ASHAMED TO BE RASH OR CRAVEN

President Would Not Sacrifice Humanity or Justice Even to Avoid War

Washington, Feb. 28.—"America ought to keep out of this war. She ought to keep out of this war at the sacrifice of everything except this single thing upon which the character and history are founded—her sense of humanity and justice. If she sacrifices that she has ceased to be America; she has ceased to entertain and to love the traditions which have made us proud to be Americans, and when we go about seeking safety at the expense of humanity, then I for one will believe that I have always been mistaken in what the public mind has been the spirit of American history."

In these sentences President Wilson, speaking at the Gridiron dinner Saturday night, amplified his position on the submarine question as expressed in the letter to Senator Stone. His speech, the first he had made after the uprising in Congress and heard by many of the public, was touched with stirring thought upon the international situation and the way American sentiment is made. It was an intimate talk, and as such reflected the strong personal views of the President.

Directs Staff at Congressmen

Mr. Wilson "came back" at the element in Congress which had attempted to keep out of the war, to modify his attitude in dealing with Germany in the armed merchantmen issue by saying bluntly that he preferred more to know what the people thought than was said in congressional cloakrooms.

What may have been intended by the President as an explanation of the "too" in the public mind, was in his Philadelphia speech shortly after the Lusitania was sunk, and for which he has been seriously criticised both here and in England, was contained in the concluding portion of his address in this remark:

"I would be just as much ashamed to be rash as I would be to be a coward."

He said in part: "America ought to keep out of this war. She ought to keep out of this war at the sacrifice of everything except this single thing upon which her character and history are founded—her sense of humanity and justice. If she sacrifices that, she has ceased to be America; she has ceased to entertain and to love the traditions which have made us proud to be Americans, and when we go about seeking safety at the expense of humanity, then I for one will believe that I have always been mistaken in what I have conceived to be the spirit of American history."

"I would be just as much ashamed to be rash as I would be to be a coward. Valor is self-respecting. Valor is circumspect. Valor strikes only when it is right to strike. Valor withholds itself from all small implications and entanglements and waits for the great opportunity when duty will flash as if it carried the light of heaven upon its blade."

HUNDREDS DROWN WHEN STEAMSHIP HITS MINE

washed ashore, making the total of bodies recovered forty-seven. Many bodies were arriving in Dover for the purpose of endeavoring to identify bodies.

Freshly-sown Mines

The British press is almost unanimous in assuming that the Maloja and the other mines strikingly during the week-end were victims of a fresh sowing of German mines. There is much speculation as to how these mines could have been laid. The most frequently advanced theory is that a certain class of neutral shipping was employed.

Rescue Ships Also Sunk

The British tanking Empress of Fort William, of 181 tons, was sunk while attempting to rescue the survivors of the Maloja, also in less than a half hour. All but one of the crew of the Empress were saved by other boats in the vicinity.

PALE WIVES AND MOTHERS

Many women who had a good color in their girlhood grow pale and colorless when they become wives and mothers.

When the fading color in cheeks and lips is accompanied by a loss of brightness in the eyes and an increasing heaviness in the step, the cause is to be sought in the state of the blood.

A hundred causes may contribute to the condition of thin blood that is known as anemia. Overwork, lack of out-door exercise, insufficient rest and sleep, improper diet, these are a few of them. The important thing is to restore the blood to normal, to build it up so that the color will return to cheeks and lips, the brightness to the eyes and lightness to the step.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the great blood builder and invigorator. They begin at once to increase the red corpuscles in the blood and the new blood carries strength and health to every part of the body. Appetite increases, digestion becomes more perfect, energy and ambition return.

Another Coal Rate Hearing Is Planned

Arrangements are being made for hearing at Pittsburgh some time late in March of the complaint inaugurated by the Pittsburgh Coal Operators' Association against the coal-carrying rates of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Pennsylvania Company, the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railroads, in which several coal companies have intervened and are urged by interest to Philadelphia and other parts of the State. It will be the biggest coal rate case since the complaint that the rates of the Pennsylvania and other companies from the Clearfield region to York and Lancaster were discriminatory as compared to rates to Harrisburg and Philadelphia, was heard by the Public Service Commission.
