"A Pair of Silk Stockings," the well-known English comedy by Cyril Hartcourt, will reopen the Adelphi Theater in Philadelphia on Easter Monday.

LOCAL THEATERS

Thurston, the Magician
Thurston is generally regarded as "the" magician of his day and generation. This celebrated artist will close his local engagement this evening, with a company of twenty-three people and two cardinals of effects.
Thurston is a Yankee boy, beginning his career in a small town in Ohio, where he went to a public school, doing simple little tricks with cards, coins and a high hat for the mystification of the neighborhood. The idea of furthering and evolving it all into an art, making money, making friends and making people laugh and wonder, came to him. The magician was a great man in his day; Keller ministered to thousands, made a big fortune and retired from business in honor of Thurston and Thurston is still at it, playing to-day to capacity audiences everywhere.

Blanche Sweet, one of America's foremost photodramatic stars, will be seen in "The Blacklist" to-day and to-morrow in "The Blacklist" Jesse L. Lasky production of "The Blacklist," the thrilling drama of social conditions.
"The Blacklist" is a daring indictment of the working conditions of big corporations as they exist in many States. Vera is the daughter of a mine worker who is the head of Russian anarchists, contemplating the overthrow of the corporation. The little school teacher, after her people have been shot down by the mine guards for refusing to work under the conditions of the "Blacklist," changes the entire policy of the great corporation and brings the president to her feet.
Supporting Miss Sweet is a cast of unusual excellence, headed by Charles Clary, the distinguished American actor.

"Merely Mary Ann," Israel Zangwill's stage drama, which has been produced in photographs in "Merely Mary Ann" play by William Hitts Vice Fox, gives an excellent trade of the cadet as practiced in the world's largest cities. This excellent Fox picture, which features Vivian Martin, one of the prettiest stars in the Fox studios, will appear at the Colonial Theater to-day and to-morrow. The story of the play deals with Mary Ann, a country girl, who goes to work in a city boardinghouse and who is subjected to the attentions of Sid, dance hall habitue and cadet.

In the photoplay, to preserve the modesty of Mary Ann, the camera is conscientiously kept from showing her face, however, there are only too many thousands of cases which utilize in this fashion. Concentrated attack and capitalized force has recently been begun in various cities; hence, "Merely Mary Ann" is a timely portrayal of a world-wide problem.
The same program will be a funny comedy in two reels, featuring Billie Ritchie (Chaplin's double).

AT THE VICTORIA
To-morrow House Peters will be shown in "The Hand of Peril." This feature was booked for last week, but through some error in the booking office the management was compelled to present another picture in place of it.
The combination of a brilliant actor, noted picture star and master director, has seldom been used to greater advantage than in "The Hand of Peril." The story is by Arthur Stringer, whose tales of mystery and crime detection are widely known. The star is House Peters, one of the most natural screen actors in the country, and the picture was directed by Maurice Tourneur.
The most fastidious will find much to entertain and amuse them at the Majestic, or there is splendid music and plenty of good comedy. Popular selections are rendered by Dunbar's "Salon Singers," the headline attraction, and the Lester Trio present a comedy playlet entitled "The Bathroom Mystery," that is full of good laughs. Godfrey and company, who introduce some new parodies on some later popular songs. For the last half of the week the Six Kirksmith Sisters, an Orpheum headliner, will occupy the headline position at the Majestic's bill. The Kirksmith Sisters have a refined instrumental and singing act that is greatly enhanced by beautiful staging and costumes. Josephine Davis, singing comedienne, who appeared at the Orpheum last season, will also hold an important place on the bill. With a good voice, and pleasing personality, there is little doubt that Miss Davis will meet with much success this season just as she did last season. Clarke and Gerard, man and woman, in a comedy skit entitled, "Modern Vaudeville Proles," and two other standard acts, will complete the bill.

SENATE VOTES
250,000 ARMY
Will Produce Total of 1,000,000 Men; Instruction in Schools Is Provided
By Associated Press
Washington, D. C., April 19.—The army reorganization bill, passed by the Senate last night, went to the House to-day, where a conference probably will be asked for on the measure.
The bill is a substitute for the Hay bill passed by the House and as finally approved without a record vote would produce regular army and reserve forces in the United States aggregating a million men.
The bill differs radically from the measure passed by the House. On that account it is regarded as practically certain that a conference will be called and that work of perfecting a new army measure would begin promptly.
An amendment making the army's peace strength 250,000 instead of 180,000, as provided in the bill as framed by the military committee, was adopted, 43 to 37. 22 Republicans and 21 Democrats voted for it. A proposal to make the figure 150,000 previously had been rejected, 66 to 13.
Reserve Planned From Schools
Another amendment adopted would create a reserve regular army force in time of war to be composed of school and college youths, and to provide a means of recruiting the proposed volunteer army force. The proposal, submitted by Senator Hardwick, was agreed to, 54 to 24.
Senator Hardwick's amendment provides for military instruction by commissioned army officers under direction of the Secretary of War in every school and college in the United States having 100 or more male students over 15 years of age, when authorities of such schools apply for such instruction and the requisite number of students agree to accept the training and to become a part of the reserve force of the army of the nation. Application for the training would be purely voluntary, but all students over 18 years old receiving training would be subject to a call to the colors by the President in time of war or threatened war during their training term.
Term of Enlistment Shortened
The Senate also agreed to an amendment reducing the proposed term of enlistment in the regular army from seven to five years, and the proposed term with the colors from four to two, thus giving each enlisted man three years in the regular service.
An amendment by Senator Reed prohibiting enlisted men from leaving their posts to engage in any civil pursuit for hire or otherwise when it would interfere with the employment of civilians was passed.
Upon motion of Senator Thomas an amendment was adopted making it a criminal offense for civilians with certain exceptions to wear an army uniform or to refuse admission to places of public entertainment to enlisted men in uniform. Another amendment adopted would require adjutants general of the National Guard to be residents of the State or Territory for which appointed.

FOODS

Amazing but Rarely Suspected Truths About the Things You Eat.
(Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)
CHAPTER 47
Tuberculosis So Frequently Accompanies Maternity Because of the Unnatural Effort of the Mother to Live, Before and After the Birth of Her Child, on Refined Foods. The Feeding of Horses For Vitality and Strength and the Feeding of Cows For Milk Production Teach the Human Family Lessons Which Are Disregarded at the Expense of Mother and Child.
The average physician, whether ordinarily interested in food or not, becomes peculiarly aroused during the gestation and lactation period of his maternity patients and the convalescent periods of all his patients.
In the gestation period the fetus acts as a mineral parasite. If the mother's diet at this time is deficient in the mineral salts or bases demanded by the developing embryo, the deficiency is made up at the expense of her own tissues, cartilage, bones and teeth, with a corresponding loss of vitality both for her and for her offspring.
Of all the tragedies due to the ignorance of what food is refined this tragedy is the most grim and depressing.
The elaboration of milk during the lactation period without a proper supply of mineral elements which are always found in milk is followed by the same dismal consequence. Here, during these two most sacred periods of woman's life, when the normal human heart goes out to ministering mother in reverence, nature is actually asked to operate without the materials essential to the accomplishment of her purposes, and so she who supports the heaviest burden of life pays toll to folly in the form of misery and pain.
Referring to the abstraction of calcium salts from the mother's blood by the fetus as the cause of the rapid progress of tuberculosis, Drennin, in the American Journal of Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children, in 1913, reports that inasmuch as pregnancy and lactation both deprive the mother of lime salts there is consequently less lime for the process of calcification of the tuberculous areas in the lungs. This, therefore, accounts for the frequent rapid course of tuberculosis after pregnancy, increasing after every successive pregnancy until the woman generally succumbs after the third.
During the re-establishment of functional activity following wasting disease a deficiency of these common elements, the mineral salts, bases and vitamins of natural foods, means not only slow recovery but permanent injury, depending entirely upon the extent to which the refinement has been carried on.
Weston P. Chamberlain, Major Medical Corps, United States Army, cites the conclusions of Wellman, who clearly indicate that the foods upon which prospective mothers, nursing mothers and convalescents are most frequently asked to subsist, such as gruels, broths, porridges, farina, rice, corn starch, tapioca pudding, white toast and similar types of demineralized grains, are inadequate.
Wellman reports that fowls fed by him developed polyarthritis on a diet of foods such as corn starch, Louisiana molasses, corn grits, cream of wheat, boiled sweet or Irish potatoes, sago, macaroni, white bread, biscuits and stuffed rice. These are typical forms of the refined foods of high caloric value now extensively consumed throughout the United States, not only in the homes of the common people, but in sanatoriums and hospitals as well.
In the case of sago, boiled potatoes and corn starch, the symptoms of paralysis occurred sooner than when the fowls were fed on raw, highly milled rice, showing that the mere milling of rice in itself is only one of many other food abuses which pave the way to disease.
In view of these facts he declares that it is absurd to legislate in the United States against polished rice, unless action is also taken against patent flour, deaired barley, refined rye, demineralized corn starch, demineralized glucose, demineralized sugar, etc., all of which refined foods are used even more freely in the diet of the American family than polished rice.

Wellman's findings in regard to white bread are of special interest in connection with Little's reports regarding the occurrence of beri-beri or progressive malnutrition in Labrador among people who, at certain seasons live almost exclusively on white flour bread of the refined type imported from Canada and the United States.
Funk refers to the many recent discoveries in regard to the importance of certain minute quantities of certain substances in the food, the lack of which entails disturbances in metabolism.
He says, "These special substances may be destroyed by leaching out and by boiling; by carrying desiccation too far, especially in food for cattle, and by discarding the outer cover of grains, especially rice, corn, wheat and rye."
The conclusions of Funk are elaborately confirmed by many experiences in the feeding of horses for vitality and strength and the feeding of cows for milk production.
In an examination of a number of dairies in New York State and several in St. Louis, at California avenue and Arsenal street. She set herself up in business with part of the $3,000 she received from a railroad company for the loss of her leg twenty years ago.

SIMPLE WAY TO END DANDRUFF
There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.
By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.
You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft and look and feel a hundred times better.

TO END CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES
If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your drug store and get 1 ounce of Parmit (double strength), and add to it 1/2 pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.
This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Any one who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Dig Up Body to Look For Money in a Wooden Leg
St. Louis. — Charles Koerner of Detroit, will have the body of Miss Elizabeth Hauck exhumed at Alton to look for money which he thinks she may have concealed in her wooden leg. When she died, September 15, $700 was found in her clothing. Koerner, who was her guardian, thinks she must have had more money than that.
Miss Hauck was 35 years old. She was formerly in the millinery business in St. Louis, at California avenue and Arsenal street. She set herself up in business with part of the $3,000 she received from a railroad company for the loss of her leg twenty years ago.
