Panama Conference Delegates Report Momentous Meetings

Twenty-One Countries Represented by 480 Delegates at Epochal Sessions

By THE RELIGIOUS RAMBLER

Unusually good summaries of the findings of the recent Panama Conference on Christian Work in Latin America were provided by the press associations and published in the newspapers; and now that every steamer from the Caribbean is bringing home the delegates, interesting details are available concerning the work of the conference.

Just Apply This Paste and the Hairs Vanish

(Helps to Beauty)

A safe, reliable home-treatment for the quick removal of superfluous hairs from your face or neck is as follows: Mix a stiff paste with some water and powdered delatone, apply to objectionable hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes rub out, wash the skin and the hairs are gone.

been opened to traffic. The two hills which cause the difficulty are now being sluiced into the Canal by heavy hydraulic pressure, and thence emptied out into the neighboring lagoons, where thousands of acres of arable land are being made by the finest kind of soil.

Some Sidelights

The businesslike way in which the conference was handled by Robert E. Speer of New York, the general chairman, is a subject of general remark. He had the help of John R. Mott, chairman of the Edinburgh Missionary Conference.

The delegates spent about seven hours a day in solid consideration of the Conference themes. Great maps of all the South American countries, with all the mission stations marked, were before the delegates during the discussions.

"Bishops grew to be very common mortals with us," said Mr. Pepper, "because there were so many of them at the conference." This was but indicative of the extraordinary personnel of the Conference.

A Great Get-Together Plan There was an impressive unanimity about the sessions at Panama. With one mind the delegates agreed upon propositions that are really radical. The findings of the conference were absolutely unanimous, which, considering the official nature of the meetings, and the fact that they were pan-denominational, as well as pan-American, is a signal advance in Christian unity.

Stated in general terms, the recommendations of the Panama gathering to the churches of the Americas were four:

- 1. There should be a merging of the Christian press at work in behalf of Latin-America. The various denominational publishing houses co-operate in the issuance of text books, periodicals and general Christian literature.

is too great and urgent to permit the different denominations to maintain competing schools in some fields, while in others no educational work at all is maintained. There really need be nothing distinctively sectarian about Christian schools.

3. A fearless, clean-cut division of territory among the various Christian bodies at work in Latin-America was advocated. This will remedy "overlapping and overlooking." It was discovered that in Mexico, for instance, despite the extensive mission work carried on there, only about one-fifth of the field is occupied. This will mean withdrawal from some fields by certain churches, and is a scheme that will test to the utmost the liberality and statesmanship of the mission boards.

4. Even more radical is the proposal for the division of existing membership in the course of the readjustment. That is to say, if the Methodists leave a field where there is duplication, they will turn over their members to the Presbyterians or Episcopalians or whatever other body has been assigned that territory. Evidently courage and vision were present at Panama, in this meeting which promises to be epochal. THE RELIGIOUS RAMBLER.
