COL. ROOSEVELT IN A NEW ROLE

Former President Appears as Star on the Paramount Program

By Charles E. Moyer z Enter: Theodore Roosevelt, (Motion picture star). "We must prepare," he registers. "I believe in the fullest liberty within our borders; and therefore I believe in efficiency and preparedness to prevent the restriction of this liberty by people outside of our own borders."

Those are the thoughts of Theodore Roosevelt, ex-President of the United States. Those very thoughts are visualized in a most unique manner in the second release of the Paramount Pictographs, the first motion picture medium issued for the visualization of the thoughts of the world's greatest statesman...

The subject "Preparedness" is being picturized under the direction of Fredrick Palmer, of whom Colonel Roosevelt said, "He has seen more war than any other American." and Henry Reuter, chief director of the United States Army War College; Secretary of State Lansing, Secretary of Navy Daniels, John D. Hillen, president of Princeton University; Robert E. Peary, John Hays Hammond, Jr., and others of national repute.

You know, of course, that the number of moving picture films produced in this country annually was legion, but did you ever really stop to figure it out in round numbers? Walter Pritchard Eaton, in the March American Magazine, says that the number produced every year is 4,500.

Mizzi Hajos, "Pom-Pom," is endeavoring to obtain legal permission to change her first name to "Mizzi" and to drop the Hajos. The change, she asserts, will accomplish the double purpose of instructing the public in the pronunciation of her first name and saving half the time now spent in signing checks.

The complete cast of Sir Herbert Beerhohn Tree's production of "Henry VIII" includes Sir Herbert, as Cardinal Wolsey; Edith Wynne Mathison, as Katharine; Lyn Harding, as the king; Charles Dalton, as Buckingham; Willette Kershaw, as Anne Boleyn; Lionel Braham, as the lord chamberlain; and Claude Beerhohn, as Cardinal Campeius. The production will be made at the New Amsterdam Theater, New York City, on March 14.

Harrisburg followers of plays and players will be surprised to learn that "Barnabette Deary," the desolate daughter who appeared with Mrs. Fiske in "Erastus Susan" in this city, was married last Saturday to Benjamin Kauser, now appearing as "Dick," the bridegroom, in "Treasure Island." The marriage was kept a secret until yesterday. Madeline Delmar is the regular name of the pretty actress.

LOCAL THEATERS

"Paganini" Margery Maude, who will be seen at the Orpheum to-morrow, matinee and evening.

"Clear Your Skin Restore Your Hair WITH CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT"

Whether or not Miss Sarah Bernhardt will be able to make another American tour, she will be here in her shadow self, in Bluebird Theatre plays, and the local display of the nature to-day only, when "Jeanne Dore," the last piece which she acted upon the stage, will be shown. While the stage world and its followers are wondering just what effect the results of her operation will have upon her acting, it is to be remembered that Bernhardt, mistress of pantomime, has ever been able to tell more with the glance of her eye, or a shrug of her shoulders, than many actresses of her day could vouchsafe by word of mouth. Bernhardt upon the screen may be relied upon to be the Bernhardt of old, greatest woman of her generation.

evening, as leading lady to George Arliss in his new comedy, "Paganini," started her stage career with everything in her favor. First, as to heredity, she is the daughter of Cyril Maude, of "Grumpy" fame, and of Winifred Emery, one of London's favorite actresses. Then, as to physical fitness she has a delicate girlish charm and the beautiful English voice that has no equal anywhere. Again she has had training; she was never stage struck, but entered her chosen profession just as a young man might enter the law, or medicine, or business—from the bottom. It is only six years ago that she made her debut. It was in London in the "Toy-maker of Nuremberg." She won instant recognition and very soon was playing "Cinderella." When Sir Herbert Tree revived "The Midsummer Night Dream" she appeared at Titian's in her father's company she visited Canada and the United States in "The Second Commandment" and later supported Margaret Anglin in "Lady Windermere's Fan." In "Paganini," Miss Maude has the role of Charlotte, a young English girl, who thinks herself in love with the weird Italian violinist when in reality she is only infatuated with his musical genius, and who is brought to her senses in the course of a remarkable dramatic situation.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Wm. H. Kibbie's big revival of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be brought to the Orpheum next Wednesday, matinee and evening. It is said that over fifty people are now employed in the production and the scenery is unusually good.

In his newest film hit, "His Picture in the Papers," Douglas Fairbanks makes an attractive picture as a lively youth who prefers a good, juicy breakfast to the dedicated foods that his rich father exploits through the press. He also has a preference for boxing instead of pouring ink on the press, and generally with his system loving father. Then he meets the girl of his choice in a restaurant. He also meets the father, expecting his congratulations on his engagement to the daughter. He is not ruffled when the parent tells him first to get a half interest in his father's business, Fairbank's father happens to be a lawyer, and later he is given $100, with the offer of the partnership on condition that he get his picture in the papers. The fun starts. The new Keystone Triangle comedy is called "Love Will Conquer."

The Six Musical Nosses, vaudeville's best known musical act, is at the Majestic to-morrow, matinee and evening. This aggregation of expert musicians has been in the city for a season offering the most pretentious act of their career in the way of stage songs and costumes. They call their six part production "In Harmonyland." Their program consists of numbers that all tastes are ranging from the old Irish melodies to the most difficult of classics. The plain-ly Hawaiian airs are included, too, and for this number, like the rest, special stage settings are employed. Another act of the night is the well-known Keith names here this week are: Allen and Francis, clever variety artists; Stan Burns, the character entertainer, and Morrals and Van Ness expert club swingers.

Bernhardt upon the screen may be relied upon to be the Bernhardt of old, greatest woman of her generation.

The attraction at the Regent to-day is "Hazel Kirke," featuring the charming Pearl White. The story is to-day, "Undine" that of a beautiful young girl who saves her father's mill from foreclosure through her friendship for Squire Rodney, one of her wealthy neighbors. All he asks in return is the hand of Hazel. This is agreed to, but she meets Arthur Carlingford one day and they are later married.

To-morrow the photoplay sensation, "Undine," featuring Ida Schnall, will be shown. It is said to be far more lavish than "Neptune's Daughter." Sir Hulbrand, the noble knight, enters the enchanted forest in search of adventure. There he finds his worldly prowess to be of no avail and he is commanded to go forth and find Undine, who has been banned from her forest home and forced to live with earthly mortals. The knight falls in love with a wild sea sprite and they are married. He takes her to his castle, where the Queen of the Sea Nymphs arrives and informs Sir Hulbrand that he has performed his earthly mission and has found Undine. The inexorable law of the Water Nymphs demands that she return to her people. Stripped of her regal robes, she is converted into a mermaid and returns to her home in the ocean's depths.

Special show for school children from 10 to 12 to-morrow.

Inter-State Company Has Nine Years of Experience

This year marks the anniversary of three events in the automobile world, which have been epoch making singly and as a combination. Sixteen years ago, on January first, 1900, B. W. Twyman, the present general manager of the Inter-State Motor Company, entered the automobile business. Nine years ago, a crowd of influential businessmen of Muncie assembled at their club and on the spur of the moment formed a pool to launch an automobile company. Six weeks from the date of this meeting the Inter-State company was housed in its new plant, part of which is now the Inter-State Motor Company. One year ago the present Inter-State car made its official debut to the trade and motor enthusiasts. The result of the combination of these three events is spelling success

In big letters for the Inter-State Motor Company. Although present at the meeting of the men, who acted so quickly on their convictions, Mr. Twyman did not become affiliated with the Inter-State until 1913, when he was party to the forming of the present Inter-State Motor Co., which is the outgrowth of the former Inter-State Automobile Company. These men, wise in the details of manufacturing, maintained and steadfastly stuck to a policy of concentrating "on a medium-priced car. They saw "the hand writing on the wall" of the future trend of the automobile industry.

When Mr. Twyman joined the company, he came fortified with fifteen years of study and experience in the automobile business. It was through his efforts that the present Inter-State was produced at $1,000 in 1915. That experience taught him that this was the logical price for a good automobile at this day and age, shows the big difference in the feelings and knowledge of the men who first produced their idea of a medium priced car at $1750.

No Appetite—Little Sleep

Symptoms of a Run-down Condition. We have a Remedy We ask every weak, run-down person in Harrisburg to try our Vinol, with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not re-establish their health. Letters like the following give us confidence: "I am in the millinery business and on my feet most of the time. I got so weak and run-down that I lost my appetite and was unable to sleep, had a severe chronic cold and lost my strength. I learned about Vinol through a friend, and within three weeks after taking it I noticed an improvement, and soon gained in weight, health and strength. I am recommending Vinol to my friends and they also speak highly of it." Catherine Hoar, West Chester, N. Y.
