forth in remarkable manner in "Love's Cross Roads," the Equitable release which is at the Victoria Theater to-day.

Taft.

In the Annette Kellerman picture, now in course of production for William Fox, at Kingston, Jamaica, under the direction of Herbert Brenon, 15,000 costumes are in use. The manufacture of these was accomplished under the personal supervision of Mrs. Irene Lee, head of the William Fox costume department.

Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival. The date is Friday and Saturday, February 11-12, the place, the Orpheum, the attraction, Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival, and the new features—a ride via an aeroplane above and among the clouds; the Birth of Fort bridge; the exciting scenes of a torpedoboot caught in a terrific gale; jogging in Italy; wintry days in the Swiss Alps; little journeys to Madeira, France, Holland and Glacier National Park, and through the big plant of the Willys-Overland.

Do You Feel Headachy? Look to Your Stomach. It is an unusual thing for a druggist to sell medicine under a guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure. Yet this is the way that nearly every druggist in Harrisburg is selling Mi-o-na, the standard dyspepsia remedy.

Review of the Majestic Bill. variety, there are rough spots, which need the electric hand of the censor, and then, too, over it goes to the other extreme—a ray of the ethereal light, the sordidly mundane, Whitney's Operatic Dolls is a novelty which Harrisburg remembers among Orpheum days.
