Militia Lobby Is Feared by Army Bill Sponsors

New York, April 10.—The direct charge that the National Guard has a lobby in Washington, which is apparently well supplied with funds and which is playing pernicious politics with the question of national defense, is the outgrowth of an investigation, according to the American Defense Society. Henry L. Stimson, ex-Secretary of War, in reply to a letter addressed to him by the society asking for his opinion of the propaganda now being spread by the National Guard Association of the State of New York, said:

"It bears on its face evidence that there is a lobby of National Guard officers at work in Washington; that their energies are primarily devoted to obtaining pay, and that their chief interest is in the pay of the higher officers of the Guard."

the public as well as the press. There are two endings, a tragic and a happy one, Miss Ulrich being in favor of the latter, and if public opinion feels the same way about it, she will be given a machine. Pretty soft for her!

At a recent Actors' Fund Benefit Dinner, held in Los Angeles, the lights were suddenly dimmed and the spotlight flashed upon the fair Myrtle Stedman, and in honor of her birthday a big procession came promading from the kitchen bearing aloft a huge birthday cake. "Anyone guessing the number of lighted candles on the top will receive a gold finger nail by addressing the West Wind," says the waggish visitor.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Herewith are given some IMPRESSIONS, by Julian Johnson, of a number of prominent motion picture stars, reprinted by permission of Photoplay Magazine:

BILLIE BURKE—An Irish rose upon a Scotch thistle; every young reporter's "beautiful woman"; there was a little girl and she had a little curl, and—and she grew up.

HARRY WATSON—China seen from the outside; Pewter statue of Unpopularity; Municipal Politics; a Farewell has relief; Caught without a Navy.

JOHN BARRYMORE—A Balkan Prince raised anonymously in Fifth Avenue; the popular American Hero who fixes added Europe; the matter of the de-king of Mexico.

CHESTER CONKLIN—Wreck of a husband crushed in a bargain sale; the legendary gentleman discovered in the ballroom without his pants; our Foreign Policy.

LOU TELLEGEN—Lochner in a bathtub tie; every man's one moment in some woman's imagination; the only being she sees in the last chapter.

LOCAL THEATERS

"Pollyanna"

"Pollyanna," the optimistic magnet that attracted a hundred thousand people to the theater in Philadelphia, will be at the Orpheum to-night and to-morrow night. Her laughter, good cheer, hopefulness and kindly impulse are created by the young heroine of Eleanor H. Porter's books and Catherine Chisholm Cushing's healthy-minded comedy. Always and everywhere she finds cause for gladness, and proves a dynamo of optimism, throbbing with enthusiasm and flashing out wireless messages of joyous good cheer. "Pollyanna" is for universal enjoyment and understanding. Upon the stage, as in the stories, it has appealed equally to grave men of affairs and perplexing activities, and to womankind, young and old. It blends a love story with abundant comedy incidents and finds cordial welcome at a period when people seek the theater to escape the morbid and somber things of every day life.

Maude Adams

When Maude Adams brings her delightful company to this city to present after more than fifteen years, her most notable play, "The Little Minister," she will likewise present a new leading man in the role of Gavin Dishart, beloved by all who have seen the play in the past.

Dallas Anderson, who plays this role with Miss Adams this season, is himself a son of Scotland. He has long been identified with American plays, however. Last season he was the leading player with B. Iden Payne, the celebrated English producer, at the Little Theater in Philadelphia, and the year previous occupied a like position with Mr. Payne at the Fine Arts Theater, Chicago, following his successful engagements with Madame Simone and other New York favorites.

It was in the most important spectacle of "Joan of Arc" that Mr. Anderson had made his first association with the delightful little actress who has so frequently been voted "the most popular actress." In this notable play, produced at the Harvard Stadium with a small army in support of the imperishable leader, Mr. Anderson played the role of the Dauphin, and this play he won high artistic renown.

Billy (Single) Clifford Coming

Billy (Single) Clifford, the comedian, is headed this way. He has been seen in his merry, laugh-creating vehicle, "Walk This Way," at the Orpheum Theater on April 13 for two performances.

This clever play is a musical satire in which the central figure is a rollicking young Englishman. Naturally he gets himself into all manner of scrapes and his actions at this time furnish many a hearty laugh.

Another Lasky juvenile production, one that is declared to be just as entertaining as "At the Majestic" is going to be seen at the Majestic Theater during the "Kiddies' Burglar" first three days of this week. This newest attraction of vaudeville's most popular producer is called "The Kiddie Burglar," abounding in good comedy and songs. To Master Ted Warwick is entrusted the leading role. He has the assistance of five other little folks, comprising both girls and boys, and two grown-ups, and all of them sing and frolic through the playlet in a manner that is quite infectious. An added head-line of the bill will be vaudeville's most laughable animal attraction, known as Everest's Monkey Hippodrome. This aggregation of monkeys are trained to do a series of circus stunts with plenty of comedy on the side, and their fun takes place in a stage setting that represents the inside of a circus. There is a monkey orchestra, monkey audience and monkey performers. Hickville Minstrels, an aggregation of comedy trillers, are also among the big turns. Bernard and Myers, man and woman, offering a clever song and comedy skit, and the Three Arthurs, cycle thrillers, will complete the bill.

When H. B. Warner, the noted English actor, who is starred in "The Raiders" at the Orpheum, and a new "Triangle-Kay Bee Feature," appeared in "The Ghost Breaker" in his Here in "The Ghost Breaker" and "Another Role" in a Chicago newspaper reporter was sent to him to ask "very personal question, to wit: "Do you wear a corset?"

Realizing that the question was asked in good faith, the actor took the interrogation good naturedly and, stripping off his coat, proved that his slender waistline was of nature's own making.

The new Triangle release affords an interesting comparison of intellectual and sex-man methods brought into counterplay to achieve the same ends. Hallemann, one of the largest brain powers in the world of intricate finance, is shown to be powerless when held prisoner by two armed men bent in his ruin.

Dorothy Dalton is the very fascinating woman in the case. At the Colonial to-day.

There are only a very few young men who have attempted this extremely unconventional form of introduction, among them John Barrymore, who thus wafes his way into the friendship of Helene, the Princess of Okam, in the Famous Plays Film Company's presentation of "Nearly a King," in which the celebrated comedian is starred on the Paramount Program at the Regent Theater to-day and to-morrow.

Having thus been thrust into the presence of the lady by a terrific storm at sea, Barrymore attempts to cover his embarrassment and his pajamas by seizing a quilt. But unfortunately, it is the same quilt with which Helene is attempting to cover her own embarrassment, hides the fortune in the rag doll and is discovered by a thief, who kills Horton. People arrive and the thief escapes without the doll. Dimples is taken South, where she in after years falls in love with Robert Stanley. Robert's fortune is just about to be swept away when Dimples discovers her fortune in the old rag doll. She saves Robert from ruin and as a happy ending they are married.

There are many ways of meeting a girl for the first time. One of them is to slide into her stateroom in the middle of the night while arrayed in pajamas, seated securely, if not very comfortably, on your steamer trunk.

The announcement was made this morning by City Health Officer Dr. J. M. J. Raunick that children will not be debarred from Harrisburg theaters this week. There seems to be some doubt as to where the kiddies can go nowadays, with the measles so prevalent, and the announcement will undoubtedly be received with pleasure.
