SAYS BOROUGHS NEED FEWER COUNCILMEN

A burgess, two councilmen and a business manager, who should be a civil engineer. With the business manager, Mr. Fuller said the council could be made an administrative body purely and that all details could be handled by the business manager. Boroughs over 10,000, Mr. Fuller said, should become cities of the Third class. The speaker believes that a change in the present form of borough government can be brought about by an amendment to the present Borough Code. He declared he understands that it will require much preliminary work in educating the people to the advantages of this plan, but said that it will be fought only by the politicians who thrive on ward government and partisan politics. Mr. Fuller is anxious to have the matter thoroughly discussed by the convention and then carried before the Legislature in 1917.

Reducing Death Rate
 C. W. Webbert, represented Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, State Commissioner of Health, and he told of what the department is doing to reduce disease in the boroughs of the State. By the use of figures, Mr. Webbert showed how, within the past few years, the death rate due to typhoid fever, has been greatly reduced. He recommended the naming of efficient men on the boards of health of the various towns and said that he already understood that municipalities, as a rule, have a hard time getting good men to serve. This should not be so, he said, for the health board is one of the most important in any town and men in all walks of life should be glad to take an active part in securing good health regulations and enforcing them in a community. Mr. Webbert stated, too, that local boards should pay more attention to the so-called diseases of childhood and enforce the quarantine laws on all contagious and infectious diseases. He also urged the boroughs to work in harmony with the State Department and cited one instance where a school board refused to test the authority of the Commissioner of Health while an epidemic was given an opportunity to spread. He said the board of health in the town requested the school board to close the schools for a few days. The school directors refused and then the State Department of Health issued the order. Again the directors refused and when questioned they said they only wanted to test the commissioner's authority. In the meantime the epidemic was spreading.

Uniform Regulations
 Uniform regulations for boroughs was discussed by Horace W. Davis, a deputy attorney general and borough solicitor of Sharon. Mr. Davis favors the immediate burning of all the ordinance books in Pennsylvania and in their place the substitution of five or six major ordinances which would apply to every borough in the State and the passage of several others which would apply locally.

Hugh Reber, of New York City, was another speaker at the morning session and he told of the system of accounting in New York City, which could, to a certain extent, be applied to the boroughs of Pennsylvania.

Joseph T. Tracy, of Ohio, municipal supervisor of inspection and supervision of Public Officers, in that State was another speaker who urged uniformity and system in the boroughs of Pennsylvania.

Charles Walter, Borough Solicitor of Chambersburg, was chairman of the meeting this morning.

Afternoon Session
 At the session this afternoon the first speaker was W. D. B. Ainey, chairman of the Public Service Commission who talked on the "Relation of the Public Service Commission to the Boroughs and Their Duties." Mr. Ainey was followed by W. W. Hall, Borough Solicitor, of West Pittston, who talked on "What is the Most Difficult Question Confronting Your Borough?" Following the addresses there was a round table discussion and then the by-laws and constitution of the organization were brought up for ratification. The election of officers was the last thing on the program for the afternoon session. This evening the delegates will be received in the Governor's Room at the Capitol by Governor Brumbaugh.

Tells of Building Code
 E. A. Weimer, of Lebanon, president of the building code commission of Pennsylvania, was the last speaker at the session yesterday afternoon and he talked of the code which will be presented at the next session of the Legislature for passage. Mr. Weimer pointed out some of its advantages, saying that by State law no porches or bay windows would be permitted to be constructed over the building line. Fire plugs, too, would have a uniform sized outlet, according to the code, so that when flames necessitated the calling out of fire companies from other towns, no difficulty will be experienced in making proper hose connections. Fireproof walls between every two houses in a row will be another feature of the code and the measure will also provide for safety partitions in homes.

Proposed Borough Code
 Another speaker late yesterday afternoon was Nelson McVicker, of Allegheny county, who helped frame the borough code. He talked of the history of that measure and gave a number of interesting facts pertaining to the measure. Among other things he said:

"The borough code means to the boroughs of Pennsylvania, that they now have in one book, a clear, full, complete, logical and systematic general statute law relating to boroughs, easy of reference, so that the citizen, borough officer, solicitor or judge may find the law with comparative ease.

"The future policy of the State in relation to borough laws, should be to make all accessions to the present law, or changes thereof, a part of the code, until the conditions require the enactment of a new code. This is necessary in order to prevent a repetition of the uncertain and confused condition of the law which existed prior to the enactment of the act of 1915. Also, it may be wise, to bring the boroughs operating by virtue of local charters, under the code, so that we may have all boroughs governed by the same general system of law."

POSSUM RESULTS IN MAN'S ARREST

State Dairy and Food Agents Capture Man in Philadelphia With Bad Food

Numerous arrests for violation of the cold storage and wholesaler food laws were made during the month of March according to a summary of the work of the agents of the dairy and food division of the State Department of Agriculture issued to-day. In one case an opossum which was offered for sale in Philadelphia was found to be fit only for a by-product plant and the merchant who had it for sale was fined. Over fifty arrests were ordered in Allegheny, Blair, Lawrence, Washington and Westmoreland counties for sale of "blood" systems. Seven arrests were made in other parts of the State for the sale of milk not only found to be against the State standards of fats, but actually unclean. Cotton seed oil preparations sold under the name of lard got a number of people into trouble in Philadelphia, where arrests were also made for the sale of cold storage eggs not properly marked.

The receipts of the bureau amounted to $3,787.61 during March, making a total of $256,888.63 since January. Of the receipts $1,880.11 came from oleo licenses.

These agents take samples of the various fertilizers and watch that none are being sold that are not registered with the State. Samples are taken in every section of the State by the field force of fifteen men and these samples are forwarded to the Department of Agriculture chemists for analyses. All fertilizers are registered under certain guarantees and these guarantees must also be stated on the container. Where the analysis does not show that the guarantee is sustained prosecutions follow. The same method is used with lime products and every method is used to prevent deception in the sale of inferior products to the farmers of the State.

Saylor, of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau, will hold a hearing in the Workmen's Compensation Board rooms, Masonic Temple, Harrisburg, Friday afternoon, April 14, on the claim filed by F. D. Mr. Cunningham the Same.—Word was received this morning that the condition of Highway commissioner Cunningham was about the same and that his physicians insist, on rest and quiet.

Officials Reappointed.—Governor Brumbaugh at 1 o'clock to-day announced the reappointments of James E. Roderick, Hazleton, as chief of the State Department of Mines, and of Nathan R. Buller, of Pleasant Mount, Wayne county, as commissioner of the Department of Fisheries. The appointments are for four-year terms subject to confirmation by the State Senate.

Mr. Roderick has been head of the Mines Department since 1899, when he was named chief of the Bureau of Mines by William A. Stone, then Governor. In 1902, when the Bureau became a department he was named chief and has been reappointed at the expiration of each four-year term. Commissioner Buller became the executive officer of the Department of Fisheries in 1911.

Class Here.—Members of the industrial engineering section of the senior class of State college, who are on a tour of the industrial plants of the State to-day inspected the Capitol and Harrisburg works and were given an address at the Capitol by Commissioner of Labor and Industry Jackson. The students left later in the day for Philadelphia, where they will visit a number of industrial establishments.

Justices Named.—Governor Brumbaugh to-day appointed these justices for Allegheny county: George C. Blair, Wilkensburg; W. W. Hewitt, Edgewood, and William L. Douglass, Elizabeth township.

Jitneys in Trouble.—The Public Service Commission announced to-day that complaints to the number of 55 had been filed by the Wilkes-Barre railway company against operators of jitneys in Wilkes-Barre and that the operators would be required to answer. Protests against issuance of certificates of convenience to a number of jitney operators in Luzerne and Lackawanna have also been filed and will be heard here and at Wilkes-Barre, Brindle and Weir, Ashland, have filed a complaint with the commission alleging that Joseph Young is engaged in the lighting business in that community without authority from the State. (Continued From First Page.)

championship by the Boston Red Sox last October closed the season of 1915. In the interim the Federal League abdicated to organized baseball and there followed a general distribution of the independent league players among major and minor circuits of organized baseball.

Following this reconstruction period, new interests bought into the big leagues in Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis, Boston and other points and strenuous efforts were made to strengthen a majority of the sixteen major circuit clubs. In some cases the teams were virtually made over with the result that on paper at least, they appear far stronger than a year ago and all indications point to well-balanced and hard-fought pennant struggles in both the American and the National League.

A number of former big league stars who had cast their lot with the Federals will again be seen on major league diamonds, in addition to several players who will be recognized among the numerous recruits tried out by the independent organization in the American League Lee Magee, "Germany" Schaefer, Cullop and Gedson will wear New York uniforms, while Deal, Crandall, Hartley, Chapman, Plank, Gosom and Borion will play for St. Louis.

The consolidation of the Chicago National and Federal League Clubs gave the Cubs a number of former Federals as was the case in St. Louis where the American and Federal organizations doubled up. Under Manager Joe Tinker the following players will wear Chicago National uniforms: Yerkes, Hendrix, Willis, Stanton, Zoller, Flack, Brown and others. The New York Giants will show Benny Kauff, Rousch, Rariden and Anderson on their roster. Hal Chase, a former American League star will be back in the big circuit, playing first base for Cincinnati.

In addition two famous stars will be seen in new uniforms. Frank Baker, former star of the Athletics, will play third base for the New York Americans, while Tris Speaker, long a member of the Boston Red Sox, will play with Cleveland.

Speaker Signs, Will Get $30,000 For Two Years

Cleveland, O., April 12.—Tristram Speaker signed his contract with the Cleveland American League club at noon to-day and will appear in the line-up this afternoon in the opening game. Details of the contract were not divulged.

The contract is for two years. The only announcement made by the Cleveland club was this:

"Speaker has signed his contract. He signed it as he wanted it." It could not be learned whether Speaker obtained the $5,000 he sought last night as a bonus. His demands at that time were for an amount, said to be $12,000 a year, and $5,000 of the price paid to Boston for his purchase. It is believed, however, that Speaker will get close to $30,000 for his two years' work.

Pimples Sores and Ulcers are the outward sign of Disease Laden Blood

Diseases of the skin are entirely caused by poisons in the blood. You cannot cure a skin disease until the poisons and impurities in the blood are removed.

The use of salves, ointments and other local applications on pimples, ulcers, boils, abscesses and other skin eruptions, may give a little temporary relief, but the poison that causes them is still in your system and will break out on the surface again.

You must go to the root of the trouble and remove the cause—impurities and poisons in the blood.

The artificial lives we lead are conducive to bad blood. The system is unable to throw off the impurities and poisons that accumulate. The presence of this underlying trouble is proved by the sores that break out in the skin and which cannot be permanently cured by local applications.

S.S.S. is a remedy that acts through the blood entirely. It removes the poisons and impurities that cause the skin troubles. The healthy blood then nourishes the flesh tissues and cures the diseased spots.

S.S.S. has been curing ulcers, sores, pimples and other skin troubles for half a century. It contains no harmful drug. It is purely vegetable, being a scientific extract of certain native roots and herbs.

Should your trouble be particularly malignant, write to our Medical Department for advice.
