WILSON REPEATS HIS OPPOSITION

per of the House regarding the diplomatic situation with Germany and some argument on both sides is fully set out in Senator Stone's letter to the President and the President's letter to Senator Stone.

"We explained to the President how the House felt in our judgment. I told the President that this warning resolution would carry two to one if ever got a chance for a vote. Some enthusiastic gentlemen, I said, thought it would carry 3 to 1.

President Stands Firm

"Of course there was a great deal of talk about international law regarding the rights of Americans on the seas and precedents. At the conclusion of the conference, it was very clear to all that the President stands on his letter to Senator Stone.

"But there are rumors which were discussed that Germany may postpone enforcement of the new admiralty order to sink all armed ships from March 1, either to April 1st or the middle of March. I think the chances are that Germany will postpone this threatened performance. This will give more time for consideration of this matter.

"We told the President that in the event of such a postponement all action in Congress certainly would be postponed. Meantime these resolutions would remain in status quo.

Difficult to Get Out

"Regarding the possibility of action in Congress in case Germany adheres to her announcement that the admiralty order will be made effective March 1st, Speaker Clark said it would be very difficult to get the warning resolution out of a committee for action and that there was no way for the issue to get before the House today.

"Of course," he continued, "some one might try unanimous consent but that would be ridiculous because there would be many objections to such a course. Even the men who seriously favor this resolution would not want to adopt such a course. Naturally the resolution should come from the committee and the attitude of the House to discharge the committee can only come up on the first and third Mondays of the month and motions to discharge must follow the unanimous consent calendar and suspension of the rules.

Impossible to Get Consent

"It is obvious that in this situation it will be impossible to get unanimous consent for consideration of a warning resolution. If the resolution should be reported from the Foreign Affairs Committee it would take its place on the calendar unless the rules committee would interfere. The resolution is in no way privileged and it would go to the foot of the calendar. That would mean we could not get to it before July or August. The only remedy, if action is to be had on this resolution in the near future, is the committee on rules."

"There is some doubt because of recent developments as to the attitude of that committee. A week ago, however, members who were anxious to have the resolution brought on the floor were given little encouragement. Majority Leader Kitchin and Representative Flood declined to discuss what took place at the White House. They said that Speaker Clark had been selected to issue all statements and that they would adhere to this agreement. It is known, however, that both of them advised the President that the sentiment in the House for the resolution was strong.

Can Avoid War

The President told the House leaders he felt the United States must stand for the right of Americans to the freedom of the seas and that the honor of the nation must be protected in any eventuality. He said he hoped he would be able to conduct the negotiations with Germany in such a way that war would be avoided and reiterated his hope that Germany would explain the apparent discrepancies between the assurances previously given and the action which would be taken without warning after February 29. He told the leaders the position of the United States would be weakened if Congress took action as he proposed.

Believe Situation Serious

Speaker Clark, Mr. Kitchin and Mr. Flood all expressed the hope that the United States would not go to war over the armed ship issue. They left the White House saying they believed the situation serious.

How much the sentiment for congressional action would be affected by publication of the President's letter to Senator Stone, the leaders thought could only be shown by time. The President, it was understood, was very frank in his statement that the rights of Americans be upheld and that Congress take no action. He is understood to have shown deep feeling on the subject and to have declared that if the United States gives up the right for which it is now contending it will lose its position as defender of the principles of international law.

Leaders With President

The leaders in the House before the President in plain language and they in turn told him plainly of the strong sentiment in Congress.

As a result of the conference administration leaders in Congress are expected to exert their strongest influence to preventing any action at this time.

President Says He Seeks Peace, But Honor Is at Stake, in Stone Letter

Special to the Telegraph

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—President Wilson's letter to Senator Stone, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee:

February 24, 1916.

"My Dear Senator—I very warmly appreciate your kind and frank letter of today and feel that it calls for an equally frank reply.

"You are right in assuming that I shall do everything in my power to keep the United States out of war. I think the country will feel no uneasiness about my course in that respect.

"Through many anxious months I have striven for that object, amidst difficulties more manifold than can have been apparent upon the surface; and so far I have succeeded. I do not doubt that I shall continue to succeed.

"The course which the Central European Powers have announced their intention of following in the future with regard to undersea warfare seems for the moment to threaten insuperable obstacles, but their apparent meaning is so manifestly inconsistent with explicit assurances recently given by these Powers with regard to their treatment of merchant vessels on the high seas that I must believe that explanations will presently ensue which will put a different aspect upon it.

Can't Question Faith

"We have had no reason to question their good faith or their fidelity to their promises in the past and I, for one, feel confident that we shall have none in the future.

"No nation, no group of nations, has the right while war is in progress to alter its obligations and principles which all nations have agreed upon in mitigation of the horrors and sufferings of war; and if the clear rights of American citizens should ever unaccountably be infringed, it seems to me that we should, in such a case, have in honor no choice as to what our own course should be.

"For my own part I cannot consent

Mothers! Here's Something New For Croup and Cold Troubles

An External Treatment That Does Away With Internal Medicines and Chest Protectors. You Can Let the Children Run Outdoors in All Weathers and Get Their Needed Fresh Air and Exercise.

Growing children need plenty of fresh air and outdoor exercise, and this exposure is bound to cause some colds. Internal medicines injure delicate little stomachs and flannel jackets and chest protectors are unhealthy.

The best protection is plenty of fresh air in the bedroom and a prompt application of the new southern treatment—Vick's "Vap-O-Rub" Salve at the first sign of trouble. Vick's is really a Vapor-Lamp in Salve form. You simply rub it well over the throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth. Leave the clothing loose around the neck, as the body heat releases vapors of Menthol, Camphor, Pine Tar, Eucalyptus and Thyme that are inhaled all night long, loosening the phlegm and opening the air passages. In addition, Vick's is absorbed through the skin, taking out that tightness and soreness.

The druggists, given below, could make more profit on internal medicines, but they realize the value of an external treatment, especially in the case of small children, and, in the interest of their customers, are offering Vick's in any of the three sizes—25c, 50c or $1.00 on 30 days' trial. With each sale they give a refund blank, good for your money back if you are not delighted.
