PROOF OF GOOD FAITH WILL BE ASKED

showed no disposition to let the Mexican situation postpone action on the submarine question. The administration considers the German note practically shows that a submarine attacked the Sussex. The president and the cabinet are understood to have agreed that the presentation of the facts shall be accomplished by a definite and final demand for evidence of Germany's good faith and observance of her guarantees, but probably will be accomplished by no time limit which properly could be described as an ultimatum.

Evidence in Sussex Case and Several Survivors Reach N. Y. on St. Paul

New York, April 14.—Guarded by Sir Charles Allom, of the British Foreign Office, the evidence in the Sussex case which has been gathered for the American State Department arrived here to-day on the American Line steamship St. Paul. It included affidavits of the survivors and was part of an exceptionally large amount of embassy mail, including twenty big sacks. The affidavits are those gathered by attaches of the American embassies in Paris and London. Among the St. Paul's 586 passengers was Edward S. Huxley, of Englewood, N. J., president of the United States Rubber Export Company of this city who was a passenger on the Sussex escaping unhurt. Mr. Huxley, after confirming previously cabled news dispatches regarding the attack on the Sussex, stated positively that from the hour that the vessel left the British shore until the moment that she was attacked and for nine hours thereafter not another vessel was sighted except the destroyer which came to the rescue. Mr. Huxley made this assertion in connection with the text of Germany's note of April 19 to the State Department citing an attack by a German submarine on an unarmed vessel in the vicinity of the Sussex at the hour when the latter met with mishap. Mr. Huxley also said he was positive the Sussex was carried no ammunition. The German note declared that a "violent explosion" on the ship which was torpedoed warranted the certain conclusion that great amounts of munitions were aboard. When he and other passengers were in the junior officers' room on board the rescuing destroyer, Mr. Huxley said a warrant officer, who had talked with the captain of the Sussex, declared that the captain had said he had seen the wake of a torpedo. Mr. Huxley showed a letter which he said had been written by Captain Thomas Carroll, a French officer, at Boulogne, France, in which Captain Carroll said: "I have just helped take from the poor Sussex beached nearby the body of a woman with a piece of a German torpedo embedded in her stomach."

MAKE WHOLE CITY RIOT OF COLOR

care of the river bank, let the private homes become little centers of missionary work and start out by having window boxes of the brightest, gayest blooms which our climate grows. It is missionary work—for beauty makes for righteousness. "Beauty is truth, truth beauty—that is all we know on earth, and all ye need to know." So Keats tells us in his "Ode to a Grecian Urn." No poet of our language or any other language sings of beauty without identifying it with religion. "O, Beauty, old yet ever new!

Eternal Voice and Inward Word," sang Whittier, the Quaker poet—to whom beauty and God were synonyms. Shame In Our Neglect.

It is a shame to us of Harrisburg that with a city so wonderfully located we have so long neglected to do our small individual part in beautifying our city in the simple ways within the reach of all. Let us not, like St. Augustine, discover too late the value of this great asset that Nature so lavishly offers us. "Too late, I love thee, O Beauty in thy ancient days, yet ever new! Thou wert with me, but I was not with Thee!" You will observe that the poets capitalize Beauty and the pronoun that follows further announces that they think of her as divine.

The Poets and Beauty. Keats, speaking of the solace of Beauty in a world of woe and darkness, says:

"Some shape of Beauty moves away the pall From our sad spirits . . . * * * such are daffodils With the green world they live in." Our intensely religious Emerson wrote:

"He thought it happier to be dead. To die for Beauty, than live for bread."

Every window box that adds a touch of beauty to a street will be a point of contact with the divine; an influence that makes for righteousness. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and an epidemic of window boxes would help to put our hospitals and jails out of business.

Let us have window boxes at every home before we send another dollar to the heathen—they can worry along with their false worship at least that long—until we have done this little thing that will mean so much to our civic life.

Municipal Dance Hall Expert to Lecture Here

Miss M. S. Hanaw, social worker in charge of the municipal dance hall of Baltimore, will lecture on "Municipal Dance Halls" Monday night at 8 o'clock in the assembly room of the Public Library, Front and Walnut streets. The lecture is open to the public and is free.

A survey of this city will be made by Miss Hanaw before the lecture and possible suggestions for proper entertainment of the young working girls and boys will be made during the lecture. The Social Workers Club, which is bringing her here, will entertain her during her stay.

Belaguered British Force in Kut-El-Amara 128 Days; London Fearful

London, April 14.—The morning papers express some apprehension regarding the situation of General Townshend at Kut-El-Amara, although it is unanimously affirmed that Wednesday's Turkish official communication is greatly exaggerated.

As to the size of the beleaguered force there is no certain information. According to a statement made in parliament the division originally under General Townshend's command was supplemented by other troops when it advanced on Ctesiphon. But his force had since been diminished by at least 6,100 casualties.

LET CONTRACT FOR BLAST FURNACE

have the new stock completed by January 1, 1917.

Explains New Plans

In explaining the plan for the proposed blast furnace expansion, General Manager Bent said that it is proposed to have the new battery start with the present No. 5 furnace, which hereafter will be known as "E" stack and which the battery which hereafter stacks respectively consist of Nos. 3 and 4 furnaces; the "E" stack for which contract has just been let, and another stack to be built later and which will be known as "A" furnace.

To Abandon 1 and 2 Stacks

When this battery is completed the pig iron producing part of the big steel works will be a compact unit, and the arrangement of the separate units in a continuous line will facilitate production.

As this battery of furnaces is completed the plans of the new management call for the abandonment of Nos. 1 and 2 furnaces which are now separated from the other units by considerable space.

Lebanon Stacks as Speigel

It was also announced by General Manager Bent this morning that the second of the Pennsylvania Steel Company Lebanon furnaces was blown in April 5 on pig iron and that this stack began to make Speigel iron, yesterday. Speigel is a brand of iron different from the regular pig iron and is used for special purposes.

The pig iron made at the Lebanon furnaces is shipped to Sparrows Point, Md., and to the local plant.

Try this easy way to clear your skin with Resinol Soap

Bathe your face for several minutes with Resinol Soap and warm water, working the creamy lather into the skin gently with the finger-tips. Then wash off with more Resinol Soap and warm water, finishing with a dash of clear cold water to close the pores.

Do this once or twice a day, and you will be astonished how quickly the healing, antiseptic Resinol medication soothes and cleanses the pores, lessens the tendency to pimples, and leaves the complexion clear, fresh and velvety. If the skin is in bad condition through neglect or an unwise use of cosmetics, apply a little Resinol Ointment* and let it remain on ten minutes before the final washing with Resinol Soap.

*Resinol Soap contains no harsh, injurious alkali, and is not artificially colored, its rich brown being entirely due to the Resinol balsam in it. Sold by all druggists and dealers in toilet goods.

*Physicians have prescribed Resinol Ointment for over twenty years in the treatment of skin and scalp affections.

JOHN HARRIS HONORED

John Harris, of Harrisburg, was to-day appointed a notary public.

NOW it's time to take care of your health. Don't postpone it. Do it now and be on the safe side.

Winter weakens most constitutions; impurities accumulate in the system, the general health suffers, and there is always need to cleanse, strengthen and protect the body against disease. After the ravages of winter, the safe, sure and best way to recover strength and vitality and to put your health in good order is to take which speedily arouse the dormant liver, regulate the sluggish bowels, carry out impurities from the blood, stimulate the organs of elimination, improve the appetite and aid digestion. They do this in a gentle, natural way, for they are a vegetable remedy and do not contain any violent or harmful drug. Beecham's Pills are mild, but they are effective and dependable. Their cleansing and tonic action is most beneficial at this season of the year, when the blood is apt to be impure and the general health debilitated or exhausted. Now is the time to pay heed to health. If you want to feel at your best, let Beecham's Pills help you. Sixty years' use has proved their value in helping a run-down condition, and to strengthen the system.
