risburg within the last six years, but both previous attendance records are expected to be broken as the movement this year includes both home and foreign missions. Starting weeks ago, the executive committee of which Frank B. Everitt is chairman, appointed other committees to complete arrangements and register delegates. Since then big mass meetings have been held in the city and nearby towns, and the work has been pushed forward rapidly for the opening meeting.

the announcement was sent out that big conventions would be held in seventy-five cities in the United States. Five of these cities, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Reading, Harrisburg and Scranton, were in Pennsylvania and sessions have already been held in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Reading.

Speakers of National Fame
Speakers of national reputation and fame in church work along missionary and educational lines, and some of the foremost leaders in the country have been included in the list of speakers. Returned missionaries from many of the foreign countries will bring to the church men in this city the story of the foreign mission work, and what it means in those countries. Bishop Homer C. Stuntz, who speaks to-morrow afternoon at the big mass meeting, is one of the leading mission speakers of the present day. He was at one time a missionary to India, then superintendent of Missions in the Philippines, and is now Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church in South America. He recently attended the Panama Congress on Missions, George Innes, the other speaker to-morrow afternoon, has made a world-wide tour of missions in many foreign countries, and has in hand complete data on the work being done.

Classes to Attend in Bodies
As the mass meeting to-morrow afternoon is open to all men, plans have been made by a number of Men's Bible Classes in the city, to parade in bodies to Grace church. Large delegations from nearby towns also will be present. The music will be directed by C. W. Chipinger, chairman of the music committee of the

"Will You Walk Into My Parlor"---

¶ This new version pictures "Mr. Spider" as very unlike the cruel one in the story.
¶ A very beautiful parlor he has made, and now entertains "Miss Fly" in a kindly, hospitable manner.
¶ Well appointed, and easy of access, this parlor is visited by scores each day.
¶ Tired from hustling about, many drop in for a period of rest—and quiet—to lie down if they so desire.
¶ There is a writing table and stationery. There are easy chairs; a telephone; fashion magazines and daily newspapers.
¶ There is a lavatory adjoining—entirely sanitary.
¶ There is a matron in attendance.
¶ Located on the third floor, where apparel for women and children will be found.

Recently a man who was prone to toot the cornet day and night began to have a few conscientious pangs about playing the thing on Sunday, and decided to consult his pastor.

"Parson," said he, meeting the good man in the street one afternoon, "do you think there is any harm in the cornet?"
"I can't exactly say," returned the parson wonderingly. "It altogether depends."
"Do you think, for instance," persisted the musician, "that if a man played a cornet on the Sabbath he would go to heaven?"
"I don't really see why he shouldn't," smilingly replied the domine, "but I doubt if his next door neighbor would."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

SAVE YOUR HAIR

You are getting bald! The appearance of dandruff and loose hair on your clothing or in the comb are all the proof you need. Dandruff kills the hair, a little at a time maybe—but kills it. The contagion dandruff must be summarily routed out if you are to escape that final and inevitable result—total baldness.
