ACTIVE MINISTER FOR 57 YEARS

The Rev. Dr. J. R. Dimm, Founder of Susquehanna University, Retires

Special to the Telegraph
Sellingrove, Pa., April 4.—After 57 years in the active ministry of the Lutheran church, the Rev. Dr. Jonathan R. Dimm, pastor of the Shomokin Dam Lutheran Church for 32 years, and substantially the founder of Susquehanna University at Sellingrove, has retired, Dr. Dimm having preached his final or farewell sermon in the presence of his successor, at the Susquehanna University, the Rev. Dr. F. P. Manhart on Sunday.

At the age of 72 years, Dr. Dimm entered Pennsylvania College at Gettysburg, and was graduated in 1857. He took charge of a classical school in Center county and at the same time studied for the gospel ministry. Two years later he was ordained and served his first charge at Bloomsburg in 1859. He helped start the Bloomsburg Literary Institute while there, and out of it grew the Bloomsburg State Normal School. It was in this school that Pastor Dimm prepared for college.

Dr. Dimm's most important work as an educator was in the Missionary Institute at Sellingrove. Here was an institution of one building and grounds worth about $5,000. It had a literary and theological department with only 43 students. It was 25 years old, had become a forlorn hope and was about to be disbanded. To the principalship of the literary department, the Rev. Dr. Dimm was unexpectedly called by the board of directors. Dr. Dimm took the property at his own risk, without guarantee of expense and carried it forward for twelve years. When the enrollment reached 150, the name was changed to Susquehanna University, many improvements were made and the institution freed of debt.

Dr. Dimm was pensioned by the Carnegie Foundation lately and now lives retired here.

Treat Gall-Stones Without Knife

Avoid Dangerous Operation by Using Lohmann's Gallstone to Free Yourself of Gall-Stones
This medicine has been employed successfully for years. Numerous letters from grateful former sufferers attest its result-getting qualities. It is positively unfair to yourself to undergo a painful, dangerous and often useless operation until you have found out what Lohmann's Gallstone can do for you.

An operation only removes the stones that have already formed. It doesn't correct the conditions that cause them, and therefore another operation may shortly be necessary. Lohmann's Gallstone is designed to not only remove the gall-stones (by dissolution), but to correct the kidney, liver and bile conditions that cause them. Hence, its remarkable success.

Which will you do? Will you risk your life and many dollars for an operation, or will you risk one dollar for a package of Lohmann's Gallstone? Which is the wisest?

Naturally, you will prefer the latter. So get a package today. Don't wait until another hideous attack of gallstone colic grips you. For sale and recommended by George A. Gorgeas.

Dalmatian Man Immersed Four Hours in Icy Water

Special to the Telegraph
Dalmatia, Pa., April 4.—On Saturday afternoon Edward Dreihelb, night watchman for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, came near losing his life in the Susquehanna river. He was rowing along the shore where the current was very swift and the boat capsized, throwing him into the water. He remained in the icy water for four hours, calling for help. Hope was almost gone when John and Oscar Schlegel heard his cries and came to his assistance. It was some time before they could get to him, as the current was very swift, and it was at the risk of their own lives, but they finally succeeded in rescuing him in an exhausted condition.

Maude Adams in "The Little Minister" Coming Next Week

Maude Adams is to be seen at the Orpheum Wednesday, April 12, when she will enact Lady Babbie in "The Little Minister." This is an announcement that should be greeted with pleasure by all lovers of the theater in this city. It was as Lady Babbie that Miss Adams made her bow as a star and her portrayal of the role brought her fame and a following that has become larger each season until now she stands in a little niche in the public regard that is all her own. "The Little Minister" was the first of the Barrie plays to win great success in this country. When originally given in New York it established a record for the length of a continuous run. It was the intention of the actress to give the play for three weeks in New York this season. His success was such, however, that all her plans were upset and the play was given for over two months. Those who are familiar with Mr. Barrie's work will not be surprised to find her eager to see again this play, but not any more so than the admirers of Miss Adams who had no opportunity of witnessing the work during its early runs. The comedy is staged with Miss Adams' usual good taste and care, and that it will be welcomed along with its charming star is a certainty.

Urges Adoption of Social Center Idea in H'b'g

How the community's social condition could be improved by the adoption generally of the social center idea on co-operative lines by the schools, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. was explained last evening at a regular meeting of the Social Workers' League.

A report on the problem had been compiled by a committee composed of Miss Mattida Hiestor, Miss Mary W. Miller, Miss Emilie Lett, E. F. Weaver, Dr. H. R. Wiener and John Yates. The committee visited a number of cities and investigated. Copies of the report will be distributed among the interested social worker organizations of the community.

HEALTH

When Health Breaks the cause is often found to be improper habits of living—principally wrong eating.
Many foods, especially white flour products, lack certain necessary mineral elements, phosphate of potash, etc. These valuable energizing elements are abundantly supplied by the field grains, but thrown out in the milling process to make the flour white.
The delicious, pure, easily digestible food,

Grape-Nuts

made of whole wheat and malted barley, supplies all the rich nutriment of the grains—including their vital mineral elements—most necessary for both mental and physical health.

"There's a Reason"

Grocers everywhere sell Grape-Nuts.

LADIES HERE'S A CHANCE TO FIND OUT ALMOST ANYTHING

No Men Allowed at Tomorrow's Matinee at Majestic When Leona Lamar Will Answer Any Questions

"That girl certainly must have a thousand eyes," remarked a demure little woman yesterday as she left the Majestic Theater. "She answered the question I was thinking of, all right. I think it's wonderful."
This woman had asked Leona Lamar, "the girl with a thousand eyes," nothing, so far as the audience could tell. She simply had the query in her mind.
"There is a woman dressed black, she is 51 years old, and her name is (calling the woman's correct name), Leona began.
The little woman felt a thrill.
"She is wondering about her eyes—will she have to have an operation?"
And as Leona went on and described the trouble the woman had had with her eyes, the little woman shook her head that Leona was right and sat in amazement as Leona completed her story and prophesied of how the woman would have to undergo an operation.

This is a sample of the way Leona answered hundreds of mind questions yesterday. At each performance she had her audience mystified.
The theater management announces that Leona will be retained in Harrisburg the entire week. To-morrow afternoon the performance will be for ladies only and they can ask personal questions to their hearts' content. Thursday afternoon those in the audience who care to consult Leona personally will be invited to the stage. She will meet you outside of the theater. On Friday afternoon Miss Lamar will answer all questions that have been written at home and brought to the theater in sealed envelopes.—Adv.

BELGIUM AND GERMANY BROUGHT TO THIS CITY BY PETITE ACTRESS

She of the naughty eyes in "Madame La Presidente" at the Regent To-morrow and Thursday.

Overhead the Zeppelins circled, the roar of their engines melting into the general disorder, tiny white sheets of paper fall twirling through the air to the ground at the foot of a few thousand villagers of Tildonek, bearing the frightful message that within three hours the vanguard of the great Prussian drive would come abreast the little town and that surrender they must. Three hours later the population of that Belgian village heard the roar of musketry in the neighborhood, loud and louder boomed the guns and then the stream of Tildonek started. First from the side streets they came, bundles on their shoulders, dog carts loaded with children and household effects, and with that struggling stream of panic-stricken Belgians was Mile, Philippine Artois, a Belgian actress. A few months later she became recognized in this country as a woman well qualified to show a realistic picture of her own experiences. Last December she returned to Belgium for new material and had occasion to meet the high officials of both military and civil authorities. Her accounts of her own experiences with the to-day occupy the center of the stage in this awful drama are worth hearing. It may be explained that Mile, Artois has two brothers with the Belgian troops at the front. Last night she stood her poignant regret at having to leave Belgium without knowing how they fared.
Mile, Artois recites a tale of how one Belgian mother had wrapped her child in a bundle before starting on the journey to Antwerp, 16 miles away. Together with the bundle in which the child was sleeping were many other bundles of clothing and food stuffs. After walking a few miles on the crowded roads the mother chanced to look at the blanket in which the child slept and to her horror the little fellow had slipped out. The mother became frantic and despite the pleadings of her fellow refugees turned back in search of the child. She knew the German army was not many miles behind, but she started post haste to recover her youngster. The little troupe in which Mile, Artois was traveling to Antwerp continued its erratic way. A day later they were overtaken by a second group of fleeing Belgians who related the story of how the mother walked until she reached the front lines and then the German army was many yards ahead of her to one side of the road stood a commissary wagon and nearby a bearded man surrounded by fellow soldiers. She pantingly rushed up to them and gestured her loss. Without a word the bearded one solemnly led her to the commissary wagon and inside, very much alive and sound asleep, on the rough floor of this vehicle lay her lost offspring half covered with the gray army coat of her enemies.

"The American Flag for me," proudly says Philippine Artois. Mile is to appear in Harrisburg at the Technical high school auditorium on Thursday afternoon and evening, April 4, under the auspices of the American Red Cross. Tickets are on sale at Rose's, Second and Walnut, and Boher's Drug Store, Market street.
In addition to showing a collection of articles in Harrisburg, the actress will relate on the issues that are vital before this country so far as Belgian and German conditions are concerned.

GRADE CROSSINGS CLAIM 94 DEATHS

Startling Showing Made in the Report of Commissioners' Investigator

Ninety-four of the 592 persons killed on the railroads of the State in the last six months of 1915 lost their lives at grade crossings and of this number thirty-four were occupants of automobiles, according to the report on accidents on the railroads and electric lines of the State issued to-day by John P. Dohoney, investigator of accidents of the Public Service Commission.
The report shows a total of 592 killed and 4,869 injured on steam railroads and 98 killed and 1,552 injured on electric lines. The figures show an increase of 29 railroad fatalities and a decrease of 220 persons injured as compared with the last half of 1914. There were ten more killed on trolley lines and a decrease of 288 injured on the same railways as compared with the last six months of the preceding year.
Railroad fatalities included 185 employees, 4 passengers, 229 trespassers and 105 others, the latter class including the grade crossings. Two hundred and twenty-eight persons were injured at grade crossings. The grade crossing list shows an increase of 33 killed and 67 injured over the figures for the same period in 1914. Thirty-eight of those killed at crossings were pedestrians, 20 in wagons and 2 on motorcycles.
Fourteen occupants of automobiles were killed in grade crossing accidents on high speed electric lines.

ALL NOT WELL IN KESHER ISRAEL?

Another Injunction Problem to Be Threshed Out in Court Thursday

Once again all is not quiet and smooth and peaceful in the congregation of Kasher Israel synagogue.
Once again the differences of the factions headed respectively by David Goldberg and Meyer Gross are due to be aired in the courts.
Thursday has been fixed for the hearing and the question which will be left to the judge to decide is whether or not the injunction should be permitted to interfere with the holding of services at the synagogue by the Goldberg party.
Gross is contended by the Goldberg represents the new regime. The latter say they're afraid they can't hold services, however, because of the injunction and accordingly obtained an injunction to restrain the other crowd from starting anything. And on Thursday, the court will argue on the question of making the temporary injunction permanent.

ALL WRONG
The Mistake Is Made by Many Harrisburg Citizens
Look for the cause of backache. To be cured you must know the cause.
If it's weak kidneys you must see the kidneys working right.
A Harrisburg resident tells you how.
Mrs. Myrtle Rodgers, 1412 North Green St., Harrisburg, says: "I had been troubled off and on for several years with kidney complaint. At times it came on without warning and then I suffered something terribly from my back. There was a dull, constant ache through the small of my back, and it got so weak I could hardly straighten when I bent over. The kidney secretions also caused me a great deal of annoyance. In the morning when I got up, there were puffy spots under my eyes and dropsical swellings appeared in my feet. I first used Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Kennedy's Drug Store a couple of years ago and since then I have had but very little trouble. When I do, I get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they never fail to relieve me."
Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Rodgers had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.
