MORE POWER FOR CENSOR'S BOARD

Breitingers Report Deals With the Needs in Moving Picture Supervision

Amendments to the State laws governing the supervision of moving picture films so that the Pennsylvania Board of Censors may have greater authority over films shipped into this State from other parts of the country, the power to confiscate objectionable films and be enabled to bar all seals except that of the Commonwealth from films shown within the State are among the recommendations made in the report of the censors submitted to-day to Governor Brumbaugh.

The report covers the period from May 17, when the board assumed work under the new act, until November 30, 1915, and notes 11,146 inspections, collection of $27,055.50 in fees and $3,965 in fine condemnation of 169 films and elimination of parts of 6,540. In addition the board required the making over of many films and saved material for the owners and exhibitors.

In the course of the report the board notes the growth of the business and states that three-fourths of the films are made in California. Seventy-five per cent of the films shown in this State are melodrama and twenty per cent of the remainder comedy, much of which the report classifies as coarse. Criticism is made of many of the advertisements shown by the movie theaters and the report declares that "the board cannot believe that the motion picture theater is a medium for teaching the youth of Pennsylvania moral lessons, through melodrama, which it could much better get through the old channels in the church or school, nor will it be turned from its way by appeals for fresher to lay bare or advertise the sordid relations of life in the name of literature or the dramatic art."

Death Brings Out Secret of Wedding Eleven Years Ago

Special to the Telegraph
Mechanicsburg, Pa., Feb. 17.—After keeping it a secret for almost eleven years, announcement was made of the marriage of Jacob G. Eshleman and Mrs. Alma Klink, resident of Silver Spring township, after the death of the former on Monday. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. A. Pyles, of Harrisburg, a former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church in this place, in June, 1905. Yesterday funeral services for Mr. Eshleman were conducted by the Rev. J. J. Resh and burial was made in the Slate Hill cemetery. Following the service, the will of the deceased was read in which he bequeathed his entire estate to his wife.

S. P. C. A. Notes

By HELEN BRUCE WALLACE
One of the more recent works of the humane societies throughout the country is to take an active part in wild bird protection. The S. P. C. A. is furthering this work among the school children. Special talks will be given on what the birds mean to the farmer, and the wild and property owner in the jurisdiction of the society is urged to erect birdhouses this coming Spring.

This is not a sentimentalism. Dr. William T. Hornaday, a famous naturalist and director of the New York Zoological Park, says: "Every one of the perching birds is worth its weight in gold to the farmer. It will be a sad day for the American agriculturist when the last insect destroying bird is brought fluttering and dead to the ground. Then, if never before, will he appreciate the value of the allies he has lost forever; then, indeed, when it is too late, will he be willing to exchange any quantity of berries or cherries for just one pair of living robins, catbirds or other birds so despised and neglected to-day."

Many farmers resent the robin on their land through ignorance of his habits of feeding. The robin has insects to eat, and the noxious insects, which, un molested, would soon make impossible the profitable cultivation of even our rich Dauphin county soil.

According to the Department of Agriculture of the United States the annual loss to agriculture through the ravages of insects is fully ten per cent of the entire production. This means the loss of more than one billion dollars, each year not counting the expense in labor and insecticides, of trying to destroy these pests.

What can the birds do against such ravages? Investigation proves that forty per cent of the food of the robin the year round is composed of insects. In the rose-breasted grosbeak besides its beauty of body and song is one of the few birds of Pennsylvania that feeds on potato bugs. Since Professor Fabush, of Massachusetts, has shown that the potato bug can be the ancestor of sixty murely of its kind in one season surely bird protection is economically worth while.

The man or woman who excuses brutality to dogs because of a dread of their bite will gain courage and lose an excuse from an affidavit made by Superintendent Frel, of the American S. P. C. A., New York City. He has had charge of dog license work in New York for the past twenty years, his employees have received more than thirty thousand bites and there has not been one single case of hydrophobia as a result.

WHEN YOU CAN'T SNAP 'EM OTHERWISE, USE A SKYROCKET

Skyrocket photographing outfits have been considerably developed by the Germans for taking pictures of enemy country, a similar outfit is described in this magazine a few years ago. A new outfit was recently brought out by the American S. P. C. A., compactly, allowing easy transport in the field. The rocket used is about 19 1/2 feet long, and carries a camera in the conical nose, and a parachute in the cylindrical part. A fall tower is provided for guiding it at starting. The structure which serves in this connection is made in one piece, and forms the bulk of the apparatus. Interlocking joints hold it together when erected, and the middle an A-shaped support is provided. In shooting a rocket, the missile is placed within the tower. The latter is rotated to an upright position, and the powder charge touched off. The long projectile mounts high in the air, a gyroscope in its upper end keeping the camera pointed in the right direction, until a picture is taken. Coming down, the parachute unfolds from the upper barrel and conveys the various pieces safely to the ground. Afterward the film is taken from the camera and developed.—From the February Popular Mechanics Magazine.

A Well Known Actress Tells How She Darkened Her Gray Hair and Promoted Its Growth With a Simple Home Made Mixture.

Miss Blanche Rose, a well-known actress, who darkened her gray hair with a simple preparation which she mixed at home, in a recent interview at Chicago, Ill., made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/4 oz. glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the required shade. This will make a gray haired person look 20 years younger. It is also fine to promote the growth of hair, relieves itching and scalp humors and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair."

Twenty-four Ministers of United Brethren Church at Funeral of S. F. Engle

Palmyra, Pa., Feb. 17.—Yesterday funeral services for Samuel F. Engle, prominent businessman and well-known church official, were held here and was the largest funeral in this town for many years. A brief service was held at the home in Railroad street, conducted by the Rev. E. O. Burtner and the Rev. Dr. S. C. Enck, of Philadelphia. A male quartet sang at this part of the service. The funeral cortege then proceeded to the United Brethren Church of which Mr. Engle had been a member since 1855. The scripture lesson was read by the Rev. Dr. J. A. Lyter of Harrisburg, after which the Rev. J. D. Battdorf, of Lancaster, offered prayer. The choir, of which Mr. Engle was leader for many years, rendered several selections. A biography of the deceased was read by the pastor of the church, after which the sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. D. D. Lowery, of Harrisburg, the conference representative. Addresses were made by the Rev. S. C. Enck, of Philadelphia, and the Rev. G. D. Gossard, of Annyville, president of Lebanon Valley College. Twenty-four ministers of the conference attended the funeral.
