COLONEL FINDS STRANGE BIRD

Back Home With Tale of Fowl That Has Whiskers, Lives in Cave and Eats Nuts

New York, March 25.—Colonel Roosevelt arrived from Port au Spain, Trinidad, on the steamship Maturo, of the Trinidad Line, and landed at the foot of Amity street, Brooklyn, about 9.30 o'clock last night. Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt went in an automobile to the home of their son-in-law, Dr. Richard Derby, at 116 East Seventy-ninth street, where they passed the night.

Mr. Roosevelt was looking in splendid health and was decidedly sun-burned. When someone asked him how he was feeling he threw out his chest and answered, sarcastically: "In my usual debilitated condition." Mr. Roosevelt made a statement to all the reporters who boarded the Maturo. He said: "Mexican Prophecy True "I am not prepared to make any statement on politics at present or on the international situation beyond referring to what I said in the book I published six weeks ago called "Fear God and Take Your Own Part." If you will turn to the chapter on Mexico you will see that everything I there said and have been saying for the last three years applies exactly to the present situation, and that all I said in prophecy has been made good by the events. And I call your special attention to what I said as to furnishing arms to one set of bandits in order to help them against another set of bandits instead of helping Uncle Sam against all of them.

"And I also call your attention to what I therein said as to the effect of the adherence to the policy of refusal to prepare and of being too proud to fight." "In Trinidad I found a peculiar night hawk or whippoorwill about as big as an ordinary night owl. This bird is called the Guacharo and the curious thing about it is that it lives in caves, has whiskers and eats nuts. Yes, it actually lives in the caves and eats nuts.

"Has Henry Ford been down there?" asked someone. Mr. Roosevelt grinned, but did not reply to the question.

"That bird," he went on, "goes to the palm trees at night and gets the nuts on which it lives and then it goes back into the cave and sleeps in them in the daytime. But it eats nuts."

"And barks like a dog?" put in a stout gentleman who was sitting at the table in the cabin. "No," declared Mr. Roosevelt. "It does not bark like a dog. I am decidedly adverse to anything in the way of nature fakery. The natives call the bird diabolos, or little devils. Bats live in the same caves with the birds, but the bats live farther back in the cave. I am going to see the Scribners and find out if they want an article on those birds."

He said later that he also expected to see George W. Perkins, the Progressive leader, and perhaps one or two other men interested in politics. He will go to Oyster Bay late to-day with Mr. Roosevelt. He warned the reporters that he would have nothing to say about politics or the international situation Saturday or Sunday. When asked if he might not break his silence if there should be any sensational developments in the Mexican situation, he said: "That will depend upon what such developments may be."

Have All Thermometers Gone Crazy?

SEVERAL days ago, a friend of the writer, made a mistake and inquired, "How's Spring Business?"

"Truthfully I answered, "We've had no Spring Business!"

"The store is a busy place these March days, nevertheless, because folks make it their winter-weather business to buy, and be prepared for any up-rising among thermometers.

"And here's real encouragement. Our friend the Optimist tells us the robins are only a little south, and their coming is a sure enough dispenser of snow, slush, sneezes, and the "57" other varieties of fickle March delights.

"The beauties of Spring are reflected in our new Millinery Department and its Spring-like appointment.

CHINA RACING TO PERDITION--YUAN

Blames His Lack of Virtue on Renouncing Office of Emperor

Washington, D. C., March 25.—President Yuan Shi Kai's mandate renouncing his acceptance of the title of emperor of China and declaring that China has returned to republican government was made public, in part, by the Chinese legation last night.

Yuan said he consented to proposals for a monarchy after "irresistible" insistence by a convention of popular representatives, but, feeling that acceptance of the throne would violate his oath as president, he never took any steps to put the monarchical program into effect.

"Being a man of bitter experiences, I cared for nothing but the salvation of my country. A section of the people, however, suspected me of harboring a desire for great power and privileges. Thus difference in thought has created an exceedingly dangerous situation.

"I have myself to blame for my lack of virtue. Why should I blame others? The people have been thrown into misery. The soldiers have been made to bear hardships, commerce has declined. Taking this condition into consideration, I feel exceedingly sorry.

"The official acceptance of the throne on December 11 is hereby canceled. All preparations connected therewith are to cease forthwith. Thus I hope to imitate the example of the sincerity of the ancients by shouldering myself all the blame, so that my action will fall in line with the spirit of humanity which is the expression of the will of Heaven.

"In brief, all the faults of the country are mine. Now that the acceptance of the throne has been canceled, every man will be responsible for his own action should he further disturb the peace.

"I, the president, being charged with the duty of ruling the country, cannot remain idle while the country is racing to perdition. Let all our generals, officials, soldiers and citizens act according to this ideal."
