ELECTRICALLY HEATED PORTABLE RADIATORS

A portable electric radiator which in general appearance resembles a steam radiator, has been put on the market. The principle involved in its construction is that of an open resistance coil submerged in a circulating, noncorroding, nonfreezing insulating liquid. The entire unit is hermetically sealed, preventing evaporation. The electric coil lies in the bottom of the radiator and when heated causes the liquid to circulate, giving an even temperature. LIME MEDICATION IN TUBERCULOSIS

In the N. Y. Medical Record of December 5, 1914, Dr. John North, of Toledo, Ohio, says: "I have come to the conclusion that one of the most prominent causes of tuberculosis is 'lime starvation.' In all cases of inapparent tuberculosis there is a deficiency of calcium. Many do not eat food containing enough lime. In such cases we must resort to lime medication. Eckman's Alternative should be given a fair trial in such cases, because one of its chief ingredients is calcium (lime) in such combination with other remedial agents as to be easily assimilated by the average person. Where its use is combined with proper diet, fresh air and hygienic living conditions, we believe it will prove beneficial in any case of tuberculosis. It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so is safe to try. From your druggist or direct. Eckman's Laboratory, Philadelphia, Advertisement.

A LITTLE GIRL'S GIFT FOR BABIES

Sends Pocketbook to Visiting Nurses' Asso. as Contribution For Better Babies

An aftermath of "Baby Week" found expression in the generous overflow from the full heart of a modest little 7-year-old girl in this city who refuses to divulge her name or allow her picture to appear in the papers. The campaign for better babies had a decided effect upon her youthful mind and she has decided to give the Visiting Nurse Association a worn little pocketbook containing 71 cents in nickels, dimes and pennies for the fortunate age and sex for better babies. Who will deny that on that final day this little girl, unknown for her generous gift, will stand at the side of the hostess of ages gone by who contributed her mite as payment to the Lord?

The Winning Essay

Out of the number of essays that were submitted by school children in the "Better Babies" essay contest held in connection with "Baby Week," the one that took the prize of $2.50 is herewith printed, the handwriting of Margaret Eiting, 638 Maclay street, 12 years of age, and a student of St. Mary's school, eighth grade: "BETTER BABIES"

"This week at Bowman & Co.'s store we are having 'National Baby Week.' It is for the purpose of showing mothers how to provide proper nourishment and sanitary conditions for their babies. We want better babies that they may grow up to be healthy boys and girls, and good citizens.

"If the baby is not provided with proper food, and the conditions in which it has to live are not sanitary, and it is not given proper care and plenty of fresh air, it will not be healthy. Therefore in many cities like our own they have 'Baby Weeks,' and mothers bring their babies to be examined. The most perfect baby is given a prize. "Let us have more 'Baby Weeks.' What would our world be without Baby?"

BETHELEM CUTS PRICE OF ARMOR

tain the proposal, that the armor makers would raise the price if the bill passed, the company's renewed offer caused much surprise. The proposal was submitted by President Grace of the Bethlehem Steel Company, who repeated his statement that if the government erected a plant, private works worth more than twenty million dollars would be made useless. President Grace's proposal continued:

Proposed Rate Much Lower

"The Bethlehem Steel Company, altogether aside from its financial interests, recognizing its obligation as a citizen, and desiring that its position may be clearly understood, now desires formally to submit the following proposition to the Federal government: "We will manufacture one-third, or such additional quantity as may be awarded to us of the armor plate required for the contemplated five-year naval program estimated at approximately 120,000 tons at a price of $395 per ton for side armor, as compared with the price of $425 now obtaining. "The proposed price is lower than has been paid by the government for more than ten years. "If the foregoing price is not satisfactory we will agree to permit any well-known firm of armor plate manufacturers, or the federal trade commission to inventory our plant and make careful estimates of the cost of manufacture; with this data in hand we will meet the Secretary of the Navy and agree to manufacture armor at a price which will be entirely satisfactory to him as being quite as low as the lowest price at which the government could possibly manufacture armor on its own account after taking into account all proper charges. "Neither the United States nor Japan, and the lowest price at which the government could possibly manufacture armor on its own account after taking into account all proper charges. "If the foregoing price is not satisfactory we will agree to permit any well-known firm of armor plate manufacturers, or the federal trade commission to inventory our plant and make careful estimates of the cost of manufacture; with this data in hand we will meet the Secretary of the Navy and agree to manufacture armor at a price which will be entirely satisfactory to him as being quite as low as the lowest price at which the government could possibly manufacture armor on its own account after taking into account all proper charges. "We make the foregoing proposition rather than have our plant put out of existence. We have invested, as actually inventoried to-day, over $7,000,000 in this plant. This figure does not take into account the large expenditures, certainly $2,000,000 for the plant and equipment which have been abandoned on account of becoming obsolete. "We are to-day selling armor to the United States government at a lower price than England, Germany, France, and Japan are paying, even where the government itself (Japan) has embarked in the business. Not only is that true, but the specifications of the United States are much more rigid, and the wages paid are very much higher than those prevailing in any foreign country. "Steel prices are continually going up, and they are going much higher than has been the case for many years. In spite of that we offer to make armor at a lower price than the United States has paid for 29 years, and we agree to accept this price for the next five years. We also call attention to the fact that though, since the war began, we have been able in Europe to get almost any price we choose to ask for ordnance, we have during the period made no addition whatever to the selling price to the United States government for any of the ordnance products which we manufacture. "House administration leaders plan to call up the bill as soon as the army reorganization bill is passed. The bills are out of the way. Its passage is believed assured. "Despite the strong opposition of Senators Penrose and Oliver, of Pennsylvania, who led the fight against the measure, the bill was passed by the Senate last night by a vote of 55 to 22. "Penrose Fights Proposal "Pointing out that three private armor plate companies, the Bethlehem, Carnegie and Midvale, were located in Pennsylvania, Senator Penrose said in an address to the Senate that there had been no real competition in the manufacture of armor plate and that there could not be from the very nature of the business. "At committee hearings on the measure, officers of the Bethlehem and Midvale steel companies, two of the three concerned, appeared and the threat was made that their plants would have to be dismantled as soon as the government entered upon the business, leaving no source of supply for the navy's immediate needs.

ELECTRIC DOORBELL MADE FOR HOUSE CAT

When a cat, owned by the keeper of the Platte Pougere lighthouse on the island of Guernsey, wishes to enter its master's dwelling, it rings an electric bell to summon a member of the household to the door. This has been made possible by the construction, near the bottom of a door, of a shelf which actuates a switch when a slight weight is placed upon it. Thus, when the cat jumps onto this small ledge, which is supported by a bracket, the circuit is closed and the bell rings. The circuit is closed from the Popular Mechanics Magazine.

ELECTION JUDGE ONLY FACES JURY

the board, in pleading "nolle contendere"—no defense. The plea of no defense had been entered by W. J. Carter, attorney for the entire board, Jones, the election board head, declared, however, that his construction of the character of a "nolle contendere" plea was not clear and that he preferred to have his personal counsel, Senator E. E. Beldeman, present before he let a plea of no defense be considered by the court.

The board was charged with having returned a fraudulent count in order to defeat Bertron A. Wells as candidate for constable over Benjamin Smith.

Jones said he believed the returns were not correct but denied that he had any hand in falsifying them. He hinted at some outside agency. "Now I believe," he declared to the court, "that there was a deliberate effort to count Wells out." He added, however, that he didn't believe any member of the board had any hand in this.

"Anyway, my understanding of this plea is not clear," said he. "Mr. Beldeman is my personal counsel and I expected him here." The Senator arrived a little later in answer to a hurry call from Jones but after a brief consultation he announced that he had withdrawn because Jones declined to follow his advice to enter the "nolle contendere" plea. President Judge Kunkel then appointed W. J. Loser to defend Jones while the other three will continue to be represented by Mr. Carter. The cases of Delano Jones, Moore and Reed will not be disposed of until after the jury tries Jones.

Wells, according to District Attorney Stroup, won out over Smith in all the precincts of the Sixth except the Second. And the Second precinct board, he charged, had padded the returns by adding more tally marks than there were votes cast. The voter's check list supported this, he said.

"Singular Coincidence"

President Judge Kunkel closely scanned the return sheets. "This looks like a deliberate effort to add tally strokes," said the court, as he scrutinized the marks. "The bulk of them are in heavy pencil; these additional marks were quite evidently made with a lighter pencil. "Then, too," interposed Mr. Stroup, "there is a singular coincidence; returns in the other precincts of the Sixth were all posted before 2 o'clock in the morning. The returns of the Second were not posted until after 7 o'clock. And in the Second precinct, just enough changes in the computation was made as to give Wells a majority of one in the total vote of the ward. "That," gravely observed Judge Kunkel, "is a singular coincidence. The Name of Picklin While William M. Jones hinted at the work of an outside agency, Delano Jones dragged another name into the case. He felt sleepy about 2 o'clock in the morning following the election, he said, and dozed off. "And then," said he, "Marshal Picklin came in and took my place." Attorney Carter said the defendants should get the same treatment as the court's hands as the men who admitted several weeks ago to violating the primary laws. Judge Kunkel said the election board's case is different in that the members of the board are public officials and have a public duty to perform.
