The mob charged the gates leading to the mill and was driven back by deputies. Reforming a little farther down the street it made another rush and attempting to scale the fence was met with a volley from the guards' revolvers. This halted the rush and again the crowd retired.

Sheriff Richards at once conferred with State officials, asking that the National Guard be ordered to the disturbed section to-night.

OUT OF MAMA'S CLUTCHES INTO HANDS OF POLICE

City Detective Nips Elopement Plan in the Bud at 3:35 Train This Morning

ON WAY TO PITTSBURGH

Didn't Raise Her Girl to Wed a Ball Player

The mother of Miss May Steubenhaus, the pretty New York girl arrested here while eloping to Pittsburgh, consented to her marriage to her "Lochner" on condition that the young man quit playing baseball. David Hochreich, the prospective bridegroom last season played for the New York State League. On agreeing to quit the ballfield for the laundry business, "Mamma" gave her consent to the ceremony which will take place.

Just when they thought that they had escaped the clutches of "mamma," Lieutenant Wetzel, of the city police force, stepped on the train arriving in this city from New York at 3:35 o'clock this morning, and nipped in the bud the elopement plans of a happy couple by placing the husband under arrest on a charge of abduction at the mother's telegraphic leading.

Leaving New York City at 11:30 last night, David Hochreich, of Pittsburgh, and Fay Steubenhaus, 333 Beck street, Bronx, New York, started for Pittsburgh to be married, so they told the Harrisburg officers. "Dear Mamma," however, learned of her daughter's flight and shortly after 1 o'clock telegraph wires running into the city told the story. Neither the pretty little blonde or the handsome young man made any denial when questioned by the officers.

"Mother wants me to marry a horrid man in New York, and I don't want to, so David and I just left. We were going to get married in Pittsburgh," the girl declared, "and then mother spoiled it all." She wouldn't tell the name of the "horrid" man.

Mr. Hochreich told the police that he and his father were in the steam laundry business in Pittsburgh, and that the wedding was to take place to-day. Both claim that they are 21 years old, but are being held pending the arrival of the girl's mother.
