To-day. President Wilson reiterated to the leaders that while dissensions in the American Congress over the question of warning Americans not to travel on the armed ships of the European bel-ligerents was being made "industrious use of in foreign capitals" and being pictured as evidence that the country does not support the President in his stand for the observance of the laws of nations, and humanity, his nego-tiations with Germany are embar-rassed, and, in fact, cannot be con-tinued.
