The first ballot taken was upon the question of returning a second degree verdict. This was voted down by 11 to 1.

The Shuman jury will go down in Dauphin's criminal history as the "jury of the Johns" and "the men, eight of them were surnamed John."

When a Feller Needs a Friend By BRIGGS

My Valentine

'Tis an old-fashioned custom to send out to-day Some visible sign of devotion, Some trifle of ribbon and flowers and lace With appropriate words as a token. We live in an age most progressive and swift. Must our hearts be so regulated That once in a season we show what they hold Lest the fever of work be abated? Who knows of the changes a year may bring forth? Three hundred and sixty-five days I would rather you TELL of your love, sweetheart, In spite of the old-fashioned ways! —ANNA H. WOOD. Poor Woman Spurns $40,000 Left by Skinfint Uncle

New York, Feb. 14.—Miss Edith Kitching, who lives in one room in old Greenwich village, explained yesterday why she has refused to accept $40,000 at least, and perhaps a great deal more, of the estate left by her uncle, Francis F. Ripley, a money lender, of Brooklyn.

Miss Kitching earns $300 a year, and that is all she has. But much as she needs money, her principles and convictions prevent her from taking the thousands which, she says, are tainted.

The source of my Uncle Ripley's money was not pure. If there ever was a skinfint on earth, that was Uncle Ripley. He was a miser from childhood, and the only pleasure he took in living at all was in piling up stacks of gold, grinning over his mortgages, thinking up new ways to grind out interest payments. I would rather starve than take a cent of that money. We take the money ground out of unfortunate people? I guess not!

"The law is law for all indicted men alike," was the decision of the federal attorneys.
