The Bureau, which has been in operation several months, was besieged with applications from manufacturers, contractors, farmers and others for labor within a week after it began business, the time being right in the midst of the period of industrial activity in every line.

GOVERNOR WILL CLOSE CAMPAIGN

Speaks Tonight at Scranton and Will Then Go to Home For the Primary

Governor Brumbaugh will close his campaign to-night at a big meeting in Scranton, arranged by Frederic W. Fleitz, former Deputy Attorney General, who claims that the Governor will run strong in the whole anthracite region. The Governor left Wilkes-Barre this morning and will visit nearby boroughs before going to Scranton.

All yesterday was spent in Luzerne county, the Governor making two speeches, at Hazleton and at Wilkes-Barre, but in neither did he refer to the charges made against him. Instead he made his plea for a reunited party and made references to Roosevelt which were heartily cheered. Congressman John R. K. Scott, who traveled with him, said that the Governor would not stand in the way of Roosevelt or any good strong man.

All through the speeches of the Brumbaugh party yesterday there was a pronounced Roosevelt leaning, which was well received in Luzerne which is a Roosevelt stronghold.

Dr. Brumbaugh said he is a candidate for the Presidency because he has a desire to bring all Republicans together under one banner for party success in November. He declared himself for the election of national delegates who are untrammelled, unbossed, unfettered and free to do the will of the people of Pennsylvania.

He had no apologies to offer for his candidacy. He asserted that by his every act as Chief Executive of the State he has stood for the best interests of the people generally and he appealed to his hearers to show that they had the nerve, the spirit and the conscience to rise like men and do their duty.

The Governor's Side.—The Governor said that if the Republican party is not reunited in November it will be beaten in 1916, and he stated "you are beaten before you start unless all Republicans and Progressives can get together under the one banner."

The Governor stood squarely on the issue of preparedness, saying: "We should have awakened at the first tremor of a foreign war to prepare to meet the emergency head on. We should have started then to make our army and navy as strong as the resources of the nation permit."

The Governor asserted that industrial preparedness was necessary to assure industrial strength after the present war. He said that the present prosperity of the country is founded on the misery of the European nations and that the strong high tariff wall of a united Republican party is the only assurance of a commercial salvation for the United States.

Through John R. K. Scott, the Governor himself to withdraw if the strong demand of the President of the Chicago convention was for another candidate. He said he was for a united party first, and selfish interest second.

Chairman Ainey, of the Public Service Commission, declared that the day had passed when "one distinguished gentleman can call himself the boss of the party." He referred to Governor Brumbaugh as a candidate with unselfish interest whose only purpose was to reunite the party and bring about a return of Republican rule in November.

The Penrose End.—The Penrose end of the campaign was upheld in Pittsburgh by Mayor Armstrong at ward meetings over the city speaking for the regular Republican candidates. Mayor Armstrong gave reasons for his political activity mixed in this any further to be taken ought to do when a President of the United States is to be elected, but some local gentlemen who are interested in Brumbaugh have spent $2,500 to post up handbills over the city, and I intend to speak my mind. The slanderous posters tell people to judge men by the company they keep. I know of the man who would be thought of as the national delegate because he knows me or because of anything I may have done for him. The issue is clear. It is Brumbaugh or Penrose.

Do you want as your leader a man of experience who has the business of our State and of the Nation as a theorist, the schoolmaster, who is running a lot of candidates for delegate who, if they go to the national convention, will go pledged and shackled?

laborers they have been able to secure, have been exerting every effort to finish the Spring program with which the weather conditions so seriously interfered.

New flights of steps from the upper park to the wall between Hardwood and Walnut streets have been completed; a new walk along the upper walk north of Hardwood street have been filled in; the grandstand on the island is being repaired and renovated; the walks along the river parks are being recovered with crushed stones and relined; in Reservoir the tennis courts are being prepared for service; the clubhouse is being overhauled; the Cameron parkway several new bridges are in course of construction while the steam shovel is biting its way into the new section of roadway just east of Reservoir; in Wildwood the new culvert has been completed in the big road and grading has made possible an effectual auto parking promontory at-top of the bluff overlooking the Lake; within a few days the Upper Wildwood road will be ready for service.

New Park at Twelfth Street.—The Twelfth street playgrounds incidentally are receiving a lot of needed attention. Tennis courts are being placed in service there while hundreds of tons of earth are being filled in along the southern side of Henry street. This is to serve a double purpose. It will provide room enough for a tiny park for those who may want to rest there and watch the activities of the playground at the same time the fill will prevent the washouts which have proved so disastrous when heavy rains sweep across the section. The little strip will be planted with trees and grass.

That the park season is on in earnest is indicated by the "picnic date" book at the park office. Already June 22 and June 29 have been scheduled for outings of the Fourth Street Church of God and the Lutheran Reunion respectively.

STANDING ARMY OF 206,000 IS INDICATED

cers and men. In this calculation, however, there are excluded 5,723 Philippine scouts, 5,409 in the quartermaster's corps, 239 in the medical department, 3,387 in the signal corps and 8,750 unassigned recruits, a total of 31,659. These added to the regular line of 175,000 men give a total regular army peace strength of 206,659.

The President is authorized to increase the regular army divisions to maximum strength without Congressional action.

Under the conference agreement the regular army would consist of 65 regiments of infantry, 25 regiments of cavalry, 21 regiments of field artillery, a coast artillery corps of 30,000 officers and men, a signal corps of 3,387 men including the aviation section, and seven regiments of engineers. In the aviation section the number of officers is increased from a total of 60 to 148, including one colonel, one lieutenant colonel, eight majors, 24 captains and 114 first lieutenants.

The organization plan contemplates taking the peace strength within five years as proposed in the original preparedness plans.

General officers of the line would be increased by four major-generals and 19 brigadier-generals. The general staff of the army would be increased from 34 officers to 52. The provision of the Senate bill which would have placed five officers of the National Guard in the general staff, was stricken out but provision was made for officers of the National Guard to be assigned to volunteer citizen camps in government pay. An effort to give volunteer citizens camp pay of enlisted men while in training camps failed.

A provision for vocational training for men in the regular army regulated by the Secretary of War, was left in the bill and the House proposed for government operation of nitrate manufacturing plants to cost more than $20,000,000 also was accepted.

Selection of sites is left to the President. The product of the plants when not needed in war time may be sold for fertilizer under executive regulations.

Authority for the government to seize and operate private plants for manufacture of munitions of war in time of need is given and the President is empowered to appoint a board of five men, two civilians and three army officers to investigate the advisability of establishment of government plants for their manufacture. The board would report before January 1, 1917.

The President is authorized to appoint a board to investigate the mobilization of industries in time of war. The regular army enlistment is fixed at seven years, three with the colors and four in reserve, but if enlisted men master military training in one year and wish to retire to the reserve they may be permitted, on proving efficiency and upon recommendation of superior officers.

Final agreement was reported on the long disputed measure after a short session of the conference committee. Another meeting will be held Monday to sign the report.

Disatisfaction has been widely expressed in Germany recently with the ministerial handling of the food situation as an outgrowth of which riots have been reported and there have been hints recently that the resignation of Dr. Delbrueck was imminent.

Medical "Exams."—Probably the largest series of examinations ever arranged by the State Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure will be held during July. The examinations for certificates to practice medicine and surgery will be held July 11, 12 and 13 at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and those for druggists therapy, chiropodists and dentistry will be held in the same cities July 11 and 12.

The State Dental Board will hold its examination at Philadelphia and Pittsburgh July 14 to 17.

Shad Propagation.—Every available man in the State Department of Fisheries service has been put to work securing eggs and shad propagation work on the Delaware river. It is expected to make extensive tests with the shad at the "Tortoise hatchery" this year. The taking of shad in the Susquehanna will be limited this year and will be started as soon as the Delaware work is over.

Test Law.—It is likely that some tests of the constitutionality of the State dog license act of 1915 applying to boroughs and townships may be started as a result of the determination of the State Agricultural and Game authorities to call for enforcement of the act which requires killing of unlicensed dogs. In several counties where the commissioners have declined to enforce the law there is a disposition to secure a test. It is estimated that if the law was enforced that it would mean the slaughter of thousands of dogs.

Wide Price Range.—Pennsylvania wheat has been selling at anywhere from $1.02 to $1.25 in the last six weeks, the high prices being secured in Elk county and only a little less in some of the adjoining districts, while anthracite and northern tier counties report $1.20 as the price. Counties in the Susquehanna and Juniata valleys report from $1.02 to $1.10 with $1.05 as the low rate in Washington county. These figures and some interesting data on potatoes are contained in the summary of prices from the Department of Agriculture.

Want Police Help.—State police have been asked to shoot dogs which are running wild and killing sheep in Washington county, the biggest sheep raising district in Pennsylvania. Local constables have been taken to task for killing the unlicensed dogs and the county commissioners have asked State police to help. However, the police are busy in Luzerne county on strike duty.

The Escheat Act.—It is probable that a time about June 1 will be fixed for arguing the escheat act of 1915, in which mandamus proceedings have been started against the Auditor General. The State is preparing to file an answer denying the allegations.

Compensation Rule.—State Compensation Board. Paul W. Houck yesterday in Pottsville, decided two cases against claimants, Henry George, who claimed compensation from the Walter Sanitarium for injuries sustained while hastening to work.

Compensation Saved.—More than eight hundred working men and women of Pennsylvania were killed and more than eighty thousand were injured in the course of their employment since the workmen's compensation law, passed by the last Legislature, went into effect January 1, 1916, according to a statement issued today. If these accidents had occurred before 1916, it is safe to say that in a great majority of cases the employers would not have been liable legally for damages because it was necessary to prove in court first that the employer was negligent; second, that the employe or any fellow-employe was not negligent; and third, that the employe had not assumed the risk of accident.
