assurance that the good citizenship of Allegheny favored local option and the end of the throttling of such legislation by the rum interests.

The Governor's message to the House of Representatives, being heard by over 7,000 men, arousing the people by stinging attacks on liquor and pleas for home rule in the matter of license.

A dispatch sent last night from Pittsburgh says:

"Calling for enactments to 'wage war' on the things, the clean thing and the holy thing, the Governor asked volunteers to 'fight against the things that mean warped spirits, ruined souls and distressed hearts.'"

"Everywhere the Governor went he got a warm reception, and thousands were turned away from churches where he was scheduled to speak. The Governor's message was read at the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, and 2,500 in the Christian Methodist Church, both in the morning.

"At a meeting of the Governor's Bible Classes in the afternoon at the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, and concluding the day's heavy schedule, occupied the pulpit of the Second Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh's big downtown church, in the evening, where 2,000 heard him.

"At Gelleigh this afternoon the Rev. Dr. H. Willey, the pastor, introduced the distinguished speaker as the Rev. Martin G. Brumbaugh, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

"At Emory Church he made four addresses; to children of the kindergarten department, two adult classes and the Men's Bible Class of 500.

"At Gelleigh this afternoon he said in part: Those who express opinions, and who register their votes in the ballot boxes should be men who put their consciences and brains into their ballots when they vote. It does not take long in Harrisburg to find out the material sent to represent constituencies in the Legislature. I ask this afternoon of this assembly, the Christian manhood, that you see to it that only the character and conscience of the community represent it at Harrisburg. Now if their representatives choose to choose their representatives at Harrisburg, why cannot we trust that electorate to say whether or not liquor should be sold within the confines of that electorate?"

"Former County Commissioner J. Denny O'Neill spoke at Bellevue with the Governor, who was accompanied throughout by Mr. O'Neill, Dr. G. A. Dillingham, president of the Second city council; Representative J. W. Vickerman and others.

"To-morrow Governor Brumbaugh will address the students of the University of Pittsburgh, and will depart for Harrisburg at 3 o'clock."

Send Word to G. O. P. Subcommittee That He Is Not Seeking Chairmanship

Chicago, March 20.—Selection of a temporary chairman for the Republican national convention, which meets here in June, was the problem faced by the members of the Republican national committee's subcommittee on there that Sunday afternoon to-day.

With the exception of E. C. Duncan, of North Carolina, every member of the subcommittee was present when the names of the candidates were read, and members were regarded as favoring an immediate selection of the temporary chairman, their position being stated by Ralph Williams, of Oregon.

"There will be less strife," he said, "if we make the selection now than there certainly will be if the selection is put off for two months."

Franklin Murphy, of New Jersey, brought word of the elimination of Elihu Root, of New York from the temporary chairman contest. He said:

"Mr. Root has stated positively that he would not attend the convention."

Knox For Chairman.—Chairman Hill's said effort would be made to have the convention go on record as favoring such a uniform presidential primary law.

Candidates for the temporary chairmanship whose names appeared in the discussion were: Senator W. E. Borah, of Idaho; Senator Henry C. Lodge, of Massachusetts; former Governor S. Osborn, of Michigan; Governor S. A. McCall, of Massachusetts and P. C. Knox, of Pennsylvania.

Then it developed that Sevastia had fallen very much in love with the man who had seduced her, and several letters were exhibited which the pretty girl bride had written to the army colonel. In them Sevastia said she had $500 which she had received from her husband and which she would be willing to use to take Angeloff and herself to California.

From time to time since stories were circulated through the foreign colony to the effect that Spiro intended to bring charges against his young wife for theft of the $500, she insisted that she got it as dowry; he said she had stolen it. However, that charge was never dropped and in time Angeloff answered for his wife's house and army and went back to Bulgaria.

Divorce proceedings were begun by Sevastia, however, on the grounds of cruel treatment; her husband she declared, quit work immediately after their marriage and calmly told her she expected her to keep boarders and to relieve him from labor. Finally he insisted upon her return to Bulgaria, but she refused; then he beat her and otherwise treated her cruelly, she alleged.

On March 15 the court consented to untie the knot. Angeloff's legal untangling was proclaimed today.
