That the brewing companies conspired to make money contributions to the election of November 3, 1914, a State election.

That the Independent Brewing Company, of Pittsburgh, on May 7, 1914 paid $7,321.82 in a check drawn on the German National Bank of Pittsburgh, and paid to the United States Brewers' Association, for political use; that this check was indorsed over to the Northwestern National Bank, of Philadelphia, by Treasurer G. W. Lembeck of the United States Brewers' Association.

That the Independent Brewing Company of Pittsburgh, on March 20, 1914, paid $5,101.30 to the United States Brewers' Association, to the order of Hugh F. Fox. secretary, which amount, a check, later was indorsed over to the Lincoln National Bank by Fox, and, it is alleged the money put to political use.

That the 'Independent Brewing Company paid $5,564.61 to the Pennsylvania Brewers' Association, on a check made payable to Edwin A. Schmidt, treasurer, and drawn on the First-Second National Bank, of Pittsburgh, dated August 2, 1914; the amount, it is alleged, constituting a political contribution.

That the Pittsburgh Brewing Company on September 21, 1914, paid $6,774.75 to the Pennsylvania Brewers' Association, on a check drawn on the Lincoln National Bank, of Pittsburgh, and a mount declared subsequently to have been diverted to political uses.

Evidence of Conspiracy
These were all the specific offenses set out. but the government is declared to have messed evidence of a complete case of conspiracy, at least as it affects the brewing companies.
