PETER DELIVERED FROM HIS PRISON

Story of His Adventure Contains More Sensations Than a Nickel Novel

The International Sunday School Lesson For April 30. "Peter Delivered From Prison."— Acts 12: 1-9

(By William T. Ellis.) "Action! Action! More Action!" is the demand upon story-tellers, playwrights and public speakers.

A Never Failing Way to Banish Ugly Hairs

No woman is immune to superfluous growths, and because these are likely to appear at any time, it is advisable to always have some delatone powder handy to use when the occasion arises.

crowded with sensations than a nickel novel. Its scenes range from a king's palace to a prison dungeon; and from a gory field of execution, where a saint's head had rolled on the ground, to a sheltered prayer meeting in the home of the mother of a saint, celebrated author. A king, an angel, two apostles, a group of devoted women and some slain soldiers all figure in the narrative.

be saved if the Christian Church awakens to help. So we may not become so engrossed in these martyrdoms of two thousand years ago, as to ignore the greater ones of yesterday. Equally marvelous have been the deliverances. Just as James died and Peter lived, so a million Christians have perished, and another million have come through alive.

The whole brotherhood felt the blow at their members. Peter in prison was the object of continual supplication. As the Record runs, "Prayer was made without ceasing of the Church unto God for him." That is the proof of the reality of religion; the finest fruit of Christian fellowship. As says the familiar hymn: "We share our mutual woes, Our mutual burdens bear, And ever for each other flows The sympathizing tear."

continual prayer for their leader who was in prison. That was not the sort of prayer meeting that grows restless if it lasts even five minutes past 9 o'clock. It is a beautiful glimpse of a church in a house that this narrative gives us. As we see in this "colt-ledge prayer" meeting, when it comes to praying, the women may be counted on. How constantly Christian women have been driven to prayer. That was a fearful, solemn meeting held in Mary's house.

one of the most heretical doctrines ever cherished by Christians, namely, that a thing could be "Too good to be true." As had Peter's attitude toward the visit of the angel, so was the state of mind of these Christians. They did not have faith enough in their own prayers, or in the prayer-answering God, to believe that what they wanted most could really come to pass.

of the miracle to justify his own lack of prudence. The soldiers who let him escape were executed in the interest of discipline. The whole story set Jerusalem by the ears, and the Church was given one more illustration of the Master's message, "Have faith in God." Be sure to ask the druggist for the refined avatol.—Advertisement.

Easy to Keep All Teeth Pearly White

It will be found quite easy to keep the teeth white, shining and free from discoloration by brushing them daily with refined avatol. This is much more satisfactory than the usual tooth powders and creams. Not only because avatol is free from elements which might injure the enamel or cause the gums to shrink, but because it will really clean the teeth, removing even the most obstinate stains and deposits.

At All Good Grocers

While the prisoner slept the angel came. Startled, he must have rubbed his eyes, assuming that the summons to death had arrived. Not always do God's angels come in this fashion to deliver His people from their manifold prisons. A few years ago, some Korean Christians were in prison for their faith. A missionary on furlough in America told at a dinner table how these simple-minded Christians were sure that God would send His angel to open their prison doors, and He did; for partly as a result of that very conversation there began an elaborate and far-reaching propaganda on the part of Christian Americans to free the Korean Christians by the power of public sentiment, and this was done. We cannot always recognize the messengers of heaven in the providences of God.
