withdrawal of American forces.

Warning Americans

The War Department had no report early to-day on another incursion into American territory at Blocker's ranch, near Eagle Pass, Texas. There were also no official advices that American troops had actually crossed the border in the Big Bend region, although it was believed probable that some had done so.

American consuls throughout Mexico have been instructed to again call attention of Americans to the State Department's repeated warning that this government regards their presence there as undesirable. Secretary Lansing has stated that ever since the present difficulty arose the department's agents have been urging Americans to leave. The last census of Americans in Mexico, taken by the State Department six weeks ago, showed less than 3,000 throughout the country. Most of them are near Mexico City and the extreme east and west coasts, few remaining in Chihuahua and Sonora.

west coasts, few remaining in Chi-huahua and Sonora.

Secretary Lansing said the new in-structions sent yesterday to the consuls to renew attention of Americans that the department desires to have them leave Mexico was primarily to secure reports regarding the result of their endeavors so far.

Upon General Obregon depends today the outcome of the negotiations between him and Generals Scott and Funston some days ago. Unless he signs the agreement entered into by him and General Scott or is prepared to make radical concessions, it appeared probable that the American representatives would indicate to Washington the uselessness of further parleys.

American consuls, under their original instructions to warn Americans from Mexico were authorized to leave their posts and return to the

"However, on the basis of the American material, the German government cannot withhold its conviction that the ship torpedoed by the German submarine is in face identical with the Sussex. for, in accordance with this material, the place, the time and the effect of the explosion by which the Sussex was damaged agree in the essential details with the statements of the German commander, so that there can no longer be any question of the possibility of two independent occurrences. An additional reason is constituted by the fact that officers of the American Navy found fragments of an explosive in the hold of the Sussex which are described by them upon firm grounds as parts of a German torpedo.

"Finally, the counter-evidence which was deduced in the note of the tenth was deduced in the note of the sub-marine commander and the only reproduction of the Sussex then available has proven to be untenable, inasmuch as, according to a photograph of the damaged Sussex now at hand, the characteristic distinctions no longer existed at the time of the accident; while the Sussex in the photograph of my Daily Graphic inclosed in the note only carried one mast and also showed the white gangway customary on passenger vessels on the level with the port holes O. On the other hand, it cannot be denied that, misled by the appearance of the vessel, under the pressure of the circumstances. he formed his judgment too hurriedly in establishing her character and did not therefore act fully in accordance with the strict instruction which called upon him to exercise particular care.

"In view of these circumstances, the German government frankly admits"

"In view of these circumstances, the German government frankly admits that the assurance given to the American government, in accordance with which passenger vessels were not to been adhered to in the present case. As was intimated by the undersigned in the note of the fourth instant, the German government did not hesitate to draw from this resultant consequences. It, therefore, expresses to the American government its sincere regret regarding the deplorable incident and declares its readiness to pay an adequate indemnity to the injured American citizens. It also disapproved of the conduct of the commander, who has been appropriately punished. "Expressing the hope that the American government will consider the case of the Sussex as settled by these statements, the undersigned avails himself of this occasion to renew to the Ambassador the assurance of his highest conzideration.

Railroad World Five years ago there was completed the most efficient transcontinental railroad building of history. This year witnesses an even more notable achievement—the placing of 440 miles of main line across ment—the placing of 440 miles of main line across the Continental Divide under electrical operation. Both master feats are the work of the same railway. Both master feats are the work of the same railway. It was "The St. Paul' that set a new mark in railway construction by building in the remarkably short period of three years, a new steel highway across the plains, mountains, uplands and valleys that lie between the Missouri River and Puget Sound. By a series of brilliant engineering triumphs the road pushed onward directly through the heart of the Rockies, Bitter Roots and Cascades. As a result "The St. Paul" is the shortest line between Chicago and the Pacific North Coast, and leads through the greatest extent of beautiful mountain scenery on the continent.

Again-it is "The St. Paul" that definitely ushers in the new era in railroading—the era of the electric locomotive. While such locomotives have been used on coal and ore roads, in tunnels and terminals—this is their first use in transcontinental service—hauling with ease the country's traffic over the vast ramparts of the Rockies, effecting great economies in operation eliminating all great economies in operation, eliminating all trouble from snow and cold, and making mountain travel clean and mountain vistas clear
