After three days of promenading about the Majestic stage in their own Spring finery, which the Fashion Girls" Lengthen Their Stay they claimed to be the finest available, the State of the the finest available, the State of the State of the man and Company, to wear some of their most recent importations by way of comparison. In order to give Bow-man and Company the best possible ad-vantage of exhibiting their creations, "The Fashion Girls" have accepted the challenge, have extended their engage-ment at the Majestic Theater for the remainder of the week, and for the last three days decided to don not be over the party dresses, even in forts, and draperice, exquisite lingeric, boots, slip-pers, boudor finery and everything else suits, party dresses, evening frocks and draperics, exquisite lingeric, boots, slip-pers, boudoir finery and everything else that milady wears that has been omit-ted, will be included in the displays that the local store will supply these vaudeville models. The gowns or crea-tions, whatever the case may be, will therefore differ entirely from what they were during the first half of the week, Bowman and Company will also ar-range the stage settings to suit their own fancy. They will add fixtures, set-tings, etc., and promise an exhibit that will outdo the one that was shown there during the early week, To-mor-row an all new supporting bill will appear about "The Fashion Girls" in their new wardrobe.

row, with Theodore Koberts in the theorem role. Lawyer Wilson, a young man, comes to a small Missouri town to practice. On his first day in town, angered at a dog snapping at his heeis, he remarks, "I wish I owned half of that dog. It I did, I would kill my half." The subtlety of this remark passed over the heads of the townspeople as they couldn't figure out what would become of the other half of the dog, if Wilson killed his half. This remark, his eccen-tric speech and his habit of securing thumb-prints from everyone with whom

The affair last night was an unusual entertainment, for not only did the members and guests hear some excel-lent addresses, notably those of the Governor and Dr. J. T. Rothrock, the father of Pennsylvania's famous for-estry activities, but George Sutton and members of the San Carlo Opera Company sang with rare effect. Secretary of the Commonwealth Woods, president of the society, pre-sided and in welcoming the guests out-lined for what the society stood and gave a hearty greeting to everyone. Governor Brumbaugh followed in the same spirit.
