STATE WILL SUE FOR MILLIONS

Supreme Court Decision Gives It Authority to Enforce Insane Maintenance Act

The State of Pennsylvania will be able to recover millions of dollars from estates or relatives of insane persons.

For three years special deputy attorneys general have been engaged in looking up cases of persons committed to insane hospitals as indigent and there are hundreds of cases where it is claimed that the State can recover.

John Hyatt Naylor, of Philadelphia, has been in charge of this work. Marshall's Return.—State Veterinarian C. J. Marshall, who is expected to land today in New York after his visit to the battle lines in Europe.

new Ruling Made.—The State Industrial Board to-day announced that for the purpose of applying the child labor act miners under eighteen may not operate elevators or do acetylene welding.

Board to Meet.—The State Compensation Board has announced a meeting for Philadelphia on Thursday and in Pittsburgh next week. It will meet here on the twenty-fifth.

Meeting to-day.—The State Industrial Board is meeting in Beaver Falls to-day. William Young, the new member, took his seat to-day.

Returned From Visit.—Chief James E. Roderick, of the Department of Mines, has returned from an inspection visit to the north coal field.

Supreme Court.—The calendar for the Supreme Court session here will include a number of the State tax cases from the Dauphin county court.

Asking Pardon.—Charles Mollera, of this county, is asking pardon from a sentence of from two to four years for using a pistol. Mollera got into trouble in this city and alleges that when men burst into his room to throw him out of his boardinghouse that his revolver accidentally went off.

Death Warrant Withdrawn.—The death warrant in the case of H. E. Miller, Westmoreland, was withdrawn to-day, the Supreme Court having awarded a new trial. Application was made for commutation of the death sentence of Andrew Bezze, Westmoreland.

Takes Over School.—Dr. J. George Becht, secretary of the State Board of Education, to-day completed the transfer for the State to acquire the Bloomersburg State Normal School property, making the eighth normal school to be taken over by the Commonwealth. The State gets a property valued at almost half a million dollars for which it pays $10,000 and assumes debt of $120,000. The State already had an equity in the property.

Commission to Meet.—The Public Service Commission is scheduled to hold an executive session to-morrow at which it is likely that some action will be taken regarding the general rule for jitney regulation. Applications for certificates are coming in at a lively rate and protests are also accumulating. Luzerne and Blair county cases are held under advisement.

Food Agent Arrests.—Agents of the State Dairy and Food Commissioner swooped down on Philadelphia merchants to-day and arrested for the sale of rooktail cherries which were found to be doped and arrested for sale of milk not up to State standards. Arrests were also made in eastern counties.

Governor's Plans.—Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh, who will return to Harrisburg from Erie late this afternoon will leave to-morrow for Lebanon where he will attend the dedication of the new armory and then go to Reading for a night speech. He will tour Montgomery and other eastern counties the rest of the week, closing in Lackawanna.

Big Bonus.—The largest bonus on increase of capital stock paid to date in a long time came to-day from the Harrison Bros. & Co., Inc., of Philadelphia. It amounted to $2,333.34 for a million dollar increase.

Receivers Complain.—Receivers of the Pittsburgh-Westmoreland Coal Co., operating in Western Pennsylvania, to-day filed complaint with the Public Service Commission against the rates of the Pennsylvania railroad for hauling coal which are to become effective May 17.

Pardon Board List.—The State Board of Pardons to-day closed the list for the meeting which is to be held on May 24 instead of May 17. There are twenty-nine new cases and nine applications for rehearing.

P.A. EDUCATIONAL LEAGUE IS FORMED

Grew Out of Rotary Club Idea; to Better School Conditions

At a meeting of the Pennsylvania Educational League held last week, Dr. Samuel Z. Shope of 610 North Third street, this city, was elected president.

This new organization is composed, not of teachers and school authorities, but of busy men engaged in commercial and professional pursuits.

The objects of the Pennsylvania Educational League are: To endeavor to arouse business and professional men to a proper interest and co-operation in our public schools and institutions of higher education in Pennsylvania.

To work assiduously for every bit of proposed legislation, State and national, designed to elevate the standard and increase the efficiency of American Educational Institutions.

By this it will appear that the new organization does not encroach upon the field of the State Teachers Association nor that of any other association of educators but to bring businessmen in harmony and co-operation with these.

Outgrowth of Rotary Club. The league is really an outgrowth of educational activity in the Rotary Club. Last year in an address before the Harrisburg Rotary Club, Dr. Shope pleaded for more interest in matters educational.

He said, "The Harrisburg Rotary Club is interested in all things educational but are you individual members interested in the advancement of the educational interests of this city and community as you should be? For some years you have been paying taxes to be spent on educational work, but I venture to say that less than ten per cent. of you have been inside a schoolroom since the day your teachers and the school board graduated you just to get rid of you, or your permanent removal from school for one reason or other. You ought to get around to the school at least two or three times each year to encourage the teacher, the school and the pupil by showing that you are interested in seeing what you get out of those taxes. You would go fast enough if the school house were your factory, vineyard, cornfield, henry or pigsty. Your actions seem to prove that you do not realize that children constitute the one really important crop this country raises. I wish I could have had every one of you with me in Gary, Berkeley, Los Angeles and in Cincinnati in order that you would have been astounded as I was at the interest in education evinced by everybody. It would be difficult to find in any of these cities, a citizen who is not interested in and thoroughly conversant with the plans of education and progress of the schools of his city. School interest is displayed by every one—in office and workshop, store and factory as well as in the house. SCHOOL INTEREST is what needs to be aroused and fostered on the part of the citizens of Harrisburg."

Later he stated to the Rotary Club that the smaller colleges in this State are providing undergraduate instruction and training superior in some ways to that provided by greatly advertised universities and that it is the duty of the Harrisburg Rotary Club to demonstrate this fact to the public.

In accordance with a decision of the club, Dr. Shope persuaded Susquehanna University to present claims for recognition and the occasion was a success. In an address delivered to the Alumni Association of Susquehanna University and elsewhere he set forth the advantages that would accrue to the educational interests of this State by paying all the teachers adequate salaries TWELVE MONTHS in the year so that the teacher would not have to become a book agent three months each year but could follow postgraduate work and travel thus making himself or herself a more and more proficient instructor.

Further, having had to struggle for an education himself, Dr. Shope has always been ready to help the ambitious poor boy to a college education. In addition to his personal efforts along this line, he fostered a students' loan fund in each of two institutions of which he is a graduate. These two funds have helped many young men and women to realize their ambition who would otherwise have been denied the advantage of a college education.

Stimulated by efforts along the above lines, groups in several parts of the State have been operating along similar lines. From each of these groups committees urged the formation of a State association to inaugurate a united movement. This resulted in the organization of the Pennsylvania Educational League and Dr. Shope was elected president.

The League though but a few weeks old has several hundred members and, judging by the interest manifested in various parts of the State, it is not unlikely that before it is six months old it will have a membership of a thousand or more. Officers will apply for a State charter.
