FRUIT BUDS NOT ALL DESTROYED

Dr. Surface Tells How They May Be Tested and Work Done For the Summer

Reports made to the Capitol about damage to fruit tree buds are so conflicting and inquiries so numerous

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription ointment—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of ointment—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength ointment as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Advertisement.

From Costive Bowels, Weak Vitality, etc.

that State Zoologist H. A. Surface, of the Department of Agriculture says that it is an easy matter for any interested persons to answer the question for himself according to the locality in which he may live, as the killing of fruit buds this year is decidedly local.

"In some portions of a county practically all of the peach buds may be dead, and in other portions of the same county most of them may be alive at the present time," says Dr. Surface. "What may answer for one region may not be true of another. By personal examination the facts can be learned with ease.

"There is a mistake in the popular notion that it is possible to tell the condition of all fruit buds at this time of year. The possibility of diagnosis applies only to the buds of the stone fruits, or peaches, plums and cherries. Of these varieties the fruit buds are very large and rounded, and the leaf buds are small and pointed. By cutting across the large, round and conspicuous fruit buds it is possible to see if the center is green or brown. If green, it is certain that the bud is all right; but if brown, it is dead. The proper way to do it is to examine the buds of different twigs on the same tree, and on trees in different portions of the orchard. Keep a record of the number examined, the number good and the number dead. When one hundred have been examined these numbers are the equivalent of percentages, respectively, and a statement can safely be based upon such an examination and count.

"It will be found that peach buds this year in elevated regions where they kept cold during January, are mostly alive; but where it was warm during that month, and especially in lower ground, they are killed. The crop in general this year will be very short compared with that of last year. There are several regions from which reports have come to the effect that they are entirely destroyed.
