DEcries BARTERING OF HEALTH AND PROSPERITY

In a vigorous sermon in Stevens Memorial Methodist Church yesterday, the Rev. Dr. Albert A. Smucker, the pastor, scored the present-day practice of living beyond one's means and "bartering away" health, "wasting luxuriously and expensively cravings."

HIKES 19 MILES WITH ONE LEG

Lack of a leg doesn't bother Morris Greig, Dickinson law student, when he wants to take a little stroll of nineteen miles or thereabouts. He proved that yesterday. Greig and Ralph Umsted, a fellow student, set out from Carlisle on Saturday evening to walk to Harrisburg. Greig has but one leg and had to travel per crutches. But that didn't worry him a bit. Dusty, a little tired, is true, but not otherwise the worse for their jaunt the pair, led by Greig, gaily strolled into the city about 2:30 yesterday morning.

DR. REISCH BEGINS SPECIAL SERMON SERIES ON CHRIST

The Rev. Dr. Thomas Reisch, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, Thirteenth and Thompson streets, last night began a special series of sermons on "Passion of Christ," preaching to an overflow congregation. Special selections by the choir were features of the service. Dr. Reisch preached last night on "An Old Love Story."

WATCHMAN STRICKEN, DRAGS HIMSELF TO TELEPHONE

William G. Cupples, of 1228 Wallace street, watchman at the Moorhead Knitting Company plant, in North Cameron street, while at work last night suffered an attack of paralysis of the legs. Cupples dragged himself to the phone and called a neighbor and was taken into the Harrisburg Hospital.

Lives of Many Small Newspapers Threatened by Famine; To Investigate

Washington, D. C., March 27.—A resolution for an investigation of the news-print paper situation by the Department of Commerce was introduced in the House today by Representative Copley, of Illinois.

Much of the supply of raw material for print paper that came from Germany, Norway and Sweden was cut off by the war, and other material is being shipped from this country to Europe for use in the manufacture of munitions, the resolution says. An opinion is asked on the advisability of placing an embargo on raw material.

According to Mr. Copley the price of paper has advanced so far that the lives of many small newspapers are threatened.

CLAPP PRAISES COLORED FOLKS

Points Out Progress of Last Fifty Years as Inspiration For Work

"Colored people of the United States have every reason to feel proud of their record in the military history of this country, and deserve credit for their efforts toward the uplift of the colored race," said Senator Moses E. Clapp, of Minnesota, statesman and lawmaker, who was principal speaker at a meeting of the "People's Forum" yesterday in Technical High School auditorium, attended by 1,000 people. The subject of the Senator's address was "Opportunity For the Colored People." He spoke about the many opportunities limited to only a few, and told of a number of instances where obstacle after obstacle had been overcome by colored people not only in bettering their condition, but in the uplifting of their race. He referred to Napoleon, Lincoln and Grant as examples of men who had accomplished much by hard work. Senator Clapp urged colored people to fight hard, be faithful to all duties, and "look forward to the time when race prejudice shall cease and men be regarded for their merits. Continuing he urged closer attention to civic righteousness, purity of life, temperance and a desire for higher motives. Previous to the address by United States Senator Clapp, Dr. Charles H.

Crampton, president of the Forum, made a brief address and introduced the speaker of the day. W. Justin Carter, a prominent colored attorney, also spoke. Mrs. Sornella B. Jenkins sang a solo, and the united choirs of the colored churches of Harrisburg and Steelton, under the direction of Prof. Albert E. Duffan sang several selections.

BELIEVED THAT ALL AMERICANS ESCAPED

ing any definite statement got out with the sanction of being official but there was no concealing that every-where the new situation was regarded as very delicate. Two American women passengers on the Sussex, it is understood, are quoted in official dispatches to the State Department saying they saw the wake of a torpedo, just before the explosion on the Sussex occurred. Mention of that was contained in dispatches made public at the department.

Firing Between Alcantara and German Raider Greif Was Practically Point Blank

London, March 27.—The German Raider Greif, which it was announced Saturday, was sunk in the North Sea on February 29 by the British armed merchantman Alcantara, the latter herself being destroyed by a torpedo fired at the last moment by the vanquished raider, was a vessel of about 10,000 tons and was armed with 6-inch guns, according to a statement made by an officer of the Alcantara. It was easy for the Greif to torpedo the Alcantara, he declared, as the latter's rudder had been shattered by a shell. A few shots from a British light cruiser on the horizon hastened the sinking of the Greif.

The fight occurred between Scotland and the Faroes, which lie about 170 miles northwest of the Shetland Islands, the censorship prohibiting a closer description of the locality. A British patrol had sent word that a doubtful craft was about, but when the Greif appeared she did not answer the description given by the patrol as she had evidently changed her disguise completely up in the North sea. She flew the Norwegian flag and answered satisfactorily all signals of the commander of the Alcantara. A boat was put off from the latter to examine the strange vessel's documents when suddenly the Greif's false sides dropped away, her guns were uncovered and a shell whizzed close to the boarding party.

Point Blank Fire

"It was full daylight and a clear atmosphere," the Alcantara's officer said, "and the vessels were so close that the firing was practically point blank. The German tried to stand off, but the Britisher outmaneuvered him and the ships came so close that our blood was tingling at the prospect of actually boarding the enemy and having some hand-to-hand fighting of the old Nelson days.

"All our shots found their mark and the German's decks were soon a perfect shambles. Strange as it may seem, the gunnery of the German was literally hopeless, shots missing and those which hit inflicting little damage. We were contemplating our easy victory when a wild shell shattered our rudder and we drifted unmanageable, an easy prey for the torpedo which the Greif launched as she was sinking. As the Greif was going down several shots passed over us from a British light cruiser on the horizon, which with some torpedo boats, picked us up."

Three British and a French Vessel Are Sent to Bottom

By Associated Press

London, March 27.—The French steamship Hebe, 1494 tons, the British steamship Cerne and the British fish carrier Khartoum of Hull have been sunk. Two members of the crew of the Khartoum have been saved but it is feared the remaining nine were drowned. Lloyds reports that the British steamer St. Cecilia, the sinking of which was announced yesterday was blown up by a mine. She had a general cargo from Portland, Me.

All Injured Americans on Road to Recovery

By Associated Press

London, March 27.—Of the three American survivors of the Sussex who are in a hospital at Dover, only one, George Crocker, of Pitchburg, Mass., is in a serious condition. His skull was fractured by a falling mast. He regained consciousness this morning and his physicians believe he will recover. Joshua D. Armitage, of New York, and Wilder Henfield, of Hudson, Wis., are suffering from shock and bruises but are not seriously injured.

German Topedoboot Missing After Sea Fight Following Air Raid
