

DR. CHAFER, SPEAKER

A most interesting meeting was that held yesterday morning in the intermediate department of the Market Square Sunday School, of which Miss Caroline R. Keefer is superintendent. The speaker at the morning session of the school was the Rev. Lewis Sperry Chafer, who is conducting the sessions of the nineteenth interdenominational Bible conference, held in the First Baptist Church Monday and Tuesday of this week. Dr. Chafer spoke on "The Work of the Holy Spirit" in a very interesting and impressive manner. This was the monthly consecration meeting of the class.

WHAT THE SHOPS ARE SHOWING

At this time there are many reasons why the clever housewife will endeavor to eliminate meat from her menus, and not the least of these reasons is the constantly increasing cost of meat. Aside from this however, the Lenten season influences many people and the fact that other foods are more healthful in the Spring of the year. A delicious substitute for meat is offered by the Studebaker Grocery Store, Second street at the crosing of State, in the fine mackerel which they are selling, and its delightful flavor and tender delicacy make it a most appetizing and satisfying dish.

"Little Courses of the Kodeke"

Arthur Nesbit Plays

Before a large audience at the home of Frederic C. Martin of Riverside yesterday afternoon, Arthur Nesbit played a program of Chopin compositions comprising the 12 etudes which make up the opus 10 and the concerto me minor. To the concerto Mr. Martin supplied the second piano accompaniment. The most notable features of Mr. Nesbit's playing are a most distinct, clear and sparkling tone in all passage work. a long range of dynamics, a sharp and incisive rhythmi sense. These qualities coupled with an unusual memory give Mr. Nesbit the foundation upon which to build a most splendid planistic art. Special mention must be made of the etudes in A minor, G flat major, A flat major and C minor. Into this latter etude Mr. Nesbit got the spirit of storm and despair which has earned for it the title of Revolutionary. The concerto was played with a great deal of spirit and snap.
