MUNICIPAL BAND GOOD PROGRAM GIVES CONCERT AT CHESTNUT ST.

Serious Attempt to Give High-Class Musical Offering Proves Successful

Marks First Appearance of John Seifert, Tenor; Assisted by Other Artists

The Municipal Band, forty strong, and headed by Conductor Frank Blumenstein, made its bow to friends and supporters for the first time this season at the Orpheum last evening.

Under the auspices of the Young People of Messiah Lutheran Church, John Seifert of Pittsburgh, made his first local appearance last night in Chestnut Street Auditorium. He was assisted by Master Gurney Mattox, the Philadelphia violinist who made his initial appearance in the recent Elk Memorial; Mrs. Bumbaugh, Miss Jane Rae, A. W. Hartman and Mrs. Westbrook-Dager.

The names of Messrs. Clark, solo cornetist; William T. Myers, the high school boy, who carried off the individual violin solo honors; Mrs. H. F. Heislley, soprano, who was frequently recalled; Crawford, of the bells and traps, the unbeatable combination of Shirk, Burris, Stone, Lingle and Cohen, of trombone fame, and many others went down last evening on the roll of honor and merit to the tune of the splendid selections which they offered.

Dumas' 'D'Artagnan' to Be Shown For the Last Time

We trust that last night's concert may be the forerunner of others, for one does not weary of such music as was offered Orpheum-goers last evening.

The comedy side of the Colonial's current Triangle program, entitled "Fido's Fate," with the clever Charles Murray, is proving a veritable laughing treat, and children of all ages are reveling in the funny situations and funny antics of the players.

SEA GULLS FLY ABOUT PENNSYLVANIA ON SPEED TRIALS

UNITED STATES STEAMSHIP PENNSYLVANIA As the superdreadnought Pennsylvania, mightiest fighting craft in Uncle Sam's navy and in the world, breasted the waves off Rockland, Me., on her speed and endurance trials, flocks of huge sea gulls soared over and around the basket masts of the great vessel.

JAPAN ENJOYING MUCH PROSPERITY

Money From War Orders So Cheap That Bankers Complain

Tokio, March 4.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Never in her history has Japan met with such a period of material prosperity as today. This is entirely due to the war.

Another great channel in which Japan is finding prosperity is through her shipping. Her big merchant marine is not only transporting supplies for the entente powers but far as the Orient is concerned has practically taken over an immense portion of the sea transportation which is held in the hands of the vessels of Great Britain.

The year 1915 was exceptional in Japanese trade but this year is expected to prove still more remarkable. The increase of exports is estimated to be about $350,000,000 and the imports to about $266,000,000. The total trade was $616,000,000. Compared with the preceding year the figures amount to an increase of about $18,000,000 on exports and a decrease of $31,500,000 on imports.

Among the imported goods showing a falling-off are dyes and other important requisites for manufacturing industry. This had the effect of checking exportation to some extent, and has encouraged company promotion among banks for the purpose of supporting and permanent basis.

The situation, says the Japan Times, affords strong evidence that the flotation of companies and starting of new enterprises are becoming the order of the day and the season of general and retiring capital of unpaid labor and withering business is limited is over. There is this of course, to be prepared against, that after the war when huge numbers of workers will be released from fighting service when munition factories will all at once be restored to their legitimate business, and when the market will be glutted with labor, there will be a far-reaching economic upheaval in Europe, the effect of which the United States and Japan will be the first to feel.

The remarkable rise in the Japanese export trade and general prosperity has been followed by a note of warning by Tokio bankers. Dr. Karoku Mizumachi, vice-governor of the Bank of Japan, and others point out that the present is a serious moment for bankers for the extraordinary inflation in money is more dangerous in a sense than extreme shortage of funds.

MARKET IS DULL AND UNDEVELOPED

Restraints Imposed by Complicated Situation at Washington Is in Evidence

New York, March 4.—Dullness and indecision were the chief characteristics of today's short session, the market remaining under the restraints imposed by the complicated situation at Washington. Dealings were so professional as to deprive them of actual significance.

THE DISHONESTY OF EXTRAVAGANCE

There are two kinds of thievery. One is the open and above board dishonesty of the robber, and the other is the dishonesty of the dead beat.

The dead beat, on the other hand, is a sneaky thief who trades on the fact that his thievery is so smoothly done that he cannot be punished for it, and that he keeps always within the law.

What is the difference between the "dip" who lifts a ten-dollar bill out of our pocket on a crowded car when we are not looking and the friend who rushes hurriedly in and says, "Old man, won't you let me have five or ten dollars until pay day?" well knowing that there will never be any pay day for you.

There are thousands of supposedly reputable people who live by their wits that way and who would be furiously angry if anybody told them the truth and that their photographs and finger prints ought to be adorning the Rogues' Gallery.

Whoever has toiled for a long, hot, dull, wearisome way through barren, uninteresting country and come at last to a shadowy, quiet, little grove where flowers bloomed and a cool spring gushed, found that his whole being responded to its beauty, his tense nerves relaxed, his mind was refreshed and his heart free.

is never relegated to any one phase of life. A laborer's life may be the most complex and complicated of existences while a rich man's may be free from intricacy, affectations and artificiality.

There is something that borders on immorality in imitation period furniture. It is dishonest, for it assumes to be something that it is not and should be as scorned as counterfeit gold. Faithful copies are an entirely different matter and are not to be ranked with the loose, untruthful shams, so commonly offered for sale.

In this series of articles on home furnishing we are endeavoring to point out, by presenting the matter in several different ways, the beauty of unpretentiousness. There is no reason why we should have our rooms like committee rooms or give them the cold and awe-inspiring atmosphere of the class rooms or lecture hall by having chairs all alike and tables made after a similar model.
